DEFENSE PLEA FOR FATHER

Prisoner's Counsel Concentrates Fire on Paul Beattie's Evidence—Closing Arguments Begin This Morning.

CHESTERFIELD COURT HOUSE, Va., Sept. 7.—The jury which is to decide the guilt or innocence of Henry C. Beattie, Jr., accused of the murder of his wife while upon an automobile ride on Midlothian Turnpike last July, listened all day to-day to arguments and pleas of counsel for and against the prisoner. These arguments and pleas will be continued to-morrow, when the case will lie in the jury's hands.

The prosecution decided this morning not to delay the proceedings to introduce the testimony of a man who wrote that he had been an eye-witness of the tragedy and actually seen Beattie strike down his wife. The reason given was that the evidence was sufficiently strong without the additional testimony in case it proved to be authentic. The man who volunteered to give it was, it was said, in a distant Western city, whither, he declared, Beattie's threats had induced him to flee.

Hill Carter, attorney for the defense, concluded his appeal to the jury at sunset, after a five-hour speech, which had followed an unsparing denunciation of the prisoner by J. M. Gregory, assisting the prosecution. To-morrow, Harry M. Smith, Jr., of the defense, and Commonwealth's Attorney L. O. Wendenburg will close the argument. A verdict is expected some time during the night.

Mr. Carter unsparingly denounced Paul Beattie, cousin of the accused and principal witness against him, as a weakling and falsifier. At times he fairly shouted to the jury as he leaned over the bar, but when the day was drawing to a close his voice sank to a whisper of impassioned appeal.

For the Father's Sake.

"If you gentlemen of the jury," he said, in measured tones, "can within the sanctity of your oath prevent the pressing of the poisoned chalice to the lips of this aged father, his heart already bleeding from the stab of the dagger which took away a life; if you can, I say, spare him the son whom he loves so dearly, I ask you within mercy to bring in a verdict of not guilty."

The lean man of wrinkled brow and sunken cheeks who sat beside his accused son dropped his eyes and raised his fan to conceal the trembling of his lips and the quick gulps of emotion that followed. Young Beattie stared hard at the jurymen, his face waxlike and still. For a moment there was silence in the courtroom. Then Judge Watson looked at his watch, glanced through the windows at the long shadows on the green, and without further comment adjourned court until 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

The day began with the reading by Judge Watson of the instructions to the jury, in which attention was drawn to the frailty of the alleged confession of Henry C. Beattie, Jr., to Paul Beattie, and the manner in which it came—in jail from an incarcerated witness to the prosecuting attorney. Other points in Paul Beattie's story which related his conversations or meetings of the two cousins alone, unsupported by witnesses, were mentioned by the court as requiring a careful scrutiny.

Judge Watson added:

> Upon the trial of the criminal case by a jury the law contemplates the concurrence of twelve minds in the conclusion of guilt before a conviction can be had. Each individual juror must be satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt of the defendant's guilt before he can, under his oath, consent to a verdict of guilty. Each juror should feel the responsibility resting upon him as a member of the jury, and should realize that his own mind must be convinced beyond a reasonable doubt of the defendant's guilt before he can consent to a verdict of guilty. Therefore, if any individual member of the jury, after having duly considered all the evidence in the case, and after consultation with his fellow-jurors, should entertain such reasonable doubt of defendant's guilt as is set forth in the other instructions in this case, it is his duty not to surrender his own convictions simply because the balance of the jury entertain different convictions.

The prisoner listened intently to the reading of the instructions, and smiled when they had been concluded.

When the court convened Judge Watson had declared that counsel in the argument to-day might refer to portions of testimony "not fit for ladies to hear" and requested all women in the courtroom to leave.

Paints Beattie Very Black.

J. M. Gregory, who opened the argument for the prosecution, laid particular stress on the atrocity of the crime, the admissions of the accused himself on the witness stand as to his relations with Beulah Binford and his continuance of them notwithstanding his marriage and the birth of a child. The prosecutor appealed to the moral and religious sense of the jurymen, and spoke in bitter terms of the life of dissipation revealed in the testimony of young Beattie, his chum Sampson, and numerous other witnesses. The lawyer reviewed the details of the double life admitted by the accused while on the witness stand, and held forth Beulah Binford, the girl of the underworld, as the motive for the crime. He concluded with the question of how the gun bought by Paul Beattie on one day last July for his cousin happened to be the identical weapon, by the prisoner's own admission, that was used in killing Mrs. Beattie.

"The record in this case shows," he said, "that on a dark night, July 18, the soil of this county was stained by some assassin with the blood of an innocent woman. I believe I can show that no other man committed the crime but the husband of that woman, with the very gun you, gentlemen of the jury, have examined here. He was the only man seen on the spot that night, and he was armed with the same gun he has here identified."

Mr. Gregory reviewed the evidence of the boys who came from a dance at Bon Air the night of the murder, arguing that it was the prisoner they saw, and none other, crouching in front of the machine and a woman on the running board.

As to the testimony of Charles H. Kestleberg, who said it was he the boys saw on their way from the dance at Bon Air, Mr. Gregory said:

"Here is a man who on a drunken spree tries to tell us the hour he was on the Midlothian Turnpike, when he was on several roads that night with a woman dressed in white. And the boys, honest young men, tell us it was a different make of car they saw, and a woman dressed differently standing on the running board and the machine a mile nearer the crime. They tell us, too, the exact hour which corresponds almost exactly to the hour of the crime. I don't believe there is a man on this jury who believes a thing Kestleberg said."

Mr. Gregory frequently quoted Scripture and referred to Cain as the first homicide.

"Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., should have been the keeper of that devoted wife,"

CHEAPER CABLES IN SIGHT.

Deferred Messages at Half Rates Likely in a Few Months.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—In the report of the Pacific Cable Board, issued as a Parliamentary paper to-day, the following statement is made regarding the question of rates for messages not of immediate urgency, which the British Postmaster General some time ago announced would be taken up with foreign Governments:

"As a result of such measures a general agreement has been reached, and there is every prospect that within the next few months it will be possible for messages in plain language to be sent at half the existing rates, subject only to the condition that the transmission of them must wait for a period, not exceeding a twenty-four-hour interval, during which the cable is not in use for traffic at ordinary rates."

MOTOR TRUCK HITS AUTO.

Woman's Skull Fractured and She May Not Recover.

A heavy commercial motor truck, returning at a high speed from the Catskill Aqueduct, ran into a touring car containing a pleasure party at Amsterdam Avenue and 181st Street at 1 o'clock this morning. Tillie Hart of 334 West Fifty-fifth Street, one of two women in the car, sustained a fractured skull and internal injuries. Dr. Jacobs of the J. Hood Wright Hospital said there was little hope for her recovery. The other woman in the car left the scene of the accident without being identified.

Luther E. Dennison, who was driving the motor truck south on Amsterdam Avenue, was pinned underneath his own overturned vehicle and seriously injured. The motor truck is the property of the Pittsburgh Contracting Company of 3,785 Broadway. The touring car was going east on 181st Street when it was hit at the southwest corner of the intersecting thoroughfares.

The wrecked touring car was identified as the property of Louis Schilt, a clothing manufacturer, with a loft at 694 Broadway, who lives at 331 West 101st Street. He said the car had left his garage at 9 o'clock in charge of his son, David Schilt. Mr. Schilt said that he did not know who the other man in the car was. The police version is that the other man is another son of Mr. Schilt. After the collision Edgar C. Purdy, chauffeur of the touring car, who was badly cut, picked himself up and started to hunt for a physician, leaving the other members of the party grouped about Miss Hart. He met Patrolman Mahan after a search of several minutes. Mahan summoned the ambulance.

MURPHY'S AUTO MISHAP.

Tammany Leader Marooned in Middletown, Which Turns Out to See Him.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Owing to a collapsing spring under his big seven-passenger touring car, on which appears in big brass letters "Built expressly for America," Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy and P. F. Donohue, Treasurer of Tammany Hall, are anchored here to-night. Mr. Murphy, with Mr. Donohue as his guest, was driving out from New York this afternoon. As they spun along the State road east of Goshen the car struck a depression made by recent rains, breaking four ribs of a front spring. The bounce nearly pitched the occupants from the car, but neither Mr. Murphy nor Mr. Donohue was injured. The party drove slowly to this city and mechanics were put at work on the spring.

Middletown has a new hotel, a new city hall, a new post office, and a large theatre given over to moving pictures, all in one short block, and when the folks began to gather for evening mail and the show the word spread that the Tammany leader was at the hotel.

It was the first time local Democrats had a chance to see Mr. Murphy, and they made the most of it. The Tammany men finally took refuge in their rooms, while the crowd moved over to the other side of the street and watched the windows.

SAY BAER SELLS BAD EGGS.

President of Reading Summoned to Answer Charge Against Railway.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.—At the instance of Harry P. Cassidy, special agent of the Pure Food Department of the State of Pennsylvania, a summons to appear before a magistrate and answer a charge of causing the sale of bad eggs was served to-day upon George F. Baer, President of the Reading Railroad Company. A summons is served usually when an arrest is not desired. Mr. Baer will have a hearing before Magistrate Beaton on Sept. 14.

Mr. Baer, who returned from Europe only yesterday, appeared both shocked and surprised when the legal document was read to him. He at once called Agent Cassidy on the telephone and asked to be told why he had been summoned. When he was told he made no comment.

The State Pure Food Department alleges that the railway company sells bad eggs left on its hands by consignees. A test case was decided upon and the summons was secured for Mr. Baer's appearance.

TO TEST STOPPING OF TRAINS

Movement of Troops Was Delayed by Sunday Laws in Certain States.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—A grave question has been raised as to the right of a State to prevent the movement of United States troops by stopping railroad transportation on Sunday. When the camp of instruction was held at Chickamauga Park last year the arrival of the First North Carolina Infantry and the Third South Carolina Infantry was delayed by the South Carolina law prohibiting the running of special trains on Sunday.

A similar law exists in Georgia, and two companies of coast artillery moving by special trains from Mobile to Charleston were compelled to lie over at Augusta because of this law. Brig. Gen. Mills, commanding the Department of the Gulf, has brought the matter to the attention of the War Department with a view to such action as will prevent unnecessary delays in the troop movements.

It is possible that the matter will sooner or later be referred to the Attorney General and the Inter-State Commerce Commission to determine what course shall be pursued.

DEATHS WIDESPREAD FROM TOADSTOOLS

BOUGHT FROM HUCKSTERS

More Than Twenty Poisoned and Four Killed by "Mushroom" Sauce—Mushroom Exhibit in Bronx Museum.

Five new cases of death from eating the poisonous fungi known as toadstools in mistake for palatable and nutritious mushrooms were reported yesterday from Long Island, Westchester, and New Jersey towns, bringing the total deaths from this cause since the recent heavy rains up to a total of 19.

Besides the deaths reported more than a score of people who had made the serious mistake of eating the poisonous growths were sent to hospitals, and in at least one case it is regarded as certain that death will result.

The most serious results from a toadstool feast were reported from Mount Vernon, where Pietro Domingo died after he and sixteen others had been sent to hospitals from the nearby towns of Harrison and Rye, all victims of spaghetti stew spread over with "mushroom" sauce.

In Mount Vernon Giuseppe Vergerosa, 8 years old, died, after an illness lasting from Sunday. He picked the fungi in the woods and returned to his home desperately ill. Amelia Tenny, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Tenny, of 208 South Fulton Avenue, Mount Vernon, found some toadstools near her father's home and became seriously ill after eating them. Dr. Bryant attended her and expressed the hope last night that she was out of danger.

Of five members of the family of Philip Carbone of College Point, who were taken to the Flushing Hospital on Wednesday suffering from toadstool poisoning, one, August, 5 years old, died yesterday. Physicians at the hospital expressed hope that they could save the boy's father and mother and his remaining two brothers, all of whom are in a serious condition. The "mushrooms" which poisoned the family were purchased from an itinerant peddler.

In the Fordham Hospital yesterday morning Mary Di Salvo, 7 years old, of 2,423 Arthur Avenue, the Bronx, died after an illness lasting since Sunday. She is the third member of her family to die from toadstool poisoning within a week, the two previous victims having been Angelina, her sister, and Giuseppe Albonce, her grandfather. They served "mushroom" sauce at a birthday party for Angelina on Saturday. The mother of the two girls who have died is still in the hospital.

The total deaths reported in Paterson, N. J., yesterday was two, with another case in the General Hospital, where recovery is regarded as improbable. Mrs. Pidricho, the dying woman, is the wife of Alphonso Pidricho, who died on Wednesday, and the mother of Leima, who died on Tuesday. She is the only member of her family still alive. The toadstools eaten by the family were gathered at a Labor Day picnic in the woods.

Coroner Alexander Rooney of Kings County is investigating the death of Anna Wenzo, 20 years old, of 230 Van Brunt Avenue, Brooklyn. She died Wednesday evening and her death certificate was filed yesterday by Dr. Giovanni Buono of 218 Union Street. It gave the cause of death as "mushroom poisoning and heart disease." The Board of Health referred the certificate to the Coroner's office.

It was learned yesterday that the Wenzo family, consisting of the dead woman, her father, mother, and brother, had a supper of mushrooms on Monday evening. She ate more heartily than the other members of the family and was taken violently ill. The others felt some discomfort, and Dr. Buono was in constant attendance on them all Tuesday and Wednesday.

The "mushrooms," which are now believed to have been toadstools, were bought from a hawker of vegetables.

They are at work at the museum of the Bronx Park Botanical Garden making colored drawings of mushrooms, the edible kind, and the rank growth which is poisonous, and within the next few months these will be displayed in the museum in swinging frames, where all the world may go and study them. This work was begun before the recent deaths from eating toadstools were reported, but it was intended to prevent just such fatalities.

For the past three years a special study of mushrooms has been under way at the museum, under the direction of Dr. W. A. Murrill, Assistant Director who is a fungus expert. Prof. William J. Geis of the College of Physicians and Surgeons is consulting physician, and under him are two assistants, John L. Cantor, who makes experiments on animals with the fungus, and Ernest D. Clark, who makes the chemical analyses.

Dr. Murrill said yesterday of people who by mistake gather toadstools for mushrooms that they were either careless or grossly ignorant. The imitation mushroom which has played such havoc recently, he said, was the most deadly of its kind, and is known as the "death cup." It is fine looking, with the cap usually white, though it is sometimes dark; the gills on the underside white, and also the stem, the ring on the upper part of it and the cup on the bulbous base from which it takes its popular name. The poison of this bogus mushroom dissolves the corpuscles of the blood, and there is no known antidote for it.

"What the poor victims must have eaten," said Dr. Murrill, "was the Amanita phalloides, and they had no chance whatever after eating it in sufficient quantities. It is very common around this park, and it is common about New Rochelle and that vicinity. About the last of August the first of the Amanitas were beginning to come up, and it was too early for the field mushroom with the brownish cap and pink gills, for which it was probably taken. I have not seen it stated where the poisonous growth was gathered, but undoubtedly in the woods where the Amanita grows. The weather had been so dry that the people had not been able to get mushrooms of any kind, and then the heavy rains coming on sent up the Amanitas.

"No one should gather and eat mushrooms when he does not know exactly what they are. It should be as familiar as an apple or a pear.

"The fact that there have come to public notice an unusually large number of fatalities from a poisonous growth resembling mushrooms is due to conditions which at the present time happened to be favorable to the accidents. We have more demands for information upon the subject and specimens sent in to be identified than ever before. We have had many different varities of mushrooms sent us to be identified since these recent rains.

"There is not a large proportion of poisonous mushrooms in this vicinity, about two per cent. This might apparently vary at times, when the poisonous mushrooms happened to be in season and the good ones out. Among the poisonous mushrooms, those which would be most likely to be gathered are the Amanitas, already mentioned; the muscaris, which has a yellow cap, white gills, and a ring and

INVENTOR GEISEL STILL A BACHELOR

SHE HAS GONE BACK HOME

BASKING RIDGE, N. J., Sept. 7.—This village and the town of Bernardsville, a mile and half to the west, are discussing the fruitless efforts of Theodore Homer Geisel, an inventor and brother of the Rev. George M. Geisel of New York to get a minister to marry him and a young woman who came on from Sioux City, Iowa, purposely to do so and has gone back home unwed.

Mr. Geisel is putting the responsibility for his broken romance on the Rev. Dr. T. A. Conover, rector of St. Bernard's Church at Bernardsville, who refused to perform the ceremony. He also accuses Dr. Conover of advising other clergymen against tying the matrimonial knot.

Mr. Geisel has sent to the newspapers postal cards, assailing Dr. Conovor, and has mailed more than 1,400 other postal cards to Dr. Conover's flock.

Dr. Conover was in the Orange Mountains last night, it was said, at his house in Bernardsville, and could not be reached. He refused to perform the ceremony, he told the couple, because forbidden by the rules of his church since he did not know the young woman whom Mr. Geisel wanted to wed. Mr. Geisel's hostility is treated lightly by the clergyman's friends.

Miss Turner arrived here last Wednesday morning and that afternoon the marriage license was obtained. Next day, Mr. Geisel says, he met the Rev. Harold John, curate of St. Mark's Chapel, which is in Dr. Conover's parish, and he agreed to perform the marriage ceremony that afternoon. He asked a number of questions which Mr. Geisel says nettled him, and when he met the Rev. Thomas T. Crawford of the Methodist Church a little later he asked him to perform the ceremony. Mr. Crawford agreed, but withdrew his promise after learning that Mr. John had been asked too. Then Mr. John also declined. Mr. Geisel next sought Dr. Conover, and his refusal aroused the prospective bridegroom's anger.

"Dr. Conovor said he could not marry us because he did not know Miss Turner," explained Mr. Geisel to-day. "What he said made us both very angry, and we agreed that we would never get married until we had evened up the score with Dr. Conovor. Last Saturday Miss Turner returned to New York and took a train for Sioux City."

Postmaster Allen said to-night that a number of Mr. Geisel's 1,400 or more postal cards got by his mail clerks before it was discovered they were attacks on Dr. Conovor, but all that came after that were held up.

Charles Pfadenhauer, a contractor and one of the prominent men of Bernardsville, says he thinks Mr. Geisel a capable inventor. He says Mr. Geisel has invented a means of getting much better light from incandescent electric lamps, and that he purposes to back the scheme when it is a little further developed.

The Rev. Mr. Geisel, who was formerly curate at St. Mark's here, but is now assistant rector of the Church of the Holy Apostles, Eighth Avenue and Twenty-ninth Street, New York, says his brother is not to be taken too seriously when assailing Dr. Conover, who, he says, has the respect and confidence of every one in this place and Bernardsville, and is expected to be the next Bishop of the Diocese. His brother, he declares, is quite spiteful when crossed.

Mr. Geisel is the man who came into newspaper prominence last year through a scheme for building "God's Own Church" with one-dollar contributions. He said later that he had raised about $400, and that Mrs. Mary Harriman had contributed $150 of that sum. The whole scheme fell through, however, when Mr. Geisel let it be known that he expected angels to do most of the construction work.

MRS. McCORMICK EXPLAINS.

Canceled Dinner Because Mrs. Rockefeller Needed Her to Entertain.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 7.—Mrs. Harold F. McCormick gave an explanation to-day for canceling her 120 invitations to her dinner dance at her Lake Forest residence on Monday. An urgent letter from her mother, Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, telling of a houseful of guests and asking her to come at once and help to entertain them, Mrs. McCormick says, was the reason for coming to her town house on the lake shore at once. The abrupt cancellation of the invitations gave rise to various rumors. It was hinted that her retreat to her city home was merely to quiet any comment as to the cause.

"We had intended to give the dance and dinner very informally," Mrs. McCormick said to-day.

"Then I got the letter from mother to come to Cleveland at once, as she had a houseful of guests and needed me. She wanted me to come at once. So I decided to call off the dinner and come to town to get ready to go. I think all our invited guests to the dance thoroughly understand the reasons for canceling it, and know there is no mystery."

GOVERNOR AND AID AT WAR.

Colorado Executive Bars Lieutenant Governor from Acting for Him.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, Col., Sept. 7.—Barred from the Governor's office in the State Capitol by Gov. Shafroth's order, Lieut. Gov. Fitzgerald to-day declared that he would break it while Gov. Shafroth is absent at the New Jersey Divorce Convention.

The two have been enemies for some time. The feud became serious yesterday afternoon when the Governor was preparing for his trip to New Jersey. Lieut. Gov. Fitzgerald the nentered the Governor's office and announced that he would to-day occupy it and perform the duties of Governor until Shafroth returned. The Governor told him that he would do nothing of the kind, but the Lieutenant Governor in an address at Rockyford to-day again declared that in Shafroth's absence he would act as Governor, and if he was barred from the Executive offices he would call out the troops to get into them.

FRANCE WANTS US ON MOROCCO TREATY

Would Make United States a Signatory to New Convention to End Trouble with Germany.

SHE OFFERS MUCH TERRITORY

French People Likely to be Astonished at Concessions Proposed, but a Good Deal is Asked in Return.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, Sept. 8.—Germany's reply to the French proposals in regard to Morocco was given to Ambassador Cambon in Berlin yesterday afternoon.

Various suggestions are made as to the character of the reply, but no information that can be regarded as official has yet become public. The most general impression is that, while Germany signifies her assent to the French proposals in their essence, she raises points on which further negotiation will be necessary.

A diplomatic correspondent whose communication is conspicuously featured by The Daily Mail asserts that he is able to state the French proposals with greater precision than has previously been done. According to this account, the United States is directly concerned in the negotiations, inasmuch as she would be called upon to be a signatory to the formal treaty by which full liberty of action in Morocco is to be guaranteed to France.

According to this statement, the sacrifice of territory in the French Congo which France is prepared to make, though not so great as Germany demanded, is of such an extent that when it is known the French people will be astonished and perhaps exasperated; but compensation will be found in the conditions which the French Government insists upon in Morocco.

These conditions are not merely political, but also military, and they are to be embodied in a formal treaty, not with Germany alone, but with the Powers of Europe and with the United States.

The Franco-German agreement of 1909, it is added, acknowledges the political interests of France and the commercial interests of Germany in Morocco. That agreement Germany declares to have been broken by the military action of France in the Shereefian Empire. To renew it in its present form would be to invite a repetition of the Agadir incident at some future time. France is determined to avoid this danger. To this end it is proposed that the new agreement shall take the form of a treaty or convention signed by the Powers of Europe and by the United States.

If Germany consents, both Austria and Italy are prepared to follow her example, while Great Britain and Russia have already signified their approval. The terms of this proposed treaty are more precise than those of the Franco-German agreement of 1909. They acknowledge not merely the political interests of France in Morocco, but also her military interests. Any dispute as to the interpretation of this treaty would be referred, not to Germany, but to Europe and the United States.

France, it is stated, does not purpose to concede to Germany any rights, commercial, industrial, or otherwise in Morocco that are not possessed by the other signatories of the Algeciras act of 1905. The French Government, however, is prepared to renew in more definite form its undertaking to maintain the "open door" in Morocco and to give any necessary assurances and guarantees.

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—The French Ambassador, M. Cambon, visited the German Foreign Office late this afternoon and received from Secretary von Kiderlen-Wächter the draft of the German counter proposals to the revised proposals submitted by France last Monday regarding the Moroccan dispute. Last night's announcement that the German reply had been delivered to the French Ambassador was incorrect.

The officials of the Foreign Office have hopes that the counter proposals will be the means of promoting a settlement. The Government is keeping the draft secret and has asked France to do the same.

The counter proposals, it is the belief here, do not imply the rejection of any of the French suggestions, but indicate the acceptance of some of them and the modification of others.

RAMBOUILET, Sept. 7.—The Foreign Minister, M. de Selves, said at the Cabinet meeting at President Fallières's château here to-day that he had no communication of importance to make to the Cabinet relative to the negotiations with Germany.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 7.—The reserves are being kept under arms for an extra period of twenty-three days and naval manoeuvres are being carried out in the North Sea.

These measures, it is said, are due to Holland's anxiety over the Moroccan negotiations.

Woman's Bag Containing Them Is Torn Open in Deck Scuffle.

Special to The New York Times.

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 7.—A scuffle on board the steamer Beaver on Tuesday, while she was on her way here from San Francisco, is said to have resulted in the loss of jewels valued at $15,000, the property of George Primrose, the minstrel man, and Mrs. Adelia Russel, a wealthy Boston widow.

The scuffle, as described by a passenger, was due to the scampering of some tourists around the deck, interrupting Mr. Primrose's story-telling to his friends. In the melee Mrs. Russell's bag, which contained the jewels, was rent asunder and its contents were scattered overboard.

FOUND WITH A "MONA LISA."

Two Foreigners Arrested in Spain—They Declare It Is a Copy.

MADRID, Sept. 7.—The newspaper España Libre says that two foreigners have been arrested at Leon. They were carrying a basket containing a "Mona Lisa."

The men protested against their detention, asserting that the picture was only a copy of Leonardo da Vinci's stolen masterpiece, which they were taking to Coimbra, Portugal, where they resided.

Another press dispatch from Leon says that the two men were observed taking baggage from an automobile at the door of an inn on the outskirts of the city. A large picture attracted the attention of an observer, who, peering through an opening in the covering, thought he recognized the "Mona Lisa." He immediately informed the authorities, who lost no time in arresting the men and seizing the picture.

Quits New York Harbor for the Upper Hudson for Night's Rest on His Yacht.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 7.—The Jersey mosquitos drove J. Pierpont Morgan out of New York Harbor last night. Mr. Morgan was spending the night on his yacht, the Corsair, off Eighty-first Street, but the mosquitos became so unbearable that Mr. Morgan ordered the Captain to weigh anchor and steam up the Hudson to Ardsley. There the yacht anchored for the night.

This morning Mr. Morgan sent ashore for the New York papers. When the seaman was asked by a reporter what Mr. Morgan was doing at Ardsley, he said the mosquitos had driven him up the river. The Corsair steamed back to New York later.

BOMB BREAKS BANK WINDOW.

Exploded in the Basement of an East Side Tenement House.

A bomb was exploded before the banking and steamship office of Barracotto & Rizzom, 424 East Thirteenth Street, early this morning. The windows of the office, which is in the basement of a five-story tenement house, were blown in. Little other damage was done.

Patrolman Werner of the East Fifth Street Station was attracted by the explosion, which got several hundred persons from their beds, and detectives from Police Headquarters responded to his call. No arrests were made.

STORM HITS CHICAGO.

Many Craft Caught in Harbor—Crew of Capsized Tug Saved.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—One of the most violent storms experienced in many years struck Chicago harbor early to-day. Between fifteen and twenty launches, motor boats, and sloops were caught in the storm. One tug, battling against the giant waves in an effort to reach the freighters Lagonda and Christopher, lying a mile out, was capsized. Capt. McCleavey and his crew of five were rescued by lifesavers. The storm abated at daylight.

The greatest damage was done in the harbor of the Chicago Yacht Club and pleasure boats there were torn from their moorings and dashed about and several were damaged.

NO PATIENTS, STOLE.

Poverty Forces Pittsburgh Doctor to Take Horse and Buggy.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Sept. 7.—Admitting he was unable to make a living because there are so many doctors in Pittsburgh, Dr. A. B. Miller, testified in Police Court to-day that he had taken a horse and buggy and sold them in the hope of obtaining enough money to enable him to return to his parents at Ithaca, N. Y.

Dr. Miller said he was graduated from the University of Chicago in 1910, and had conducted an office here for nine months, during which time his receipts had been $4. He sold his office furniture and books to get money. Dr. Miller was well dressed, and declared he was the victim of circumstances and not of drugs. Friends are interesting themselves in his behalf.

RUNAWAY COUPLE HELD.

Flee an Hour After Man's Wife Dies—Woman's Husband Slain, Say Relatives.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 7.— The flight of L. W. Plotner, former Sheriff of Davidson County, S. D., with Mrs. Quinn within an hour of the death of the former's wife, caused relatives of Peter Albert Quinn, formerly of Minneapolis, to leave this city for Mitchell, S. D., with the intention of placing a murder charge against Plotner.

Quinn died in Mitchell Aug. 31, 1909. Plotner and Mrs. Quinn were arrested in Omaha and are being taken back to Mitchell.

Relatives of Quinn charge that Plotner, with the assistance of Mrs. Peter Albert Quinn and a person whose name is being kept secret, murdered Quinn in such a manner as to make his death appear suicide. It is charged that Mrs. Plotner, who was an invalid, was driven to suicide because of Plotner's attentions to Mrs. Quinn.

ACCUSED BOY HAD A BIBLE.

Sworn on It and Won Acquittal on Charge of Burglary.

The fact that eighteen-year-old George McAllester of 58 West Sixty-sixth Street carried his own Bible to court with him yesterday is responsible for his acquittal, according to Judge Warren W. Foster of General Sessions and Assistant District Attorney Delehanty.

McAllester was arrested on Aug. 2 last on the complaint of Mrs. Emma Campbell of 58 West Sixty-sixth Street, who testified that she found him entering her kitchen through the dumbwaiter shaft and held him until the police arrived. When McAllester took the stand a court attendant held out the court Bible for him to place his hand upon while being sworn by Court Clerk Cowing. McAllester pushed aside the attendant's hand, and drawing a small Bible from his pocket said he desired to be sworn on that.

He swore he had been playing on the roof of 58 West Sixty-sixth Street on the day of his arrest with several companions, and that they had been riding up and down the dumbwaiter shaft. He said Mrs. Campbell opened the door just as he was opposite her kitchen and grabbed him.

Charles Hartall, one of McAllester's companions, corroborated this, but admitted to Assistant District Attorney Delehanty that just a few days before they had attempted to steal an automobile left standing at Sixty-sixth Street and Fifth Avenue while the chauffeur was inside. It was also brought out that McAllester had been in the Children's Court several times before he reached the age of 16.

SAY ASTOR WEDDING IS NEAR AT HAND

HIS YACHT IN READINESS

Miss Force, the Bride-elect, Apparently Doing Her Final Shopping—Ceremony Probably in Connecticut.

There was an impression last night among the friends of Col. John Jacob Astor that his marriage to Miss Madeleine T. Force would not be delayed more than a few days. The Astor yacht Noma was hurriedly coaled and provisioned, and there arrived at the Force home sundry big boxes containing purchases made by Miss Force during the day. Col. Astor himself declined to say even that the marriage would not take place to-day.

It was reported yesterday that a clergyman had been found who was willing to perform the ceremony, and that it would probably take place in Connecticut, but no record of the issue of a license for the wedding could be traced in that State.

Col. Astor was in and out of the Force home during the day and evening. Shortly after 8 o'clock last night he called and took his fiancée out in a taxicab. They were gone for two hours. On their return Col. Astor stayed about twenty minutes. When he came out he was asked what arrangements had been made for the wedding.

"As yet," he replied, "we have made no definite arrangements in regard to our marriage. In fact, matters stand just as they did yesterday."

Col. Astor went to his town house at 840 Fifth Avenue, where it was said he would spend the night.

The Noma, lying off Eightieth Street, had been coaling during the day and was taking on provisions until late last night. The Captain and both mates went ashore, indicating that the yacht would not sail last night. It was learned, however, that the intention was that she should leave this morning. Her prospective destination is kept secret.

Indications that something more than usual was astir were in evidence about the Force home yesterday morning, when Col. Astor called two hours ahead of his usual time. Soon after he left Miss Force made a round of the Fifth Avenue shops, the result of which was apparent last evening when two big hat boxes and five other boxes arrived at her residence from a store where millinery and other things feminine are dispensed.

Before Miss Force had finished her shopping tour Col. Astor was back at her house. He got there about 1 o'clock and found nobody at hiras. After he had waited an hour and a half Mrs. Force came in with her dog. Twenty minutes later Miss Katherine Force entered the house, and after twenty minutes more Miss Madeleine got back from her shopping expedition.

After his long wait Col. Astor greeted his fiancée enthusiastically. He called a taxicab and started off with the two young women. Miss Katherine Force was dropped at the Grand Central Subway station and Col. Astor and Miss Madeleine Force went on to the St. Regis, where they had tea. Col. Astor saw Miss Force at her home again in the evening.

William H. Force, father of the bride-to-be, had an encounter with a photographer when he went out for his morning walk yesterday. He started off with the photographer following him, on the alert for a good opening. Mr. Force noticed the photographer's manoeuvres, turned around, and made a gesture indicating that he would not be photographed. The young man continued to advance on him, but stopped when Mr. Force raised his cane and rushed at him. The photographer fled, with Mr. Force pursuing, shaking his cane and declaring loudly that he would have him arrested.

The photographer had no trouble in keeping ahead of the irate Mr. Force. Suddenly he turned, halted an instant, got a good snapshot of his man, raised cane and all, and was off.

Clergyman Who Refused to Marry Astor Gets Approving Messages.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 7.—The Rev. Edward A. Johnson, pastor of the First Baptist Church here, received many congratulations as he walked through New port to-day because he declined to perform the wedding ceremony for Col. John Jacob Astor and Miss Madeleine Force for a $1,000 fee.

Some members of his church said he should have taken the money and performed the ceremony. Others offered congratulations to Dr. Johnson for his stand in refusing to marry the pair.

Justice Darius Baker of the Superior Court, who lives here, is in the South on his vacation, so if Col. Astor and his fiancée came here to be married, they would meet with disappointment, although they might get another Justice of the same court to come here from Providence and tie the knot. The Rev. Mr. Johnson said to-day:

"I weighed the matter thoroughly and decided I could not afford to marry Col. Astor and Miss Force, no matter what the fee might have been raised to, and it was $1,000 that was offered me."

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.—The Rev. Edward A. Johnson of Newport, who is quoted as saying he refused a $1,000 fee to marry Col. John Jacob Astor and Miss Madeleine Force, is well known to Baptists in this city. According to their records, he was expelled from the Philadelphia Conference, following his dismissal as pastor of the East Allegheny Baptist Church on charges of "falsehood and conduct unbecoming a minister."

Dr. Johnson is a Philadelphian. He was graduated from the Crozier Theological Seminary, and was unanimously called to the Allegheny Avenue Church in December, 1890. Toward the close of 1891 his wife died, and again, according to the records, a short time later he is said to have slipped away to Camden with a Miss Reed to be married. Dr. Johnson at first denied the report. At the same time a girl at the house where he boarded in Frankford Avenue, near Stella Street, made charges against him. After a hearing before the church Trustees, he was dismissed from the pastorship. The case was then reported to the Philadelphia Conference, which upheld the church Trustees.

Philadelphia Baptist ministers say that since that time Dr. Johnson had not to their knowledge been in Philadelphia. The action of Dr. Johnson in making public the offer said to have been made on behalf of Col. Astor was generally condemned by them.

"Suppose Dr. Johnson was offered $1,000 to marry Col. Astor and Miss Force," said one minister. "A good man of the Gospel would not turn around and publicly announce that fact. If Dr. Johnson refused $1,000, that is what he should have done; but no good minister announces broadcast his good acts."

Greenwich Expected the Wedding.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Sept. 7.—The Rev. Percy Stickney Grant of New York came to Greenwich this evening and is the guest of J. H. Flagler in North Street, where he has often visited this Summer. A rumor was circulated to-night that he had come to Greenwich to marry Col. Astor here. Mr. Grant said that was nonsense. He had never been approached by any member of the Astor family or the Force family or their representatives in the matter of the marriage.

MAURETANIA BURIED UNDER A HUGE WAVE

And Sailed Right On Serenely with a Tourist Army Aboard Still Asleep.

MAIN GUARD OF HOMECOMERS

Dr. Dana, D. G. Reid, Capt. Lydig Talk of Things Seen Abroad—Stoker Boxing Bout to Please the Passengers.

The Cunarder Mauretania, crowded with returning holidaymakers, including many well-known men and women, got in from Liverpool last night after a voyage in which she maintained an average speed of 25.36 knots, her time from Daunt's Rock to the Ambrose Channel Lightship being 4 days 13 hours and 36 minutes. The liner came over the short course of 2,780 knots, on which her best record is 4 days 10 hours and 41 minutes.

She met with two days' rough weather and early on Monday morning ran into a cumulative wave that buried her huge bulk in a seagreen avalanche. This was about 7:30 o'clock. The Mauretania was running through a high sea. For hours she had been throwing off with ease great combers that would have staggered most ocean liners. Suddenly the big cumulative wave reared itself, a wall of emerald water not many yards ahead. The Mauretania's bow had dipped to meet another wave. Before she could right herself the oncoming wave hurled itself inboard.

With a sound like the firing of a big coast defense gun the water thundered on deck, its spray washing even the tops of the smokestacks. Some of the glass lights of the wheelhouse were smashed, and for a second or two the forward part of the ship was hidden in the smother of green spume. Then she shook herself free and continued upon her course. For the passengers the big wave, which might seriously have damaged a smaller vessel, was simply an incident of an otherwise perfect voyage.

The Mauretania brought 507 first, 445 second, and 850 steerage passengers. Most of these were part of the great army of touring Americans from England and the Continent. These included even the steerage passengers, many of whom, it was said, could have afforded better accommodations had they not feared they would be delayed as a result of the unsettled labor conditions in Great Britain.

Their arrival brought out the fact that the Government is now maintaining a strict quarantine over foreign dogs. One of the passengers brought in three valuable Chows. He was the angriest man on the pier when he was informed that he would have to leave them under observation with the Government for three weeks.

An incident of the voyage of interest to most of the cabin passengers was a boxing bout between two seamen. The men who furnished the entertainment were both stokers, one of whom professed to have a reputation in Australia as a pugilist. He was "Sailor" Dyer, known as the champion of the stokeroom. The other was "Bill" Pierce. Both are in the lightweight class. The bout was held on the sun deck between the funnels, and was for six rounds. Dyer won on points. Then Dyer took on two stewards, Fellows and Briscoe, and outpointed both of them. He was declared winner of a fifty-dollar purse subscribed by the passengers.

Many of the passengers had interesting things to say on their arrival. Dr. C. Dana, the alienist, who has been abroad for two months, had studied especially the London hospitals.

"I was particularly interested in the work in the laboratories," he said. "They are doing some remarkable experimental work on the functions of the brain. Sir Victor Horsley has an ingenious instrument by which he can stimulate or destroy any part of the brain of an animal. In this way he has made discoveries regarding the localisation of the functions of the brain which are both new and important.

"As a member of the Public Health Committee of the New York Academy of Medicine and the City Club, I am interested in the City Government, and especially so now that we are working on a City Charter. We have nothing to learn from London methods, for their system is entirely their own and is not adapted to our conditions."

Returning from Scotland, where, as the guest of Clarence H. Mackay at Stonehaven, he had several weeks of fine shooting, Capt. Philip M. Lydig said that conditions abroad so far as the money market was concerned might be described as marking time, awaiting a settlement of the Moroccan affair.

"Everything depends," he said, "upon a settlement between France and Germany. The situation is being seriously considered by the financial interests of all Europe, and especially by those of France and Germany and England, which are involved in the controversy. This, of course, is bad for our securities, for as long as there is war talk people are going to exercise caution. They are not going to invest in the face of even a possible chance of war. They are preparing to bear heavy burdens in the shape of taxes and the losses incident to war, as they must if the Moroccan affair is not peaceably settled."

Capt. Lydig was away two months. He spent some weeks in Vichy taking the cure. Mrs. Lydig remains abroad. She will return about the middle of October.

Daniel G. Reid said that he and Mrs. Reid had been abroad since May. He has taken the cure at Carlsbad and spent many weeks in London.

"In this age, when every one has the motor fever," said Mr. Reid, "I suppose I may be called the exception, for I have no great love for the automobile. I keep a machine abroad, but I do very little riding in it. When I travel from place to place, it is by railroad. I have given little attention to business affairs, so I am hardly qualified to speak of conditions here. The thing that struck me on the other side was the industrial and commercial prosperity to be seen everywhere in Germany and in France."

Miss Mary E. Dreier, sister of Miss Katherine Dreier of Brooklyn, who was married a few weeks ago to Edward Trumbull Smith, an artist, who, according to a statement issued by the Dreiers, was found afterward to have a wife already when he married Miss Dreier, arrived on the Mauretania. She said there was nothing to add to the statement given out by the family lawyer several weeks ago. Her sister is still in Europe, and Miss Dreier added that she did not know when she would return, but the family had no present intention of prosecuting Smith for bigamy.

Alice Lloyd, the English actress, who has left the vaudeville stage to be starred in musical comedy, also arrived on the Mauretania. She said that the play in which she will appear has been finished, but has not yet been named. Mrs. J. Forbes Robertson, wife of the English actor, and known to the stage as Miss Gertrude Elliott, was another arrival.

Also on board were ex-Senator and Mrs. M. T. Barrett of New Jersey, who were welcomed home by ex-Senator James Smith, Jr., of Newark. John Barrett, head of the Bureau of American Republics in Washington, and other friends. Others on the liner were Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Arrel, J. W. Bate, Mrs. T. Bourne-Norton, Mr. and Mrs. Willard S. Brown, Mrs. L. J. Colvocoresses, J. D. Cameron, ex-Justice William N. Cohen, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Earle, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Ellison, Mrs. Waldo B. Fay, Supreme Court Justice and Mrs. P. A. Hendrick, the Right Rev. G. H. Kinsolving, Episcopal Bishop of Texas; Judge and Mrs. F. D. Ramsay, and E. C. Whiting.

Farming with Dynamite.

The agriculturists of the Lehigh Valley Railroad yesterday had an acre of Pennsylvania farm land blown up with dynamite to show a gathering of farmers how drainage conditions might be improved by the explosive method. The demonstration was near Wyalusing, Penn., on the line of the railroad. A hard clay subsoil had kept the water from running off and had rendered the land practically worthless. The charges of dynamite were sunk three and a half feet below the surface and about fifteen feet apart. They were set off simultaneously and gave the subsoil such a shaking that the drainage is expected to be good.

POLICE RAID LOTTERY PLANT.

Find Wagon Loads of Tickets and Circulars in Roosevelt Street Loft.

Two men, who said they were printers looking for a plant to rent, obtained entrance to a printery and bindery on the fifth floor of a loft building at 35 Roosevelt Street late yesterday afternoon. Several presses were being run at high speed, grinding out sheets of green, pink, and yellow paper, printed in Italian. Over in a corner an old German bookbinder busied himself making up the pink sheets into books of twenty.

One of the visitors picked up some of the pink sheets. The man in charge of the presses shouted in Italian, "Drop those things." As he shouted he sprang toward the visitor, who pulled his revolver, threw shut the door of the loft, and placed himself before it. He was Detective Alfred Miccelli of Police Headquarters. His companion was Detective Rocco Cavone. Miccelli lined up the printers and Cavone, at the telephone, reported to Inspector Hughes at Headquarters:

"We've just located the centre of the Italian lottery. Caught them red-handed. Send around the reserves from Oak Street and come down yourself. There's enough lottery slips and other contraband here to fill a couple of wagons."

A few minutes later thirty policemen piled up the stairs into the loft. The detectives picked out four prisoners. The old German bookbinder was among those let go, because he had no idea of the character of the booklets he was binding.

Inspector Hughes said that the raid had struck the death blow to the Italian lottery in New York, which has been fleecing the Italians of Greater New York, New Jersey, and the Hudson River towns of more than a million dollars a year.

Early last Spring the police started out to break up the game of selling lottery tickets to gullible Italians. They made several raids, but got only ticket distributors. Cavone and Miccelli were assigned to locate the central bureau. They got their first clue through a discovery that Italians had ordered presses and printing paraphernalia sent to 488 Pearl Street. On arriving there they found that the plant had been moved. They traced it to 25 Roosevelt Street and then to the address where yesterday's raid was made. The lottery men had recently installed three new presses there. Among the detectives' discoveries was the fact that the heads of the lottery were to issue to-day for the first time a periodical to increase the sales of lottery tickets. This periodical was made up of four pages, two of which had been printed. It was printed on heavy green paper, folio size, and was named "La Speranza," or "The Hope."

In its leading editorial La Speranza says the great majority of men can never aspire to improve their conditions by their own efforts, and advises them to woo the godess of luck. Other notes recount the success of several in winning large lottery prizes, "which completely altered their station in life," and praised the lottery as an honest one. A great deal of space is given up to "dope" or assistance to lottery players in picking lucky tickets by several methods and combinations, which resemble policy gigs.

The three men arrested were Bottome Ciani, whom the police charge with being head of the lottery, who said he was 43 years old and a printer of 214 Thompson Street; Eudoro Pistelli, 40 years old, a printer, of 18 Roosevelt Street, and his cousin, Giachino Pistelli, 20 years old, of 25 Roosevelt Street. Rudolfo Salo of 204 East 113th Street was taken to Police Headquarters, but later discharged as not being concerned in the scheme.

STRIKE CRISIS GOES OVER UNTIL SUNDAY

COAST UNIONS MEET TO-DAY

Conference with International Presidents Will Probably Decide Harriman Strike Action.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—No strike will be called on the Illinois Central Lines before Monday morning, and it is unlikely that any will be called at that time. This fact become known to-day when the secrets of the conferences which have been in progress among the labor leaders during the past week leaked out.

The International officers of the nine shop crafts, according to this information, refused to sanction a strike. They followed up this action by taking a vote to "wash their hands" of the whole thing and to send the question back to the officers of the shop system federation with the advice that they do as they please, but that the International officers would not support a strike call.

This vote was not unanimous, however, and the International officers were forced to continue their sessions until after next Sunday night.

Objection to any proposition for allowing the Advisory Committee of the Shop System Federation to decide the strike question after the International officers had failed to do so was raised by P. J. Conlon, Vice President of the Machinists, which is the largest craft involved in the labor difficulties with the Illinois Central. Conlon is reported to have refused absolutely to give sanction for a strike on the ground that it would be inexpedient at this time and because he took the view that the men had violated their contracts with the road. He is also reported to have objected to "washing his hands" of the matter, on the ground that the International officers were the proper persons to decide it and that turning the matter back to the Shop System Federation would result in renewed difficulties and was almost certain to tie up the men in a strike.

In this connection Conlon is said to have denounced the Shop System Federation idea as a Socialistic scheme fostered by the Socialist press and sundry agitators, who sought to gain personal ends by getting the men out on strike and compelling them to stand together as a Shop System Federation or lose their fight.

As a result of this disagreement among the International officers in Chicago it was finally arranged that all decisions should wait until Sunday night. All the International officers of the machinists will be in the city Sunday, and Conlon is understood to have agreed to put the matter before them and follow their advice.

J. F. McCreery, the President of the Federation, is now sounding the sentiment to see if the men wish to strike without the active and financial support of the internationals.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 7.—President J. W. Kline of the Blacksmiths' Union late last night denied that the international officers of the shop crafts would refuse to sanction a strike of shopmen on the Illinois Central Railroad. He said he was in close touch with Chicago, and a strike for a just cause would be supported by the international unions. He declared, however, he did not believe a crisis had been reached in the Illinois Central controversy.

"I am for peace at all events, at all times, even if we have to fight for it," he said. "We have gone so far now that it is impossible to turn back, and we don't propose to take the settlement of the other fellows. The various crafts have started a federation and will insist upon its recognition."

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 7.—Members of the General Committee of the shop craft unions of the Harriman system arrived here by every overland train to-day. It is expected that all committeemen who will take part in the conference with the international presidents will have arrived by to-night, and the conference which probably will decide the attitude of the unions on the long pending strike question will be in session to-morrow.

The four international presidents returned to-day from Sacramento, where they spent yesterday in conference with the Harriman shop employes in that city.

HIT BY AUTOS IN THE BRONX.

Two Motor Cyclists Hurt and Two Boys Run Down.

Automobiles figured in three accidents in the Bronx late yesterday afternoon. Ray Eden, a 24-year-old motor cyclist, of 9 James Street, New Brunswick, N. J., who was riding south on Pelham Parkway, accompanied by a fellow motorcyclist, Oscar Harkins, of Milltown, N. J., ran into a motor car, owned by Mrs. May Ives of Ridgefield, Conn., crossing the Parkway at Eastern Boulevard. Eden hit the car and was thrown to the ground heavily. He was unconscious when Leroy Adams, Mrs. Ives's chauffeur, picked him up. Harkins also hit the car, but had reduced speed enough to escape serious injury. Mrs. Ives had both men taken in her car to Fordham Hospital, where Dr. Dunham said Eden may have a fractured skull. Harkins went home.

Otto Schmidt, 15 years old, of 388 East 153st Street, jumped off the tailboard of an ice wagon at Willis Avenue and 147th Street into the path of a motor car owned by Miss Arna J. Keelan of 321 East 150th Street. Miss Keelan picked him up and ordered her chauffeur to drive to Lincoln Hospital, where Dr. Denniston dressed a cut over the lad's eye, put bandages on several of his bruises and sent him home.

Irving Turpin, an 11-year-old negro, son of Duroc Turpin, an employe of the Park Department, of 455 East 187th Street, was run over by Antonio Gudane's motor car at Park Avenue and 187th Street. Mr. Gudane took the boy to Dr. L. H. Taft of 2,365 Lorillard Place, who sewed up a slight scalp wound.

HEARST WOULD RULE ILLINOIS DEMOCRACY

SENATE FIGHT IN VIRGINIA

In Maryland Primaries Gorman and Goldsborough Are Named as Candidates for Governor.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 7.—The Hearst wing of the Democratic Party was organized at the La Salle Hotel this afternoon, when some 200 Democrats from all portions of Illinois gathered in assumably perfect harmony to denounce things as they are and to offer themselves as martyrs to the cause of righting things for the people and William Randolph Hearst.

The meeting was harmonious for about one hour. Then several members thought it was time to quit denouncing and find out where the new party expected to stand.

The disturbing element in the programme of martyrdom was H. N. Wheeler of Quincy, a member of the regular State Democratic Committee, the use of whose name as a member of the much heralded "Committee of 250" was taken in some quarters to indicate the disruption of the regular organization.

Before Wheeler was through asking questions and demanding answers that were not forthcoming the head martyrs began to think it indicated the disruption of their programme instead.

Carter H. Harrison was chosen chairman of the meeting. His acceptance of the leadership of the organization was another indication to the promoters of the new party that the regular organization was to be disrupted. The regular Democrats, however, objected to any plan of organization which would turn the party machine over to William Randolph Hearst or his lieutenants.

Mayor Harrison was suggested for National Committeeman from Illinois to succeed Roger C. Sullivan. The actual organization work is to be in the hands of a committee consisting of one from each of the twenty-five Congressional districts in the States.

MARYLAND NAMES CANDIDATES.

Gorman and Goldsborough Choice of Their Parties for Governor.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 7.—State Senator Arthur Pue Gorman, Jr., Democrat, son of the late United States Senator A. P. Gorman, and Philip Lee Goldsborough, Republican Collector of Internal Revenue for this district, were nominated for Governor by their respective party conventions here to-day. Gorman was the successful Democratic candidate in the State primary last month, winning over State Senator Blair Lee by one vote. Goldsborough was unopposed.

MARTIN AND SWANSON WIN.

Majority for Virginia Senators Placed at 18,000 to 22,000.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 7.—Early returns from the primary election throughout the State to-day received at the headquarters here of Senator Swanson indicate that Senators Martin and Swanson have won by from 18,000 to 22,000 majority.

The campaign for United States Senator, which closed last night, was characterized by a conflict of "stand-patters" and "progressives" in the Democratic ranks. Senator Thomas S. Martin, Democratic leader in the Senate, who is asking re-election for a full six years' term, and Senator Claude A. Swanson, who is seeking election for the unexpired term of the late Senator Daniel, have been assailed as "reactionaries" and members of the "old guard." They are opposed, respectively, by Representatives William A. Jones and Carter Glass.

TWO MENDICANTS ARRESTED.

Husband and Wife Locked Up for Obtaining Alms Falsely.

On complaint of the Bureau of Charities, the Children's Society agents arrested yesterday Isaac Liskind and his wife of 183 Clinton Street on a charge of violation of Section 485 of the Penal Code, which prohibits the solicitation of alms on the public highways. Magistrate Herbert held each in $500 bail for trial in Special Sessions.

According to the agents they have been in the habit of renting rooms in various parts of the city, and then placing their furniture in front of the house, soliciting alms on the representation that they had been dispossessed. The agents told the court that when he arrested the pair the woman held her six-months-old baby in one arm and flourished a dinner plate in her free hand, pretending to cry, and calling to passers-by to contribute, as her child was starving, they had no funds, and that they had been thrown out of their rooms. He said that her husband stood close by, making cries of lamentation.

Investigation proved that they had quite a sum of money laid away in an east side bank.

Jersey Post Office Safe Dynamited.

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., Sept. 7.—Robbers early this morning blew open the safe in the Post Office at New Lisbon and stole $25 and a quantity of stamps and postal cards. All the windows were broken and the office was wrecked. Before visiting the Post Office the thieves broke into the railroad station and stole $4.55. There is no clue to the robbers.

bulbous base to the stem. The Inocybe infida is an inconspicuous little mushroom which might be mistaken for innocent specimens which spring up on the lawn, and it is to be found sometimes where the fairy ring mushroom grows. The Clitocybe illudens is the phosphorus mushroom which illuminates old tree stumps at night and is a poisonous mushroom, but not deadly. There are at least 100 good mushrooms growing in this vicinity."

Dr. Murrill gathers and eats wild mushrooms every month in the year, but he takes exception to all members of the Amanita family, though some of them, notably the Amanita caesaria, Caesar's mushroom, of which that monarch was said to be very fond, is considered one of the most delicious.

"The Amanita caesaria I know is perfectly good and would not hurt me," said Dr. Murrill, "but I do not eat any of the Amanitas as a matter of principle, because of the deadly members of the family. I would not like my friends to see me eating them and be led into a mistake, and there might be danger of making an error through carelessness."

The Amanita caesaria is well known in Italy, and this may have caused the recent fatalities, but it is considered probable that the people who were poisoned gathered the Amanita thinking it was the common field mushroom.

Some people believe that any mushroom which will peel is good and those in which the skin adheres closely are poisonous. There is absolutely nothing in this, as both good and bad mushrooms will peel indiscriminately. The other supposed test is with a silver spoon. If the spoon used to stir the mushrooms turns black the mushrooms are said to be bad, and vice versa. This is equally a fallacy. It is the phosphorus in the fungus which colors the spoon, the same substance which causes the spoon to blacken when used with eggs, and the mushrooms can no more be told than good and bad eggs. This is a fact, although a well-known cooking teacher and expert in household science made the statement at one time in a popular woman's magazine, an error which, coming from such a source, might have had dangerous results.

"We have passed that empirical stage now," Dr. Murrill said yesterday. "The study of mushrooms as far as we have gone has become an exact science, and with reasonable care, and no mushrooms gathered that are not known, there is no danger."

said Mr. Gregory, "but he became a traitor and forsook her. Why? We were not legally required to prove a motive, but the Commonwealth has gone beyond and unlocked the door of Henry Clay Beattie, Jr.'s, affections. He went to the red-light district for his affections while a tender babe was on his wife's breast."

Long Speech for Defense.

Mr. Gregory's speech occupied barely an hour and a half, but the one that followed by Mr. Carter for the defense was many times as long. A man of girth and great stature, Mr. Carter overtowered the bar, occasionally emphasizing his remarks with wide-sweeping gestures and a roaring voice. He referred often to the directness of the court's instructions to the jury, and at the conclusion of every point cited one instruction or another as dealing with the dangers of circumstantial evidence or the construction to be placed on the testimony of witnesses harboring prejudice or bias toward the accused.

He characterized as childish the collapses of Paul at the Coroner's inquest and attempted to show that even the boy's grandfather had testified as to his poor reputation for truth and veracity. He devised too many hypothetical questions designed to show the improbability of the murder by Beattie.

During Mr. Carter's speech tears streamed down the face of the prisoner, and he brushed them aside nervously with his handkerchief.

"Why," asked the attorney for the defense, "should this young man, if we are to believe Paul's story, have some one else buy a shotgun and go about the attack on his wife in this blundering, senseless fashion? Why could he not have employed a pistol, practically an invisible weapon, and one to which he had easy access? And does he look to you like the cold-blooded brute that committed this crime?"

"But," Mr. Carter went on, "the instructions of the court declare that upon the defense does not rest the burden of finding the actual murderer. Its case is concerned with establishing the innocence of the accused." Upon Paul Beattie, he declared, the prosecution had built its entire case, and he spent little time on other details of the evidence. His speech was a steady and unbroken attack on Paul Beattie, and to-morrow it is expected that Harry M. Smith, Jr., chief counsel for the defense, will continue the fire along the same lines.

Attacks Paul Beattie.

"This case," said Mr. Carter, "rests on the assertion of Paul Beattie that he bought a gun for Henry Beattie and gave it to him four nights before the homicide. If we can show, as we intend to, that Paul's testimony is unreliable, and there is a reasonable doubt in your mind, then, according to the Judge's instruction, you have no case against the prisoner.

"Paul admitted he was in a terrible fix," he continued. "The gun was about to be traced to him. He was put in jail. Four days afterward he blossomed out with a statement which he said was the whole truth, but which he subsequently amended with a remarkable confession, said to have been whispered to him by Henry.

"Dare you convict an innocent man on the palsied word of such a person? Verily if you do such a thing his spirit will rise like Banquo's ghost and haunt you to your dying day.

"The gun, I believe, was hidden in the cement house and never given to Henry at all. Paul was the man, for it has not been shown that Henry ever received the gun. Paul, the faker, had the gun, gentlemen; there is the end of the case.

"Paul on the witness stand when asked the places at which he had worked omitted purposely the butcher's shop, next door to the pawnshop, a very important place, and that's a suspicious circumstance. Why did Paul tell the boys in the pawnshop that he wanted the shotgun for use on the bridge, where he worked, and why didn't the Commonwealth, having secured this information from the pawnship boys, whom they did not summon as witnesses for the prosecution, bring this out on the witness stand?

"Paul Beattie didn't even know his age when asked on the witness stand. He didn't know whether he was 20 or 21, because, he said, he had no Bible, and the reason for that was that which was burning in his heart—his lack of money—and yet on the unsupported evidence of this man you are asked to take a human life."

"Why this collapse at the Coroner's inquest? He had found out that the gun which he had bought was found near the scene of the murder. He said he 'was in a terrible fix,' and it was up to him to lay the gun on somebody, and wasn't that the reasonable motive for his accusation of Henry and what led to the invention of the confession? You will find throughout Paul's testimony scraps of evidence which shows his resentfulness toward his uncle and cousin because they had more money than he."

Brings in Binford Girl.

"Why didn't they bring Beulah Binford here to testify?" Mr. Carter further asked. "It is a well-known principle of law that if one side has evidence which it withholds from the jury it is a suspicious circumstance. Why did the Commonwealth keep this girl locked up forty days and then not permit her to testify as to the things which she alone could tell?"

Mr. Carter accused the prosecution of unfair tactics in the gathering of evidence and declared that one of the boys who came from the dance at Bon Air had mentioned to one of the detectives soon after the murder that the number of the machine he saw was D-11, and that this fact was suppressed by the Commonwealth when it learned that the Beattie car had a different number. This, he said, would have established beyond doubt that the car the boy saw was that of Kestleburg, which was No. D-11.

The information of the alleged eyewitness to the murder which threatened to delay the trial was received by Commonwealth Attorney Wendenburg in yesterday's mail. The writer, who until a few days after the murder of Mrs. Beattie was a farm hand employed on a place near the scene of the crime, said that he actually saw young Beattie kill his wife—saw him knock her from the automobile with the butt of a shotgun and then shoot her as she lay insensible on the ground. He wrote that Beattie threatened him when he found that he had witnessed the deed, and the following day gave him a suit of clothes and money with which to go away. Though he kept quiet at first because he was afraid, the man said he now did not want Beattie to escape punishment and was willinig to testify.

Alleged Eyewitness's Story.

The letter writer gave a detailed account of the tragedy as he said he witnessed it. He wrote in part:

I was in the pine woods on the right-hand side of the Midlothian Turnpike as you go out from Richmond, and I saw a light. As I walked closer to the road I saw an automobile standing almost in the middle of the road facing toward Richmond, and there were two people in it—a man and a woman. They were both sitting in the front seat.

They were quarreling. I could hear them talking loud, so I did not show myself, but waited behind a tree about ten feet from the edge of the road in the thick pine woods to hear what they said.

The woman was pleading with the man. She was saying that she wanted her love back again, and she did not want the man to be cruel to her. The man answered roughly.

At one time I heard him say: "I am tired of all this. I am going to end this." Then I heard the woman say: "How are you going to end it?" The man said something I could not hear, and then I heard him say: "I'll show you I'm going to end it." He got out of the machine and walked across the opposite side of the road from where I was, and then after he had been there a minute he came back with something in his hand. I could not see what it was in the dark. The woman was standing in the machine in front of the left-hand seat in the front part of the automobile when the man came back.

Just when the man came back I heard the woman scream once. Then the man who was standing in the road swung what he had in his hand and hit the woman on the right side of the face. She fell from the machine to the road, and she did not make a sound.

For a minute the man stood looking at her, and then I heard him say: "Damn you, you're not dead yet. I'll fix you." Then he up with a gun, which was what he had hit the woman with, and he shot her where she lay in the road by the front seat of the automobile. I did not see where he shot her. I saw him throw the gun somewhere, and he began to lift his wife's body in the front seat of the automobile, and I came out from the trees.

The man turned around and saw me, and he said to me: "Did you see this?"

I told him yes I had see it: "What are you going to do about it," he said. I did not say anything. Then he began to threaten me. He said he was rich and had lots of friends in Richmond, and if I told on him he would have me killed somehow. He said nobody would believe my story if I appeared in court against him anyway, and I had better get out. He said he would give me some money, and a suit of clothes if I would go away.

I told the man I would go away. Then he told me to come to Beattie's store the next day, and there would be some money for me. I went the next day, and he got some money and bought a suit of clothes. I stayed in South Richmond for two days then, but I was so scared and got so nervous after that two days I took the train to this place.

Mr. Wendenburg's explanation of his decision not to request the reopening of the case on account of the alleged eyewitness's story was as follows:

"We have a strong-enough case without it. We could not get the man here for a couple of days at least, as he lives out West. But we have asked him to come here just the same to see what there is to his story. Of course we have received, as is usual in murder cases, many letters from alleged eyewitnesses. This one, however, signed his name and we find that he did once work as a farmhand at a place near the scene of the murder. We are going to investigate it further, but you can take the story now for what it's worth."

The court is to convene at 9 A. M. to-morrow.

BINFORD GIRL ON WAY HERE.

Released with Paul Beattie, Will Pose for Moving Pictures.

Special to The New York Times.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 7.—Beulah Binford and Paul Beattie were released from the Henrico County Jail this morning by order of Judge Watson of the Chesterfield Circuit Court. They had been held as witnesses in the Beattie murder case since July 20.

The Binford girl left the jail in an automobile shortly before noon after receiving a call from agents of a New York moving picture film concern. She said she had signed a contract with this concern to pose for moving picture productions. The young woman, who wore a suit of light blue and a hat to match, drove at once in the automobile to the Byrd Street Station and took a 12 o'clock train for New York over the Baltimore & Ohio. She was accompanied by two representatives of the film concern.

"Good-bye, Henry," "Good-bye, Richmond," were her parting remarks.

"I am indeed glad to hear that Beulah Binford has left town," said Chief of Police Werner. "I had instructed my men, if she were released to-day, to find her and bring her to me. I wanted to give her a quiet tip that Richmond was too small a place for her."

Detective Scherer said the girl informed him that she would receive a sum sufficient to give her a start in life from a film service company of New York.

When a morning paper containing Henry Beattie's criticism of her talent was shown to Beulah Binford before her departure she said:

"Henry certainly has no reason to ridicule me. I haven't tried to do him any harm in his trial." She added that she saw few chances for him, but said also: "I certainly don't wish him any harm."

There was no demonstration whatever, no one not immediately concerned having been aware of the girl's plan. She left her mother at the jail, fretting because the daughter angrily refused to stay here and go into a quiet retreat in the country that had been prepared for them.

Paul Beattie said he had several offers from vaudeville houses, but that he would not accept them. He spent today looking for a steady job, so as to support his wife and baby.

According to another story, he said he was going to New York to go into vaudeville, having received offers that he was "too poor to refuse."

According to the conductor of the Atlantic Coast Line train from Richmond, which came into the Pennsylvania Station last night at 8 o'clock, on which Beulah Binford was expected to arrive here, she stayed on the Baltimore & Ohio parlor car, which was switched at Washington, and will come to New York to-day. She could not be discovered in Washington.

BARRED BY PHILADELPHIA.

Beulah Binford Not to be Allowed on Stage in That City.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.—Director of Public Safety Clay has taken steps to put a stop to any local histrionic aspirations of Beulah Binford, the woman associated with the Beattie murder case and released to-day from a Richmond jail, who, according to dispatches, has been booked to appear at two local playhouses. Mr. Clay did not wait to hear any protests before making his decision.

"I announce now and for all time," he said, "that this Binford girl will not be allowed to appear on any stage in Philadelphia. I am here to protect the morals of this community and I propose to do so. I don't propose that this girl shall parade her depravity for the sake of the persons who must be almost as depraved as herself who would go to see her.

"If this girl attempts to appear on any stage in Philadelphia I shall warn her not to, and if she persists I shall arrest her on the broad law of humanity—that she is a menace to the community.

"It seems to me that theatrical managers might book better attractions than this Binford girl. They are as much to blame for booking her as is she to wish to appear. She should hide her face from the world, conceal her identity, and endeavor to live down her past. She never can hope to do that on the stage, where certain people go to see her simply for what she has been."

Register of Stock
EQUITABLE TRUST CO,
New York City

The officers and directors of the American Artificial Silk Manufacturing Company have authorized an issue of 10,800 shares of the common stock of the above Company at the par value of $50.00 per share, the proceeds to be used for building, equipping and operating a factory at Camden, New Jersey, for the purpose of manufacturing artificial silk by an improved Cupra-Ammonium process.

THE EVIDENCE OF PROFIT IN ARTIFICIAL SILK.

Eight million pounds of artificial silk is imported into America every year. Two million pounds in raw material, six million pounds in manufactured goods.

NOW AMERICA WILL MAKE HER OWN ARTIFICIAL SILK.

The American Artificial Silk Company has produced an artificial silk which experts pronounce to be in every way superior to the imported product.

So that aided by a protective tariff of fifty cents per pound, there should be no doubt that within a reasonable time the Company ought to be able to supply the home market for eight million pounds of artificial silk.

The Company can produce artificial silk at 75c per pound. The market price for this silk is $1.75 per pound.

So that upon a production of five hundred thousand pounds per annum, there should be a margin of profit of $500,000. Upon a capital of $2,000,000, this amount would permit of paying substantial dividends, besides leaving a good balance for developing and extending the factory and business, and there is reason to believe that the earnings of the Company will be so great, that within the next four years, the amount of the original investment should be returned to stockholders in the shape of annual dividends.

The factory site of 7 2-3 acres has already been secured and plans for the factory drawn and passed.

If, therefore, you wish to make a sound, conservative, industrial investment the opportunity is right before you now, and you should make prompt application for stock.

The prestige and stability of the officers and directors of the company is an unimpeachable guarantee of the sterling character of this industrial enterprise. Each gentleman represents an influential branch of America's second largest industry—the textile industry.

A complete prospectus of the Company giving the history of the artificial silk industry, showing the progress and profits of the European factories, making comparisons with the improved American process and estimated profits in operating it, together with copies of letters and orders from influential concerns in the textile trade, will be sent postpaid to bona fide investors who make prompt application for it to

REPUBLICANS UNITE TO FIGHT CHARTER

Opposition to be Made a Caucus Measure, Which May Win Democratic Votes.

DELEGATIONS CALL ON DIX

Governor Hears Samuel J. Tilden Praised as Savior of New York When Tweed Charter Was in Force.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Following an attack before Gov. Dix on the Cullen-Foley New York Charter bill by a delegation representing practically all the most important civic organizations in New York City, the leaders of the minority in the Legislature this afternoon took steps to insure united action on the part of the Republican lawmakers in opposition to that measure.

As predicted in THE NEW YORK TIMES of Aug. 29, the Republican organization will make opposition to the proposed Charter a part of its party programme in the Legislature. The fact first became known when Senator Edgar T. Brackett of Saratoga and Assemblyman Edwin A. Merritt, Jr., of St. Lawrence, leaders of the minority in the two branches of the Legislature, this afternoon issued a call to the Republican lawmakers to meet in joint caucus for the purpose of taking united action on the proposed Charter on Tuesday, Sept. 19, immediately after the session. After the caucus call had been promulgated William Barnes, Jr., Chairman of the Republican State Committee, came out in an interview, indorsing the action of the two legislative leaders of his party.

The caucus call was issued in response to the joint request of all the Republican Senators and Assemblymen representing New York City districts in the Legislature. In the local organizations the action initiated here to-day has been under discussion ever since it became apparent that Mayor Gaynor and the Tammany organization were determined to jam the Cullen-Foley Charter bill through in short order and without public hearings at the deferred session.

Ground for Opposition.

The Republican opposition will be on the broad ground that the enactment of the Charter at this time would virtually tend to annul the municipal election of 1909, and that no new Charter should be made to take effect until after another city election has intervened, so that the voters could go to the polls with a clear comprehension of the powers and duties of the officials for whom they vote.

Senator James J. Frawley of New York, who during the enforced absence of President Pro-tem Robert F. Wagner has assumed the part of Senate leader, was on his way to catch a train for New York when he learned of the action taken by the Republicans.

"If they make opposition to the Charter a caucus measure I suppose we will have to call a caucus, too, for the purpose of getting all the Democratic legislators in line to support the Charter bill," said the Senator. "If we make the Charter a caucus measure there should be no doubt as to what would happen, for we have a majority in both Houses of the Legislature."

Among the opponents to the Charter this prediction on the part of Senator Frawley is regarded as quite a bit too optimistic. They in fact are hopeful of being able to defeat it in the Senate. They are understood to have tentative assurances to the effect that a sufficient number of Democrats will stay out of any caucus that may be called to prevent its passage.

Senator Franklin D. Roosevelt of Dutchess, who led the insurgent fight on William F. Sheehan when he was a candidate for United States Senator, announced this afternoon that his vote would be cast against the proposed New York Charter if an attempt was made to pass it in its present form.

With Senator Roosevelt opposing the Charter, Senator Wagner away, the attendance of Senator Grady uncertain, the Democrats at the very best would be able to pass the Charter in the Senate by only a bare majority. That is, if they can muster up for the Charter all the Democratic votes in the Senate, with the exception of those mentioned. But the provision giving the Mayor insuperable veto on subway franchises for some reason has aroused a great deal of opposition in Kings County. So that the opponents of the proposed Charter to-day believe that all the Democratic Senators from Brooklyn, with the possible exception of Thomas Hardin, would fail to support it unless that provision is eliminated.

The protest filed with the Governor against the Cullen-Foley Charter bill brought to the capital to-day a delegation larger and more representative than any which has appeared before a Chief Executive of this State in recent years.

The demonstration had been arranged and was held under the auspices of the City Club of New York. Alfred E. Marling, who was the spokesman of that organization, pointed out to the Governor that the intelligent citizens of New York had no confidence whatever in a Charter coming from the source this did. He added that for more than fifty years citizens of New York City had framed and voted on their own Charter, with one exception, the Charter of 1870, under which the Tweed régime had looted New York City.

How Tilden Saved New York.

"It took a sterling Democrat and a most honorable citizen to relieve us from that Charter," said Mr. Marling. "That man was Samuel J. Tilden. We submit that you will serve as he did not only the City of New York but the Democratic Party if you again indicate that the circumstances under which this Charter is proposed are not such as to warrant favorable Executive action at this time."

The other speakers were Russell Benedict, President of the Brooklyn League, who attacked the provision giving the Mayor unqualified veto power in franchise matters, and Raymond V. Ingersoll, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Committee of One Hundred, which was instrumental in the nomination of the members of the present Board of Estimate. Mr. Ingersoll objected to the present Charter because it would practically annul the result of the city election of 1909 through the sweeping readjustment it proposes with reference to the powers and duties of the city officials then elected.

In the delegation were William J. Schieffelin, C. P. Howland, Allan Robinson, William S. Van Clief, Maurice De Young, Elliott H. Goodwin, Alfred J. Boulton, Frederic W. Hinrichs, H. Stewart McKnight, Julius Henry Cohen, and Robert W. Higbee. The speakers were introduced to the Governor by Robert S. Binkerd, Secretary of the City Club.

PLAN WORK OF SESSION.

Only the Charter, Reapportionment, Primaries, and Supply Bills Listed.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 7.—After a conference between Gov. Dix and the legislative leaders, both houses of the Legislature held brief sessions at noon to-day and then, in pursuance of a concurrent resolution adopted by the Senate and Assembly, adjourned to meet again a week from Monday night. The interval will be used to perfect the legislation to be considered at the deferred session. It is the desire of Gov. Dix that when the lawmakers return they complete their labors within the week.

At the conference with the Governor it was agreed that legislation during what remains of the session should be confined to these subjects: A congressional reapportionment, a new charter for New York City, direct primaries, and supply bills supplementing the regular appropriations.

The principal business at the session which followed was the appointment of a special committee in each House to frame a Congressional Appropriation bill. The Lieutenant Governor appointed Senators Frawley of New York, Cullen of Kings, Hart of Queens, Ramsperger of Erie, Ferris of Oneida, and Newcomb (Republican) of New York and Coates (Republican) of Franklin to serve on the committee, while Speaker Frisbie of the Assembly appointed the following members of the lower house: A. E. Smith and Goldberg of New York, Donnelly of Kings, Neupert of Erie, Bush of Chemung, Hammond (Republican) of Onondaga, and Parker (Republican) of Washington.

Much of the discussion at the conference with the Governor had to do with the vexing question of direct primaries.

The promoters of the legislation to restore racing by repealing the Directors' liability law insist that in mapping out the legislative programme the Governor has reckoned without them. They have been making the most optimistic predictions since the return of the lawmakers to the Capitol that they now are in a position to press the Gittins bill to final passage in the Assembly, where it fell 23 votes short of the required majority earlier in the session, and where it now is pending under a motion to reconsider the action taken at that time.

DIX FAVORS ALBANY INQUIRY.

Tells Committee He Will Approve Appropriation of $25,000 for Expenses.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 7.—"The investigation into the affairs of Albany City and County will be dignified, but fearless and thorough," said Senator Bayne to-night, Chairman of the Senate committee appointed to probe the affairs of the county in which William Barnes, Jr., Chairman of the Republican State Committee, is the political leader.

The committee organized to-day, and Senator Bayne announced that he had engaged the services of James W. Osborne of New York as counsel. Mr. Osborne is now at Raquette Lake in the Adirondacks. The scope of the investigation will be discussed with Mr. Osborne at a meeting of the committee at the office of Senator Bayne, at 67 Wall Street, New York, next Monday afternoon, but it will be at least two weeks before the investigators get down to work. When the hearings do get under way Chairman Bayne says he intends to put the inquiry so as to be able to report to the Legislature early in January.

Gov. Dix to-day assured Senator Bayne that he was in sympathy with the proposed investigation, and that he would approve an appropriation of $25,000 to be placed at the disposal of the investigating committee, provided the appropriation came to him in a specific form.

SEEKS FEDERAL DIVORCE LAW

Senator Roosevelt Will Bring Question to Notice of Legislature Sept. 18.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Senator Franklin D. Roosevelt announced to-day that when the Legislature reconvenes on Sept. 18 he would introduce a concurrent resolution calling on the representatives of this State in Congress to initiate action looking toward the enactment of a uniform Federal divorce law.

This question has agitated the National Bar Association, and has also been under discussion at the various conferences held by the House of Governors. It is scheduled to come up again for discussion when the Governors meet at Spring Lake, N. J., this month.

Senator Roosevelt does not believe that a Federal divorce law should be as rigid as the statute enacted in this State, where absolute divorce can be obtained on only one ground. But, on the other hand, he believes that the divorce laws of Nevada and some other Western States are too lax.

Dix to Take Up Gresser Charges.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Gov. Dix to-day returned to his Summer home, at Lake George, where he expects to remain until next Tuesday, when he will come here to consider the charges against Borough President Lawrence Gresser of Queens. Next Wednesday he will leave for Syracuse to be present at the State Fair on Governor's Day, Thursday.

CRANK SEEKS WHITMAN.

Was Armed with a Knife—Sent to Bellevue for Observation.

Victor Moronki of 415 Sixth Avenue has been hanging around the District Attorney's office for several months, complaining that he was being persecuted by a gang of blackmailers on the East Side. Recently his presence became unbearable, and he was arrested. He had his right hand in his coat pocket and the detectives found a big knife concealed there. He was sent to the psychopathic ward at Bellevue for examination as to his sanity.

District Attorney Whitman said he did not believe Moronki had any intention of killing him, but was suffering from a mental disorder.

Season Ends at Sea Breeze Hospital.

Junior Sea Breeze, the Summer Emergency Hospital for sick babies at Sixty-fourth Street and East River, maintained through the help of John D. Rockefeller by the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, will close to-day one of the most successful seasons in its history. The last baby was taken from the institution on Wednesday, and to-night the dispensary doors will be locked until next Summer.

A greater proportion of the babies received were sent back to their homes cured than in any previous season, the mortality being only 29 per cent. Last year it was 38 per cent.

The visiting nurses, besides making 4,098 visits and instructing 1,321 mothers, have in the course of the Summer looked up last year's hospital cases. Of the 53 cases found 37 babies were reported healthy.

POINT OUT DANGERS IN ELECTION LAW

DECISION IS RESERVED

Plans Made to Settle Constitutionality of the Law Before the Next Election.

The constitutionality of the Levy law, which forbids the appearance of a candidate's name in more than one place on a ballot, no matter by how many parties he may be nominated, is still unsettled, though Assistant Corporation Counsel Farley and an array of counsel argued its pros and cons for nearly two hours yesterday. At the end of that time Supreme Court Justice Gavegan reserved decision.

Some remarkable conclusions were evolved by the lawyers arrayed against the law to show what might happen under it. A. S. Gilbert, representing the Republican County Committee, harked backed to the Gubernatorial election of 1906, when William Randolph Hearst was the candidate not only of his own Independence League Party, but of the Democratic Party as well, and showed how Mr. Hearst then, had he cared to and had the Levy law been in effect, could have destroyed the Democratic Party in this State for two years. He had only, said Mr. Gilbert, to have caused his name to be printed in the Independence League column on the ballot, and the result would have been that the Democratic Party would appear not to have polled a single vote for Governor, much less the 10,000 required to give it a place on the ballot.

Herbert Limberg appeared for the Independence League. Ex-Congressman William S. Bennet represented Assemblyman Murray, on whose behalf the writ of mandamus to compel the Board of Elections to print his name under the emblems of all parties which may nominate him was sought, thereby making the present test of the new law possible. Albert S. Bard appeared for the Citizens' Union, while on the other side, besides Mr. Farley, were Bartow S. Weeks and Robert L. Luce for Tammany Hall.

Mr. Limberg, Mr. Bennet, Mr. Gilbert, and Mr. Bard, besides drawing fanciful pictures of what strange results might eventuate from the operation of the new law, attacked it on the ground that it was unconstitutional. They asserted that it discriminated between parties, since its effect would be felt primarily by the smaller parties, which seldom presented an entire ticket. They said that it discriminated also between individuals, since it required one voter simply to mark his cross beneath the emblem at the head of a column, while it forced another to make not only this cross, but several others as well alongside the names of men whom his party had indorsed, but whose names appeared in another column.

They called the party emblems on a ballot hieroglyphics, and declared that many a voter would find himself unable to decide what party or parties other than that in whose column a candidate's name appeared had indorsed him, since the only indication under the Levy law is to be the printing of the other party's emblem in a separate column to the left of the regular party columns. They cited the Constitution of the State to show that no legislation should be passed that would help one party against another, or enable one party to hamper another, or to prevent fusion. Mr. Limberg presented a sample ballot to the court, prepared, he said, under the provisions of the new law. It was eight feet long and two feet in depth.

"There was never a more tricky ballot proposed," declared Mr. Bennet, "except, perhaps, that of Maryland, which was meant to disfranchise, and that of Maine. The Levy ballot has all the defects of the party-column ballot, but gives us none of the advantages of the Massachusetts ballot."

He declared that a convention would be prejudiced also against a candidate whose name could not appear under its column and declared that in this respect Mr. Murray was facing a stone wall.

Mr. Farley, before argument began, made an effort to bring the hearing to a close by terming it premature and declaring that since Mr. Murray was not yet the candidate of any party, and could not be until the next election, the question of the constitutionality or the unconstitutionality of the Levy law as it affected him should be left until after the election. Justice Gavegan refused to close the hearing on this ground and, forced to answer the argument advanced by his opponents, Mr. Farley raised the question of the court's power to hear the case. He contended that the application of Mr. Murray was brought under the Elections Laws, which gave jurisdiction to the Supreme Court only in limited cases. To enable the question rightfully to be argued before Justice Gavegan, Mr. Farley declared, required that his opponents show that the case came within a section of the Elections Laws which bestowed the power of decision on the Supreme Court.

Justice Gavegan overruled the contention, and Mr. Farley quickly entered into argument designed to show the constitutionality of the law.

"The court is not concerned in the expediency of the law," he asserted, "but only with whether it contravenes the organic law of the State."

He went on to declare that the Constitution does not provide the form of ballot that must be used, but only makes it necessary that voting be done by ballot and that it be secret. Throughout the previous arguments of his opponents attention had been called to the similar law of Ohio, and it had been maintained that it had worked unjustly there. Mr. Farley seized on this point to declare that while many States had similar ballot laws their constitutionality had been tested in only seven States and that of these the courts of six had upheld the law.

California, among all the States where laws similar to the Levy law had been enacted, was the only one where the courts decided the law unconstitutional, he said.

In the course of his early statements Mr. Limberg stated that arrangements had been made for a term of the Appellate Division as soon as Justice Gavegan's decision may be announced, and certainly in time to settle the disputed law prior to next election.

TWO LEVY LAW DECISIONS.

Judge Howard Upholds County Committee Chairman's Authority.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 7.—No name ever can be lawfully voted upon for Commissioner of Elections by a Board of Supervisors under the new Levy election law until it comes to such board from the Chairman of a county committee. This decision is embodied in an opinion to-day by Supreme Court Justice Wesley O. Howard of Troy, in actions recently brought to mandamus the Boards of Supervisors of Albany and Columbia Counties as a result of appointments made by them under the Levy law. In each case Justice Howard grants the application.

In Albany County the Board of Supervisors, which is Republican, selected one Democrat who was recommended by the Democratic County Committee, and another who failed to secure the committee's indorsement, in addition to the two Republican members.

The Democrats had been led to believe that the county Board of Elections was to consist of but two members, and nominated but one candidate. Later when the Board of Supervisors met it was determined to have a board of four members, and the Democratic Supervisors, upon learning of this, certified a second Democrat for membership, Michael Smith, the organization leader in Cohoes.

The Republicans, contending that the nomination should have been made earlier, decided that they could pick a Democrat of their own. This they did, naming John Wallace, one of the lieutenants of the Democratic faction led by Robert E. Whalen, who is to contest the primaries this month to oust State Committeeman Patrick E. McCabe from his leadership in Albany County. Mr. McCabe began legal proceedings, through the chairman of the Albany County Democratic Committee, Henry J. McCann, and Justice Howard's decision is the result.

"It is well recognized law," says Justice Howard, "that title to office cannot be tried by mandamus and can only be tried by an action in the nature of quo warranto. The court cannot, in this proceeding, and it will not, attempt to oust Wallace from office; but it can command the Board of Supervisors to do its duty, leaving such future action to be taken as may be necessary in order to secure complete justice."

In Columbia County, where the Democrats control the Board of Supervisors, one of the candidates recommended by the Republican county organization was rejected and a substitution made. Within the time prescribed by law Charles Tracey, chairman of the Republican County Committee, made and filed with the Supervisors a certificate recommending the appointment of Charles E. Barrett and Patrick Canavan. The board accepted the two names presented by the Chairman of the Democratic County Committee and that of Canavan, but, without voting one way or the other upon the name of Barrett, substituted that of Edward H. Lisk.

The board contended that the Republican County Committee never met or recommended any person for appointment, the recommendation being that of the Chairman personally and not that of the committee. This criticism Justice Howard declares to be without merit. "The Chairman," he says, "is the accredited representative of the committee and his certificate must be assumed to reflect the wishes of the committee.

"It is apparent that the action of the Supervisors in this case was wholly illegal and without warrant of law."

Estate Is to be Divided Among the Immediate Relatives.

Deputy State Comptroller Julius Harburger yesterday filed with the Surrogate's office the appraiser's report of the estate of Joseph Larocque, who died on June 9, 1908, at his home, 6 East Fifty-sixth Street. The gross estate, which is valued at $2,604,065, consists mainly of stock in public service corporations.

Some of Mr. Larocque's holdings were 1,000 shares in the Consolidated Gas Company, valued by the Appraiser at $124,250; 200 shares in the Brooklyn Union Gas Company, $22,200; 2,000 shares in the Pennsylvania Railroad, $12,000; 500 shares of the Manhattan Railway, $68,625; 1,000 shares in the Central Railroad of New Jersey, $190,500; 1,000 shares preferred stock of the American Cotton Oil Company, at $85,500; 272 shares in the Pullman Company, $43,248; 1,000 shares in the Atlas Portland Cement Company, $100,000, and 4,000 shares in the Celluloid Company, $500,000.

Mr. Larocque carried life insurance in five companies, the total value of the policies being appraised at $25,000. The dividends had been allowed to accumulate for several years, making the total life insurance about $45,000.

Under the terms of the will three nieces, Louise Roe, Elizabeth Roe, and Cecelia Faile, will each receive $10,000. The widow, Mrs. Annie S. Larocque, receives a life estate in the residence, valued at $27,395, the household effects, and a life estate in $400,000, valued at $78,620.

Joseph Larocque, a son, receives a one-fifth share in the home, valued at $20,496, and a life estate in $400,000, valued at $58,820. Another son, Louis E. Larocque, and a daughter, Mrs. Louise Larocque Tinker, two grand children, Hy. H. Anderson and Joseph L. Anderson, each receive a one-tenth life estate in $400,000, valued at $29,410, and a one-tenth life estate in the residence at 6 East Fifty-sixth Street, valued at $10,248.

Annie C. Goddard, a granddaughter, receives a life estate in $75,000, valued at $59,800. The residuary estate, valued at $1,854,182, is divided among Joseph Larocque, Louise L. Larocque, Mrs. Adele Thomas, a daughter, and Louis E. Larocque, each receiving $370,836, and two grandsons, Hy. H. Anderson and Joseph L. Anderson, who receive $105,418.

GREETING COMES FROM PEARY AGAIN

The New York Times, New York:

I have the Pole, April sixth. Expect arrive Chateau Bay September seventh. Secure control wire for me there and arrange expedite transmission big story.

PEARY.

Two years ago yesterday this message, published in THE TIMES, and from THE TIMES, in the leading newspapers of this country and Europe, electrified the world. The news of Peary's great discovery came like a thunderclap from a cloudless sky. Cook was still enjoying his few sweet days of public confidence, and in the excitement over the new and unexpected "hero," Peary, in the silent North, was for the moment almost forgotten except by a few stanch believers in him, who realized that, if successful, he must now soon be in touch with civilization. Late in the afternoon of Monday, Sept. 6, 1909, the thrilling message reached THE TIMES.

In honor of that anniversary, Rear Admiral Peary now sends THE TIMES this telegram of felicitation and appreciation:

Harpswell, Me., via Brunswick, Me., Sept. 6, 1911.

THE NEW YORK TIMES, New York:

Regards and compliments to THE TIMES on this second anniversary of receipt of news. PEARY.

On the morning of Sept. 7, 1909, THE TIMES carried Peary's message and other personal telegrams to his wife and a few freinds, but Peary was unable to reach Chateau Bay on that day, as he expected, and his exclusive story of the epochal discovery to THE NEW YORK TIMES, copyrighted in this country and Great Britain, did not begin to appear until the morning of Sept. 9. It continued through three days. In these early days Peary delivered a crushing blow to Cook's pretensions by giving the statement of the Eskimo boys with Cook that the latter had gone but a little way north, or, as later expressed, "three sleeps from land."

Peary's friends had a long fight to prevent his being cheated out of an honor for which he had striven twenty-three of the best years of his life, and at times the clouds were dark and low-hanging. But the sun shone at last. One by one his enemies fled and all obstacles to his complete recognition melted away.

First of all, he was recognized by every National geographic society of consequence in the world, and, as usual, honored first abroad and then at home. The Royal Geographical Society of London, regarded as the leading organization of the kind in the world, acepted his statement at once, and later awarded him its gold medal. The National Geographic Society of Washington examined his records, found that they showed conclusively that he had reached the pole, and awarded him its gold medal.

The Royal Scottish Geographical Society of Edinburgh recognized him, giving him a beautiful trophy, and more than a dozen other scientific bodies, representing the leading nations of the world, decorated him with gold and silver medals.

Finally, his own Government, which he was serving as a naval officer, and whose flag he carried to the pole, gave magnificent, if tardy, recognition. On March 3 this year Congress by an overwhelming vote in both houses voted him the thanks of Congress, and retired him with the rank of Rear Admiral, the highest of the Corps of Civil Engineers, to which branch of the service Peary belonged, with a salary of $6,000 a year for life. The honor and pay were directed to become effective on April 6, 1909, the day Peary reached the pole, and in fulfilment of this act President Taft signed Rear Admiral Peary's new commission on March 29 last.

STEFANSSON TO PEARY.

Arctic Explorer Tells of Hearing in the Frozen North of His Victory.

A letter to Admiral Peary from the arctic explorer Stefansson, now in the arctic regions, was made public here yesterday. It is dated Upper Dease River, Oct. 8, 1910, and says:

Dear Commander Peary: About three weeks ago I met near the mouth of Dease River the English travelers Melvill and Hornby, who had received news at the Hudson Bay Company's post, Fort Norman, in July. About the first thing they told me was of your success and of the Cook affair. They were unable to give me details, for their information was practically confined to a copy of a magazine article by Greely, which they gave me to read. I can see, however, that there has happened about what every one krew would happen when it became known Cook had gone north.

Perhaps "knew" is too strong a word, but I happened to cross Alaska shortly after Cook's second Mount McKinley exploit, and I talked with several persons both there and in Seattle, who said they know he had never been to the top of the peak in question. This opinion I found had preceded me to New York, and it is those who believe it to whom I refer as "knowing" in advance what has now become an unfortunate fact—that Cook would come back claiming the pole. What your attitude in this affair is I can only guess, but I should think it would depend chiefly upon what you cannot have helped learning—the Smith Sound Eskimos' account of where Cook had been and what he had done. Their testimony would, of course, be competent. There are two things I know about Eskimo character—they seldom lie and they never keep a secret, no matter how solemnly they promise to do so. Keeping a thing secret is, in fact, the deadliest sin of which the Eskimo knows—this is true of those Eskimos I know, for they generally attribute famine, epidemics, &c., to some member of the tribe having kept something of importance secret. I have heard the same of Eskimos from Greenland, Baffinland, and Hudson Bay. You must, therefore, have heard the truth at Etah, for though they cannot, of course, determine latitude, they can tell pretty accurately how far, and in what direction they were from land.

Cook's story as told by Greely (my only source) sounds to me improbable—too long a journey for the time and means at his disposal—and until I hear that the Etah people corroborate his account I shall—and I suppose myself but one of a large majority of those a little familiar with arctic conditions—believe you the only man who has, as yet, reached the north pole. Sincerely yours,

V. STEFANSSON.

APOLOGIZES FOR SUICIDE.

"A Necessity," Wrote Woman Who Turned On Gas in Boarding House.

A woman about 38 years old, who told Mrs. Renecke of 108 West Sixty-ninth Street, when she took board with her three days ago, that she was Victoria W. Miller of Catskill, N. Y., committed suicide in her room there yesterday by inhaling gas. She stuffed up the keyhole and all the crevices in the room with paper.

Mrs. Renecke found the body and beside it the following note to herself:

"I am sorry for the trouble I am giving you, but it is a necessity. Kindly send my dress suitcase to the Catskills, care of Miss Becker."

There was a sealed note to the Coroner.

Browns and Grays for Fall in Saks Clothes for Men

¶ Those sterling staples, Brown and Gray, are to predominate in the sartorial color scheme this Fall. Always in evidence among men who are credited with good taste, they now bid fair to monopolize the looms to a greater extent than ever before.

¶ Weaves and designs, however, are numerous enough to satisfy the most exacting and fastidious. We have Browns and Grays in plain effects, in herringbone effects, and in a bewildering diversity of shades.

¶ From a disinterested point of view, we bespeak the merit of these charming colors, the warmth and cordiality of Brown, the more aesthetic temperament of Gray.

¶ And we urge the merit of Saks-made clothes from an interested as well as from a disinterested point of view. We are naturally interested in having you follow our advice, but it happens that we could not give you more disinterested advice if we tried, because the superiority of Saks-made clothes is established beyond dispute.

Notable Styles in the Saks Hat Shop for Men

¶ Man's Autumn coronation festivities are at hand, and the Saks Hat Shop is equipped with all sorts and conditions of crowns.

¶ Yet they are all alike in one particular—exclusiveness. We have culled the most attractive models from the hundreds with which the market is flooded, and we represent none but makers of recognized merit at that.

¶ We have scoured Europe and the U. S. A. for hats, and whatever is new and has style in Fall headgear, whether it be in the set of the brim or the shape of the crown, it is at Saks'.

'COUNT DE PASSY' IS WANTED IN GERMANY

$2,500 REWARD FOR CAPTURE

Is Said to Have Married Several Women—Represented Himself as an American Army Officer.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—In THE NEW YORK TIMES of Aug. 30 appeared the following announcement:

Albert Marcel, Count de Passy, who says he is a descendant of the family of that name who founded the City of Passy in Normandy, and Laila Florence Allendorf of the Herald Square Hotel were married in the City Hall yesterday afternoon by Alderman James Smith. He gave his age as 42 and the bride 26. Count de Passy, who had an envelope with the White House imprint upon it, said he had returned from Europe Saturday and intended to take his bride to Poughkeepsie, where they would make their home. According to Count de Passy, he was a member of the staff of the Governor of Michigan with the rank of Colonel. On the marriage license he described himself as an army engineer. He was born in Stampitz, Germany, and became a naturalized citizen in 1896, he says. His wife's family lives in Sweden.

This "Count de Passy" is supposed to be an adventurer for whose arrest the German Government has offered a reward of $2,500, and who has behind him a record which places him high among the swindlers of the period.

For some weeks past Germany has been ringing with the exploits of the pseudo-Count, whose real name is Max Schiemangk, and who in August succeeded in breaking prison near Hilbroun under romantic circumstances.

Schiemangk was born on Aug. 30, 1869, of a well-to-do family, but in early life went to the bad, being dismissed from a military school under a cloud. In 1890 he went to America, where he is understood to have contracted several bogus marriages. When America grew too hot for him he returned to Germany, bringing with him the title of Major in the United States National Guard. He was arrested on suspicion of espionage, but a case was not made out against him, and on being released he once more went to the United States.

Then came the Spanish-American War. Schiemangk, according to reports in Berlin, offered to raise a regiment of German volunteers, but, this failing, he returned to Germany, this time as a Colonel and "Count Marcel de Passy." He said he had been campaigning with the American Gen. de Passy, whose life he had saved, and who showed his gratitude by adopting him. He also explained that the American Government had commissioned him to purchase rifles and guns in Germany.

In Berlin he became known as Don Juan, and became engaged to marry several women. Arrested on a charge of fraud, he was sentenced to three years' imprisonment and served his time.

Once more he disappeared from German view till the beginning of the current year, when he had promoted himself to the rank of General in the American Army. Again he was arrested on a charge of fraud and was lodged in jail at Heilbroun. He boasted that prison locks and bars could not keep him, and, though special precautions were taken, he succeeded in escaping, thanks to a woman who had fallen in love with him.

He has been hunted for high and low throughout Germany ever since, but the first news of him since he broke jail is contained in the announcement in THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TO RAISE FREIGHT RATES.

Transatlantic Companies Take Step Owing to Recent Strikes.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The Liverpool shipping companies engaged in the Atlantic trade have decided to increase the rates for freights next week by 10 per cent.

This is a result of the losses suffered in the recent strikes and the higher wages obtained by the seamen and firemen.

POPE SAYS HE IS WELL.

Wants New Photographs Published So as to Prove His Recovery.

ROME, Sept. 7.—Pope Pius to-day felt so much improved physically that he remained longer than usual in the gardens. He allowed the Vatican photographer to take several snapshops of him both in his carriage and walking. He then posed for a photograph in Raphael's loggia.

To the photographer, who asked permission to sell the portraits, the Pope said:

"Certainly. Give them as large a circulation as possible, thus showing to the world my complete recovery."

MILITARY ATTACHE IN SPAIN.

United States Appoints One for First Time Since War of 1898.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—For the first time since the Spanish-American War the United States to-day named a permanent military attaché to the American Legation at Madrid. Capt. Cleveland C. Lansing of the Fourth Field Artillery, who has been temporarily acting in that capacity, has now been appointed military attaché.

Lieut.-Col. George M. Dunn was selected as military attaché at Rome to relieve Lieut.-Col. J. F. R. Landis. This change, however, will not take place for several months.

Whitman Names Two Deputies.

J. Ward Follette of 3,099 Broadway, a member of the law firm of Scott & Follette, at 27 William Street, was appointed a Deputy Assistant District Attorney yesterday. Mr. Follette is a graduate of the New York University Law School and the Secretary of the Seventeenth Assembly District Republican Club. Thomas J. Nolan of Nolan & Dalegi of 114 Centre Street was also appointed a Deputy Assistant. Mr. Nolan is a graduate of New York University.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—Zurich has been selected as the place for the holding of the World's Seventh Sunday School Convention in 1913. William N. Hartshorn, President of the International Sunday School Association, and G. W. Penniman of Boston, after a tour of the Continent, met the members of the British section of the association, and the selection of Zurich as the meeting place was the result. The last convention was held at Washington in May, 1910.

FORT-DE-FRANCE, Martinique, Sept. 7.—Torrential rains have fallen here for the past four days. This city is inundated to a depth of three feet.

A NEW CRISIS IN CHINA.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, Sept. 8.—In reference to alarming reports published regarding danger to Europeans in China, THE TIMES correspondent at Peking telegraphs that, while the reports from Ching-Fu yesterday were less favorable, there is no reason as yet for anxiety, since the agitation is not anti-foreign and no acts of violence have occurred.

PEKING, Sept. 7.—Missionaries in the outlying districts of Sze-Chuen Province have been ordered by the Viceroy to concentrate in the larger towns, in consequence of the general unrest among the natives.

All foreigners in Cheng-Tu, the capital of Sze-Chuen, are taking refuge in the compound of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Church of Canada.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—A crisis has arisen in the turbulent province of Sze-Chuen in China, and the foreign offices of the United States and of other countries have taken precautionary steps for the safety of their citizens in that section. American gunboats will be used to guard American citizens, and a formidable international naval array is available in Chinese waters.

American Chargé d'Affaires Williams at Peking to-day cabled to the State Department that the situation had become critical in Sze-Chuen, where public meetings in various cities, accompanied with the closing of shops and schools and refusal to pay taxes, had culminated in serious disorders. American Methodist missionaries at Chung-King and Cheng-Tu have informed Mr. Williams that none of them have yet left their posts, but American and British women have left Cheng-Tu for Chung-King.

Twenty-one districts are said to be so far affected by the agitation. Tax offices have been destroyed and several officials have resigned, but the resistance to the Government has in general been passive rather than active.

The Chinese Foreign Office has assured the legation that protection will be given to all foreigners and their property, and has offered escorts to all who desire to leave the disturbed districts.

Admiral Murdock's flagship, the Saratoga, is at Woo-Sung, the New Orleans is at Shanghai, and two or three United States gunboats are cruising in the Yangtse River. On receipt of to-day's reports the Department of State telegraphed to the legation at Peking orders that it request Admiral Murdock to dispose the American gunboats in the manner best calculated to forestall any possible danger to American citizens.

Sze-Chuen, which borders on Tibet, has the greatest number of inhabitants of any of the provinces of China, its population being estimated at a little less than 70,000,000. Its area is 218,480 square miles, by far the largest of the provinces of the empire.

American missionaries are stationed in three districts of the province. At Cheng Tu, the capital, missionaries are maintained by the Mennonite General Conference of North America, and it also is the station of the Missionary Society of the Methodist Church of Canada.

Of the two outlying districts where American missionaires are working, Kia-Ting is a station of the American Baptist Missionary Union, and also of the Canadian Missionary Society of the Methodist Church, while the Mennonite General Conference of North America has missionary workers at Chung-Kin.

THREE MORE AIRMEN DEAD.

Lieut. Newmann and M. Leconte Fall in Germany—Aviator Dies in Peru.

MUELHAUSEN, Sept. 7.—Two more names were added to-day to the long roll of persons killed this year in aeroplane accidents.

Lieut. Newmann, a German military aviator, started from this city this morning in the direction of Strasburg, carrying as a passenger M. Leconte, a French airman. The aeroplane had gone hardly fifteen miles when the gasoline tank exploded. The report of the explosion was audible for a distance of several miles.

The machine dropped at Bilzheim from an altitude of sixty feet, and both aviators were instantly killed. Their skulls were broken and they were frightfully injured about their bodies.

Lieut. Newmann, who qualified as a pilot last Spring, had been detailed to participate in the army manoeuvres which are to be held next week in the Grand Duchy of Baden.

LIMA, Peru, Sept. 7.—The Peruvian aviator Carlos Tenaud died to-day as a result of injuries suffered while making a flight here last February. His aeroplane became entangled in the wires of an electric railway and fell.

Tenaud's spinal column was fractured.

KARLSRUHE, Sept. 7.—The aviator, Paul Senge, fell with his aeroplane while making a flight here to-day.

His skull was fractured.

The two persons killed in Germany yesterday and the death from his injuries of Tenaud in Peru bring up the list of victims of the aeroplane to 78.

Three airmen had previously been killed this month. On Sept. 2, at Buc, France, two army officers, Lieut. de Grailly and Capt. de Camine, lost their lives, the former's machine catching fire in midair and the aviator being burned to death and the latter's monoplane falling and crushing him.

Two days afterward, at Huelva, Spain, M. Leforresier, a French airman, fell 240 feet and was instantly killed.

TRY TO LOWER FOOD PRICES.

French Ministers Approve Measures—Belgian Cavalry Charge Mobs.

RAMBOUILLET, Sept. 7.—A Cabinet council, presided over by President Fallières, was held here to-day to consider the disorders arising from the cheaper food agitation and to adopt measures intended to decrease the cost of living.

The Ministers of Commerce and of Agriculture explained in detail the results of their investigations of the problem.

The cost of everything eatable is higher throughout France to-day than ever before. Prices suddenly jumped this Summer, but this also is the case all over Western Europe, and was caused principally by droughts and the consequent failure of fodder and vegetable crops.

The Cabinet approved a scheme to ameliorate the situation by facilitating the importation of cattle and frozen meats, by installing refrigerating and storage plants, of which there is a lack in France, by demanding that the railways lower their rates for the transportation of food and by suspending the tariff on fodder.

CHARLEROI, Sept. 7.—Twenty thousand persons of the working class, protesting against the high cost of food, attempted to march into the lower districts of the city to-day.

Squadrons of cavalry charged through various streets and succeeded in dispersing the crowds after two hours' hard work. Some of the manifestants were injured.

All the stores have been closed.

This Poolroom Raid Successful.

Sergt. Giblin and ten patrolmen of Inspector Hayes's staff battered down an inner door of the Ramapo Club, 210 West Forty-third Street, yesterday afternoon and found 25 men in a rear room. They arrested two, John Foley and Joseph Klein, on the charge of being common gamblers and took them to the West Forty-seventh Street Station House. Foley said he was an engineer and Klein declared he was a tailor.

WORLD PEACE RESTS UPON US, SAYS TAFT

Constitution Admits of Our Making Arbitration Treaties, the President Declares.

FLOUTS SENATE ATTITUDE

Pleads That Committee's View Should Not Bar Our Being the Pioneers of Arbitration.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 7.—To a Connecticut audience, 50,000 strong, which gathered upon the homestretch of Charter Oak race track this afternoon, President Taft spoke on arbitration between nations. It was such an audience as is seldom seen in this State, for most of it had been drawn from the hill and valley towns, where agricultural pursuits are followed, and to most of the people the President was an unfamiliar figure, despite his many and frequent visits to the State.

President Taft was both the guest of the State and of the Connecticut Fair Association, and his address followed a State luncheon in the new Memorial Hall on Capitol Hill. Short as was his visit here it was one of action. He was whirled from the luncheon a little late to the fair grounds three miles away, finding the crowd anxious for him to appear. He was placed upon a platform within the track inclosure, where Gov. Baldwin introduced him. A rope held back the people, but the President immediately asked that the barrier be taken down, and then the people rushed forward to within sound of his voice.

The address was intently listened to, though many thousands could scarcely make out what he said. Yet the President was in excellent voice, and quiet was maintained over a large area. Time and again the President's plea for an arbitral court between the great nations of the world was enthusiastically applauded. At the close, owing to the short time remaining before his departure, the President was unable to receive more than a few who were in his immediate neighborhood. Then he returned to his motor car and was whirled into the city, leaving for Boston at 5 o'clock.

The President's Speech.

President Taft's speech dealt almost exclusively with the legal technicalities of the arbitration treaties with England and France, now awaiting the approval of the Senate. Perhaps the most significant part of his address was as follows:

"The majority of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations say that they cannot consent that somebody else shall decide for them where a question arising in the future is within the provisions of the first article of this treaty; that for them to do so is to delegate their power to another tribunal and bind them by an obligation which they have no power to assume.

"It is the view of the minority, however, and with that view I am earnestly in accord, that the issue, where a future difference shall be within the terms of the description of Article I. of the treaty, is an international question arising out of a construction of the treaty under a claim of right by one of the parties to an arbitration, and is a question, therefore, that the President and the Senate, acting as a treaty-making power, have the right to agree by treaty to submit to a tribunal for final judgment.

"In what different way is the treaty-making power invoked when we ask the Senate to concur in a treaty which agrees to submit all justiciable differences to arbitration, and when it is asked to agree to submit to arbitration the question whether a difference arising is justiciable or not under the treaty? I confess that I cannot see the distinction.

Cites Norway and Sweden.

"It is a well-known fact that Norway and Sweden have made an agreement to settle all differences, except those of vital interest and national honor, by submission to The Hague tribunal, and they have further agreed that when they differ as to whether the controversy arising is arbitrable under the treaty, or is within the exception, to submit that question to the Board of Arbitration for its final discretion.

"Now, if I understand the attitude of the majority of the Senate Committee, it is that they have no power, and therefore the Government has no power, to enter into a treaty by which we shall agree to submit to a third person, constituting an independent tribunal, the question where we are bound under a treaty to abide the judgment of the tribunal as to a particular issue. The treaty-making power under the Constitution, it has been decided by the Supreme Court, hardly knows definition or limit. It is one of the broadest powers conferred by the Constitution, and it is conferred upon the Executive and the Senate. Certainly, it is not in the interest of the cause of peace that that power should be limited in such a way that other Governments may make treaties of this kind and we may not.

"I have stated frankly how remarkable seems to me the reasoning by which the majority of the Senate Committee arrive at the conclusion that the Constitution precludes their making a treaty of arbitration in which the question, where the difference arising is within the treaty, is to be settled by the Board of Arbitration itself.

Senators' View Narrow.

"I cannot exaggerate the importance of escaping from the limited and narrow view which the majority of the Senate Committee take of the power of the Senate in this regard, and of obtaining action by the Senate sustaining the minority view. The ideal toward which we are all working with these treaties is the ultimate establishment of an arbitral court, to which we shall submit our international controversies with the same freedom and the same dependence on the judgment as in case of domestic courts. If the Senate cannot bind itself to submit questions of jurisdiction arising under the treaty, as Norway and Sweden have done, for instance, then the prospect of real and substantial progress is most discouraging.

"I call your attention to the unfortunate consequences not only to ourselves, but to the whole civilized world, not only for to-day, but for ages to come, if the final adoption of this reasoning by the Senate Committee is to prevail. Steadily, throughout the world, the burden of the creation of armies and fleets has grown heavier and heavier; steadily the competition has grown more fierce and is crushing the life and the hopes of the peoples. But steadily, too, and of late even more rapidly, has grown the hope that an escape from these burdens may be found, that in some measure, at least, the same peaceful methods of settling disputes among individual men may obtain among the nations, in some measure. Let us not be too extravagant in our dreams and our prophecies, and yet who can say what the end of such a movement, of such aspirations, may be?

"Now, wherever good men and women the world over are longing and praying for the dawn of this great day of peace, their eyes turn first with hope and confidence to the great Republic of the West, to the land whose ideals are of peace and justice, industry and freedom, to the land which more than any other has used the peaceful method of arbitration for the settlements of its differences with other nations.

Are We Helpless?

"In this great movement we are the hope of the world. This hope, by the proposed narrow construction of the Senate's power to make a treaty, we are now to strike down. To the men and women who are struggling and longing, we say: 'Look not to us for leadership. We cannot even follow. Let other nations arbitrate; let others even set up a high court of nations and pledge their faith that they will resort no more to the dread arbitrament of war, but will abide by the verdict of their chosen judges. The great American nation is unable by its Constitution to help forward the great movement, is unable to bind itself to any future broad submission of its case to an arbitral court, though the whole world follows this light of civilization and peace.'

"For, remember, if the Senate cannot now bind us to abide the judgment of an arbitral court as to whether a question is justiciable, it can never bind us, and if the Senate cannot bind us, the Nation cannot bind us, and this peace-loving people is forever incapable of taking a step along the great path which all the world wishes to tread, and along which all the world thinks America is best fitted to lead."

TAFT BARS GOLF FROM TOUR.

Asks That Foursome Arranged for Denver Visit Be Canceled.

DENVER, Col., Sept. 7.—That President Taft does not expect to have time for his favorite game in the course of his coming "swing around the circle," as indicated by a telegram received here yesterday by President Johnson of the Chamber of Commerce, in which it is asked that a golf foursome which had been arranged between the President and Major Archibald Butt, his military aid, and President A. C. Foster and Walter Fairbanks of the Denver Country Club be eliminated from the President's Denver programme.

The message, which was from the President's Secretary, Charles D. Hilles, assigned no reason, but it is surmised here that if a precedent were established the President would find himself inspecting the various golf courses of the Nation instead of enlightening the voters regarding reciprocity, arbitration, and tariff.

WOMAN SHOOTS ARCHITECT.

Divorced Wife of George C. Coney Puts Two Bullets in Robert Watson.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 7.—Because, she says, he refused to receive her at his home when she called for an interview to-day, Mrs. H. B. Coney, divorced wife of George C. Coney, manager of a manufacturing concern, twice shot Robert Bruce Watson, a well-known architect and contractor, who has held the posts of City and State Architect. Mr. Watson was wounded above the right ear and in the thigh, but is said to be in no serious danger.

The shooting occurred in front of the house of Mr. Watson's mother, 225 South Central Park Avenue, where the woman had waited for his appearance after being rebuffed at the door.

Mrs. Coney left her room at the Brevoort Hotel before 8 o'clock this morning, going at once to the Central Park Avenue address. She rang the bell, which was answered by Mr. Watson. What she said to him neither will tell, but Mr. Watson is said to have told her to leave the place and to have slammed the door in her face.

She paced up and down the sidewalk in front of the house. Shortly before 11 o'clock Mr. Watson appeared. He started down the steps and the woman walked toward him. She jerked open the handbag she was carrying, drew a small revolver from it, and began firing. The first shot struck Watson above the ear. The second struck him in the thigh and the third went wild. Staggered by the effect of the first shot, Watson stumbled just in time to receive the second in his thigh. He then sank to the sidewalk at the foot of the steps.

Mrs. Coney stood over him for an instant, and then replaced the weapon and walked toward West Adams Street until she was arrested. Mr. Watson answered all inquiries by saying that his attorney had advised him to say nothing. Mrs. Coney declared she had known Watson for four or five years and could not bear the thought of being "turned down" by him. She made the following statement to the police:

"I have known Watson for a long time. I went to see him at his home to-day, and he would not let me in. I could not bear being turned down, so I waited for him outside, and when he came along I shot him twice. I did not mean to kill him. I just wanted to stop him from leaving me. That is all I will say."

Mrs. Coney was divorced from George C. Coney, 803 Sheridan Road, several months ago. He is manager of the C. L. Laboiteux Company, manufacturers of paper box board. Her divorce suit alleged cruelty, but Judge Honore denied her decree, giving it to her husband, who, in a cross-bill, alleged infidelity, naming "Richard Roe." The decree gave the husband the custody of their two children. Mr. Coney to-night said that Watson had caused the divorce. Mrs. Coney has been living at the Brevoort Hotel for six months. The management declared that she seemed to have plenty of money and paid her bills promptly.

Watson, who is 42 years old, is well known in club circles and politically. He was State Architect under Governors Tanner and Yates and City Architect under Mayor George B. Swift. He is owner of a large amount of valuable realty and is a Director of the Chicago Athletic Association. His friends had understood that he was engaged to the daughter of a wealthy West Baden, Ind., hotel owner.

SEES TAFT'S DEFEAT IN REPUBLICAN SPLIT

Medill McCormick Says Some New England States Are Out for a Progressive Candidate.

LOCAL ISSUES THE CAUSE

Unrest Because of Railroad Burdens and Possible Effects of Reciprocity if Bill Becomes Law.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Discontent under local political conditions and dissent from Taftism is aiding the progressive Republican cause in New England, according to the views of Medill McCormick of Chicago, who is now at the head of the progressive headquarters in this city, and has just returned from a canvas of that section.

"I was surprised at what I learned," said Mr. McCormick, "and at times I was at a loss to realize where the boundaries of 'the enemy's country' in which President Taft announces he is going to make a speechmaking swing might me. I saw men of every stamp. I consulted many men in the Legislatures and in public office. I found everywhere a spirit of protest against Taft and a constant complaint that he has abandoned his party and gone after false gods in whom he seems to have more faith than he has in the people.

"In New Hampshire there is a strong, well-defined public opinion in favor of a progressive nomination. Without saying that any one man has the lead there, it is safe to say that New Hampshire will send delegates to the next Republican National Convention that will stand for a progressive candidate.

"The first ground of complaint is the reciprocity treaty, and then the old burden of the railread oppression of the people of the State. The revolt against the railroads that led to the election of Gov. Bass may be counted on to gather greater headway before the National campaign and take the State irretrievably over to the progressive standard. Vermont is also under the heel of railroad domination, and the people resent it and are organizing for progressive work. The people up there are hot in their feeling toward the President for his wishy-washy attitude during the construction of the Payne-Aldrich tariff and his stickling now for the results of the Tariff Board.

"To expect wholesome tariff legislation from the Administration, which swallows at a gulp in the reciprocity bill article after article without the revising and guilding labors of the Tariff Board and then throws down well-considered tariff bills passed and laid on his desk, for the reason that they have not had the benefit of the information that the Tariff Board may possibly be able to furnish, strikes sensible people up in New England as unbelievable.

"In Connecticut there is strong progressive support, and it is developing every day. The protest against the action of the Legislature in granting water power rights that are to be capitalized at $200,000, but bonded for $5,000,000, without the State getting a dollar out of the grant, strikes thinking people as good ground for antagonizing the Old Guard politicians of the State, and as the new leaders get control and organize they are going to be felt in time to have delegates at the next National Convention.

"I did not make any study of Massachusetts. The situation there is confused by the activity of the Democrats under Gov. Foss. That there is a large body of progressives in the State we have reason to know, but they have not as yet organized. Gov. Foss is now in the spotlight and what the Democrats are doing occupies the attention of the politicians just now. I expect to spend some time in Massachusetts before long for the purpose of forming an estimate of the feeling of Republicans there.

"In Maine, also, there is some confusion due to the agitation over prohibition, but you will remember that Senator Hale was satisfied that the Administration had lost ground there and that there was a formidable progressive faction developing. I received information that in due time there will be a strong movement there with organization and an effort to secure a part of the delegation to the convention.

"Everywhere you go in that section you hear condemnation of Taft. The people distrust him on the railroad question and they know he is in the wrong place on the tariff, and they plainly say they have lost confidence in him. You do not find men saying they have gone on ahead of the President or that they have got separated from him by their own ideas, but that he has left the party, abandoned his pledges, forgotten how he became President, and failed to recognize his great opportunity in a progressive era which had well dawned when he entered the White House.

"I heard many comments on the way that friends of the President remark that he is going out into the enemy's country to make speeches. That alone, progressive men say, is an evidence of how the President looks upon the great mass of Western Republicans and how he realizes his own possibilities of defeat. The fact will become clearer to him as time passes. It must be remembered that the progressive movement has been under headway for a long time, and it is based on grievances widely extended and of long standing. In New England no newspapers tell of what is doing. We look to the Boston newspapers to know what is going on and we learn nothing from them. But the movement is there just the same as it is elsewhere and gathering headway and momentum every day."

To Open Postal Bank at Night.

Postmaster Voorhies of Brooklyn announced yesterday that he was considering a plan to open the Postal Savings Bank one night a week to accommodate workers who cannot conveniently make deposits during the regular banking hours, between 9 A. M. and 5 P. M. It was said that Monday or Saturday night of each week will probably be the time selected to meet this emergency.

NO RUSH BACK TO THE FARM.

Growth of Agricultural Population in Ten Years Slower Than Cities.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—In the past ten years the percentage of increase in farms has fallen far behind the percentage of increase in cities, according to a bulletin issued this morning by the Bureau of the Census. The growth of the agricultural population, according to this bulletin, was slower in the past ten years than in any decade since 1850.

During the ten years beginning in 1900 the population of the Nation increased 21 per cent. During the same decade the number of farms increased from 5,737,372 to 6,340,357—an increase of only 10.5 per cent. Most remarkable, however, was the showing of the increase in the value of farms. Farm land, exclusive of buildings, was valued at $13,058,008,000 in 1900. In 1910 it was worth $28,386,770,000—an advance of 117 per cent. The size of farms has increased. A big advance was noted in the value of farm buildings and implements. Hired labor in 1910 absorbed $645,612,000—an increase of 80 per cent. over 1900.

White farmers operated 5,422,892 of the farms, 85 per cent., while the number operated by those not of the white race was 917,465. Both were slight increases over 1900. Sixty-six per cent. of all farms were reported "free of debt."

CALLS ALLEGED SMUGGLERS.

District Attorney Wise Notifies Allen and Collins to Appear in Court.

Word was sent yesterday to counsel for Nathan Allen of Kenosha, Wis., and John R. Collins of Memphis, Tenn., by United States District Attorney Wise that their clients must be in court within ten days to plead to the indictments charging them with smuggling jewelry and of conspiring to defraud the Federal Government.

Government agents who are in Chicago to serve indictment papers on Collins and Allen had not served either man last night.

He selected a thoroughly-tailored all-wool Fall Suit for $14.75.

He selected the new-shape Fall derby for $1.88.

He selected a pair of Fall shoes for $3.49.

He selected a Fall silk four-in-hand, special for that day, at 39c.

(There are often such opportunities here by reason of our buying for cash.)

The bill came to $20.51. The whole combination of transactions was effected in about fifteen minutes and the goods were ordered to be sent home.

The man made the remark that it was not the first time he had bought clothes in a department store, and he was good enough to add that his experience at Macy's was a revelation.

Day after day men are learning of the unique value of Macy service.

Still Fine Selection Among These OVERCOATS and SUITS for Men at $11.75

Former Prices Were $18, $20, $22 and $25

We're hurrying these fine garments out to make room for the new Winter stocks. Economical well-dressed men may select excellent clothing at a fraction of its real value. Included are:

Men's Light and Medium-weight Suits.

All of these garments will give splendid service until the snow flies, and they will be useful to many men throughout the Winter. Also the men who buy them now will find them most useful next Spring and next Fall. Every garment in the collection costs more at wholesale than the price for which it can be bought today.

The Raglan Overcoats are quarter-lined with silk and hand-tailored.

The Men's Suits and Raincoats are in a very wide variety; although lots are broken, as a matter of course, there is excellent selection in sizes, from 33 to 48-inch chest measure.

These garments were previously priced at $18, $20, $22 and $25 in our own stock; today they are priced at $11.75 each.

The Season's Most Beautiful Costume Materials Presented in the Gimbel Dress Goods Salons

"What's particularly new this season?" we asked the dress goods expert.

"Three things," he said; "Double-faced Suitings, Bordered Fabrics and Velour de laine." And he proceeded to organize a personally conducted tour through this really extraordinary collection of Fine Dress Goods, which well-informed travelers, at home and abroad, have told us is without a superior in its variety of distinctive fabrics of utmost style, beauty and high character.

First, the Double-faced Cloths from England, France and Germany—fabrics that will make the smartest tailored suits, in many effective color-combinations suggested by Paris. $2 to $5.25 a yard. And their first cousins—the superb Double-faced Cloakings, amazingly soft and fine, in steamer-rug patterns—Scotch plaids, checks and stripes, as well as two-toned grays and tans. These are $1.50 to $12.75 a yard.

The novelty of the Bordered Fabrics lies in the materials to which the Greek key patterns, the deep two-toned borders in fine stripes or huge polka dots, are applied. They are cheviots, homespuns, serges, silk-and-wool poplins, in the whole gamut of the new shades for Autumn, and come to us from Paris, England and Germany. $2 to $5 a yard.

"Velour de laine" has a queer, old-fashioned sound—but the fabric is of the moment—thick and luxurious, with a velvet-like nap, and is shown in a splendid group of black-and-white striped effects and plain colors. (The aforesaid black-and-white combination is highly favored this season.) $2.50 to $6.50 a yard.

Then there is the new Peau de Souris—or mouse-skin—a prunella with a rough but velvety finish; also the handsome Whipcords, the Scotch Plaids for children's dresses, the rough Scotch Tweeds, Homespuns and Cheviots that smack of the heather in their rich brown, gray and tan mixtures, as well as the vast array of staple fabrics, ranging from 75c to $2.50 a yard.

An instance of the variety is that there are over thirty different weaves of navy blue fabrics alone!

It will be a great season for Broadcloths, and here are superb Imported qualities, in chiffon, medium and heavy weights, sponged, shrunk, and warranted spot-proof—

In black—$1.50, $2, $2.50, $3, $3.50, $4, $4.50 and $5 yard.

In colors—$1.50, $2, $2.50, $3 and $3.25 yard.

But the surest way for the woman who wishes to get an insight into this superb collection of Fall Fabrics is to make a visit to the excellent display, in the well-lighted Salons on the Second Floor.

Delightful New Gowns
For Afternoon and Evening Wear

It would be difficult to find a more fascinating collection of costumes for afternoon and evening occasions than that now on view in the Gimbel Costume Salons. It ranges all the way from the simple and dainty frock to most elaborate models, and the inspiration of French master designers is evident in the grace and distinctiveness of the dresses.

Among the Evening Gowns is a superb creation of emerald green charmeuse with over-dress of black Russian Renaissance, richly trimmed with bright jet fringe, $145. Another of American Beauty Chiffon, has an over-dress of black-and-white, with elaborate crystal embroidery. This gown is $135.

Other Evening Costumes of chiffon, mostly with the new and distinctive crystal embroidery and fringe, are $50 to $165.

New Fall Suits for Men
At $15

At this particularly popular price we have exerted our very best efforts this season. And as each new lot of suits arrives our enthusiasm increases, until we feel now that we have undoubtedly exceeded the very good results of former seasons.

Their conspicuous merit lies in a quality of fabric, tailoring and styling that is rarely, if ever, found in suits at $15. We commend them to the man who is accustomed to paying $18 and $20 elsewhere.

Since browns will prevail this season, you'll find them here, of course. Also the new Fall Quaker grays; handsome blues and neat dark colorings. All at $15.

RIGHTEOUSNESS AND PEACE.

Mr. ROOSEVELT's counterblast to arbitration in The Outlook is, from the author's point of view, an admirably well reasoned and consistent polemic. No man who "took the Canal Zone" and let Congress talk about it afterward could with prudence and safety take any other view of the Arbitration Treaty with Great Britain, or of Mr. TAFT's general arbitration policy, than that which ex-President ROOSEVELT expresses in this Outlook article.

Mr. ROOSEVELT discourses much about peace and righteousness. He insists that we must not put peace above righteousness, but righteousness above peace. Here he has quite caught the Bryan trick of phrasemaking. It recalls Mr. BRYAN's admonition against putting the dollar above the man. Mr. ROOSEVELT talks, also, of our obligation "to behave with scrupulous justice to other nations," of the usefulness of combining power with high purpose, and he declares that, for one, he would rather cut off his hand "than see the United States adopt the attitude either of cringing before great and powerful nations who wish to wrong us, or by bullying small and weak nations who have done us no wrong." On the whole, we approve these expressions. They will make The Outlook article more acceptable and convincing to the great bulk of its readers. Men have short memories. To all those who have quite forgotten the seizure of Panama these phrases will give Mr. ROOSEVELT's article the color of high sincerity and capacity for indignation at a public wrong. Those who vividly remember how Panama was "taken" will be nauseated by all this talk about righteousness and abstention from bullying weak powers who have done us no wrong, but they are few.

Should we make with many nations, with the United States of Colombia, for instance, arbitration treaties similar to that we have negotiated with Great Britain, it is conceivable that the wrong done to Colombia when we interfered to prevent her putting down the trumpery revolt in Panama might, possibly, be referred to an arbitral tribunal. We can imagine nothing more disagreeable to ex-President ROOSEVELT than such a reference. His opposition to the arbitration treaty was inevitable. But we think he is needlessly apprehensive. In our judgment the Panama matter will never be referred to arbitration. Why arbitrate a dispute as to which any just tribunal would certainly find against us? Moreover, our reparation to the United States of Colombia should not be made in pursuance of a judgment, but voluntarily, as the result of diplomatic negotiation guided by those principles of righteousness and justice which Mr. ROOSEVELT so cordially approves. This is, indeed, a matter that involves our National honor. The only stain, the only blot, upon our honor and our reputation as a Nation just and fair dealing in its international relations is the "taking" of the Panama Zone. Some time that stain will be removed, because it must be removed. There are a great many people of the United States who would like to be able to look South America in the face without blushing. No arbitration is necessary. It is our duty to come to some agreement with Colombia by which she may give us a just title to what we have secured in the Canal Zone.

We are not impressed with Mr. ROOSEVELT's criticisms of the Arbitration Treaty. He dwells upon the word "justiciable," saying there is "hopeless confusion as to what 'justiciable' means." We have been aware of no confusion in regard to that word. It is defined in the treaty. Matters in dispute are justiciable "by reason of being susceptible of decision by the application of the principles of law or equity." Nor does it seem to us that there is the remotest chance that we should ever refer a dispute to a commission "composed exclusively of foreigners." The treaty provides that each of the high contracting parties "shall designate three of its Nationals to act as members of the Commission of Inquiry"; the provision that the commission "may be otherwise constituted in any particular case" is merely permissive. The tone of Mr. ROOSEVELT's article is unquestionably severe. He finds it difficult to characterize one provision of the treaty truthfully "without seeming to be offensive," he insists that "no moral movement is ever permanently helped by hypocrisy," and he warns us to be on our guard against "false pretense." Inasmuch as President TAFT has been the most conspicuous public advocate of the arbitration policy, these words might seem to be intended for him. An impartial public will judge whether they are justified.

We particularly like one maxim which Mr. ROOSEVELT has embodied in his Outlook article. It is this: "Confused thinking and a willingness to substitute words for thought, even though inspired by an entirely amiable sentimentality, do not tend toward sound action." As a valuable example of that form of thinking and substitution, we feel that this passage from the Outlook article should be here quoted: "Uncle Sam does not intend to wrong any one, but neither does he intend to bind himself if his pocket is picked, his house burglarized, or his face slapped, to 'arbitrate' with the wrongdoer; and, as long as he does not intend so to bind himself, it would be offensive hypocrisy to say that he will so bind himself."

WOMEN JURORS.

The invasion of the jury box by women has begun in earnest in the State of Washington, and will be watched by the rest of the country with great interest. Our ancestors, in their blindness, fancied that the revelations of the law courts were sometimes unfit for the ears of the gentler sex. But the women of Washington have repudiated the gentler-sex idea, and countless women of other States are trying to do likewise. Women have for years defied the old conventions, and the proprieties, too, and thronged courtrooms in which evidence really unfit for any ears had to be endured by Judges, lawyers, and jurors, and they have seemed to enjoy it. That the gift of logic was withheld from woman has been frequently asserted, though never proved, but the logic of male jurors in the State of Washington has not been noticeably strong.

There is no privilege the men would more willingly resign to the women than jury duty. So long as the women of Washington seek for it with the avidity they now display, they will get their full share. The report that in the first experiment a single woman "hung up" the jury is not unlikely. It is so likely, indeed, that the report is probably a mere guess. But one stupid or obstinate man will often keep a jury in conference many hours. Stupidity and obstinacy are not denotements of sex.

Clearer-headed, sounder-minded jurors are needed everywhere. There are many cases in which a jury of women might be found quicker in judgment and fairer than a jury of men. Women are susceptible to sentimental argument, of course, but too many male jurors are at fault in this respect. Washington's women jurors may be influential in reforming the trial courts. We doubt it, but we are willing to wait until the new system has had a fair trial.

THE BUSINESS OF GOVERNMENT.

Mr. R. FULTON CUTTING, in an interesting article in The North American Review for September, draws a striking picture of the "relationship between science and government" in Germany, where it is closer than "anywhere else in the world." He notes particularly the system of "vocational" training and the measures for promoting the welfare of the working class, especially the remarkable system of insurance. There are two sides to this system, and some observers in Germany find that it has much of the demoralizing influence of our veteran pension system. But it cannot be disputed that the policy of the Government has put a stop to emigration, and that the general condition of the German people is one of prosperity and progress.

Another feature of importance is noted by Mr. CUTTING, the establishment of a non-partisan, business and professional system of municipal government. An example of how Mayors are selected is given in the following advertisement in the Cologne newspapers:

> As the undersigned will be retired under the pension law on the 4th of October, 1900, the position of Mayor of the City of Gladbach will thereby become vacant. Candidates who have passed the State examinations for the higher judicial or administrative career, and who have had experience in the administration of a large city, are requested to send in their applications by the 20th of March. The salary is 10,000 marks, with right to a pension and 1,500 marks additional for expenses.

Mr. CUTTING contrasts the conditions facing a Mayor thus trained and chosen and those to which Mr. SETH LOW was subjected ten years ago. He says of Mr. LOW:

> He brought to this high office capacity, integrity, industry, and wide experience. He selected subordinates for their specific qualifications and high character. The two years of his administration set a new standard of official morality, but in economy and efficiency it failed to realize public expectation. It was compelled to operate with a business system obsolete or framed to mislead rather than to enlighten the responsible officials. The great body of employés, largely protected by the civil service law and unsympathetic with reform, made no effort to hold up the hands of the department heads.

There is much truth in this statement, but also some error, that is significant. Employés were not, and are not, in any sense "protected by the civil service law," unless they are veterans or policemen or firemen. They were, and are, subject to dismissal at any time for any reason which their superior cares to put on record, and this without any hindrance or delay from a trial or a hearing. It was largely because the Low administration allowed itself to be muddled on this point, and had not the firmness to use powers it clearly possessed, that its record for "efficiency" was disappointing.

But that is past history. Mr. CUTTING calls attention to the work now being done by the Bureau of Municipal Research, largely in co-operation with city officials, in applying the best business methods to city affairs. Much has been done, and almost without exception with the aid of the department heads. The scientific organization of the Finance Department, for example, has insured "a greater increase in quantity and quality of service rendered" by an increase of $621,000 in the budget than by the increases of from $3,500,000 to $8,000,000 of the preceding seven years. Dr. CLEVELAND, an official of the bureau, is now engaged at the head of the experts reorganizing the Federal administration system. Philadelphia, Cincinnati, and Chicago are making like experiments. Mr. CUTTING concludes his article with an appeal for the extension of this work:

> Honest wealth has to-day, through this agency, an opportunity for public service hitherto virtually denied it. Some of the vast sums contributed to private charity, because government afforded no opening for their wider utilization, may safely travel through this channel.

It is a sound method, and we believe with its full development it will be more fruitful than an attempt to follow in the United States the system of Germany.

"CHOICE FOR PRESIDENT."

New Jersey will on the third Tuesday of next May elect delegates to both of the National Conventions of 1912, each pledged through the primary ballot to some particular "Choice for President." The pledge is not mandatory, but, as popular petitions to print the names of Presidential candidates for either party will have been filed by the 29th of April, so that the voters may express their own preferences at the primary elections, the candidates for delegate or alternate at the National Conventions will be forced to commit themselves in order to win favor and votes.

Similar Presidential preference laws were passed last year by the States of Wisconsin, Nebraska, Oregon, and North Dakota. California and Kansas, which are to hold special sessions of their Legislatures, may join these five States next Spring, and to the list may be added Indiana and most of the Southern States, where the sponsors of WOODROW WILSON'S "boom" are working with the Democratic State Committees to arrange for Presidential primaries. But the "progressive" leaders of both parties are planning to use these primaries. Senator JONATHAN BOURNE of Oregon, who heads the National Progressive Republican League, declares that "any man who was competent to choose between Mr. TAFT and Mr. BRYAN in the last election is competent to choose between Mr. TAFT and Mr. LA FOLLETTE in the coming primaries." He hopes by this extension of the direct primary system to cheat the political bosses and the campaign contributors, and to relieve Presidential nominees of embarrassing obligations to private interests.

New Jersey Democrats will have a "favorite son." Will not the parties in other States likewise express their preferences for "favorite sons" and instruct their delegates to the National Convention to vote for them? Will not a multiplicity of candidates in each State make it impossible for a majority in either party to express its Presidential preference? Or will the contest, by some happy chance, narrow down to WILSON and HARMON upon the one side and TAFT and LA FOLLETTE upon the other?

We have not much confidence in this method of determining who the candidate for the Presidency of either party shall be. The variously instructed delegations would eventually have to compromise in order to unite upon a choice. But the Spring primaries in the Presidential preference States will be watched for the first ground-swell of public opinion toward the campaign of 1912.

RESTORING SHAKESPEARE.

It is worthy of note that in Sir HERBERT TREE's revival of "Macbeth" in London the scene of the slaughter of Lady Macduff and her children is restored to the stage, which, as the Hecate scenes are also employed, with the singing witches who belong to MIDDLETON more surely than to SHAKESPEARE, must make the performance of the tragedy long enough to test severely the patience of a modern audience. There is nothing new under the sky borders in theatrical treatment of SHAKESPEARE, and the wife of the Thane of Fife has screamed and died before on the stage well within the memory of living theatregoers. But the KEMBLES, KEAN, MACREADY, FORREST, and EDWIN BOOTH omitted the Fife scene and others which could be spared in performance for the sake of a wise compression of a tragedy which already begins to get loose-jointed in its third act.

We have no doubt at all that the theatrical curtailment, the dramatisation, in fact, of SHAKESPEARE's works on the modern stage was commendable and in no way inconsistent with reverence for the poet. So long as histrionism prevailed the actors were justified in selecting the acting portion of a Shakespearean play and leaving the rest of it for readers. The demand for SHAKESPEARE'S works as they were written is contemporaneous with the almost complete disappearance of Shakespearean actors. The insistence on the utterance of foul words in the old texts, which had been sensibly omitted by two generations of great actors, indicates the dominance of the theatre, or of its higher reaches, by literary and philological doctrinaires, who, alas! seem to have no faint idea of the tremendous effects the histrions have produced in the expression of passion. We have the text restored, but the spirit, where is it?

We have in mind particularly recent pretentious but unsatisfying performances hereabout, for of the histrionic quality of TREE'S revival of "Macbeth" we know nothing. But if the restoration of scenes hitherto discarded with good judgment indicates the spirit in which the revival was made, we should infer that its chief merit is pictorial, and that a rapid succession of incidents is relied on to atone for the lack of large Shakespearean utterance in the comparatively few but greatly compelling episodes of mighty import.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Publicity Is Not Ineffective.

Without exactly condemning the National Highways Protective Association for keeping a record of grade-crossing accidents and giving frequent publicity to the deaths and injuries thus caused, The Railway Age-Gazette evidences a mysterious dislike for this phase of the association's activities and declares the plan effective only in proving its own uselessness. All the information thus collected, says The Age-Gazette, can be obtained from the annual reports of State commissions, and it assumes that legislators, seeing the facts there, will do what the public, though supplied with "a few harrowing details," cannot do—make laws to meet the situation revealed by the statistics.

This curious argument ignores the possibility that the legislators may be more likely to act if they hear a loud public demand for action. Annual reports of State commissions rarely have many readers, and their effect on public sentiment is apt to be small, but the Highways Protective Association presents its figures through the newspapers as fast as it gets them, and usually manages to make them interesting as well as significant. This seems to be a legitimate way of attaining commendable ends, and, as to the ineffectiveness of that plan, it is doubtful if anybody except railway managers who want to take their time about getting rid of grade crossings will agree with The Age-Gazette.

It seems to be the belief of that periodical that just as the State builds highways and bridges rivers—which the State doesn't often do, by the way—so, at its own expense, the State should eliminate all grade crossings. There is something in that, for the public pays in the end, anyhow, but the suggestion will hardly be popular except in railway circles.

The theory of The Age-Gazette is that "as things are under the present régime, the only force that has much power to hasten crossing improvements is the tragedies that occur now and then," and it adds: "Logically, improvements will not proceed much faster unless the tragedies shall come to be more frequent and shocking." A logician, we suspect, would find an "undistributed middle" in the syllogism implied there, and it will occur to the ordinary wayfaring man that the only reason why the "tragedies" have not already come to be sufficiently frequent and shocking to compel a prompt abolition of the grade crossing is that until the Protective Association got to work the presentation of their horrors was episodic rather than constantly cumulative.

Conviction of Sin Incomplete.

A man out in Los Angeles has written to Mayor GAYNOR—under the compulsion of an awakened conscience, the man says—to confess that years ago he gave false testimony in a case on trial before the Mayor as Judge and so led him into making a wrong decision. In replying to this interesting communication the Mayor shows a severity which will doubtless grieve the writer of it and tells him in effect that the repentance which is a mere abstract emotion—which does not bring forth meet fruits—is a poor, miserable thing, justifying no calmness of soul and no claim to the attainment of real moral regeneration.

To deserve forgiveness, declares the Mayor, the Los Angeles man must accept all the consequences of his sin—must disclose in what case it was that he committed perjury, and do what he can, if anything, to repair the loss or injustice which somebody suffered as a result of the court's misguidance. That is good, sound doctrine, and the Mayor would not have erred had he been even more severe than he was with this far too easily self-satisfied person.

The Los Angeles man belongs to the category of those who think they expiate an ancient theft or fraud when they make a contribution, usually anonymous, to one or another of the various "conscience funds" which public officials have to maintain. So far as recorded history shows, nobody who stole or swindled on a large scale ever tried to square accounts with the world—and Heaven—in this particular way.

Cynics contend that not a few large manifestations, nominally of charity or philanthropy, are in fact the products of remorse for the past or of fear for the future, and that, not being accompanied by open confession, they are of no use to the soul and earn nobody's gratitude. As a rule almost invariable, however, the avowed conscience fund contribution is only a few dollars. If payment in full, perhaps it is a fairly decent settlement for petty smuggling, but for any other crime or misdemeanor it is an absurdly inadequate adjustment, since the pretended penitent draws the line at paying any penalty except the lightest one of several that he owes.

Just so does the Mayor's correspondent accomplish by his carefully restricted revelation nothing except the troubling of the Mayor's mind—and, as everybody out of New York as well as in it ought to know, the Mayor has troubles of his own in quite sufficient number.

A Matter Not of Morals.

As the putting down of cigars and cigarettes can have nothing to do with the putting up of moral standards, the combination of the two impulsions cannot be, as a dispatch from Pittsburgh says, "the cry" which has accompanied the promulgation by the United States Steel Corporation of a rule forbidding its employés to smoke in working hours.

Smoking, of course, is neither moral nor immoral; it is merely the satisfaction of what may be called a needless need—a need which nobody would feel, as such, if it were not deliberately, artificially, and in most cases painfully, created. But, again of course, smoking is not on that account vicious or even reprehensible.

The greater part of civilization and progress—whether of happiness or not is another matter—consists of the creation in the same way of other needs equally needless. The savage gets along perfectly well with only half a dozen of our innumerable necessities, and he has as good a right to condemn us for not living in a nipa hut, with no furniture and few clothes, as the non-smoker has to criticise the smoker for doing something for which he can give no better reason than that if he doesn't do it he will be vaguely uncomfortable for a few days.

This does not get right down to the bottom of the tobacco question, since tobacco is only one of many substances producing like effects, and one or another of them would not be used all over the world if they did not serve a purpose in some mysterious way beneficial. The benefit is not apparent, however, and for all anybody can see they all do more or less harm.

Of the lot, tobacco seems to be the most nearly innocent, and the big steel company does well to ban it, if at all, only in working hours. The propriety of that depends on circumstances.

"TIPS" TO COLLEGE HELPERS.

Boys Who Fill Summer Situations Should Take Them with a Shrug.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read with interest your current editorial entitled "Enterprising, but Not Reputable," and as a former member of the "enterprising but not reputable" cannot but protest against the application of these terms to the American college boy who elects a Summer position, remuneration for which happens to be based upon the tipping system rather than any fixed wage.

In choosing a Summer situation intended to help defray college expenses, the young man is invariably obliged either to forsake most of his creeds and idols, or else accept diminished returns. If tipping is part of the job, he must acknowledge it with a shrug as only one further incident in a chain of unpleasantnesses. I assure you he finds the tip and the mysterious secrecy of the ceremony by which it is usually transmitted distasteful in the utmost, and especially revolting when it takes the form of a bribe in return for unmerited privileges. Sickening as he may find it, the recipient has no course but to acquiesce, and it is upon this capacity to accept cheerfully the disagreeable in order to attain an education for which the American boy, and so many of him, has "worked his way" successfully. Moreover, this baker's dozen of young men who arrived from abroad the other day was no exception to the general rule. Go to the Summer hotels, the excursion steamers, the trolley parks, the resorts and beaches, from Casco to Barnegat, and from San Diego to Banff, and be astonished at the proportion of bellboys and waiters and attendants and life savers and hotel clerks who hail from Cornell and Denison and Yale and Wisconsin. Let the boys continue their enterprise within honesty. Some day they will be our most sensible tip-givers.

WADSWORTH DOSTER.

Torrington, Conn., Sept. 6, 1911.

Rebuttal as to the Micron.

I am amused by the answer of Mr. F. Richards, as it looks as though he had forgotten his first statement, which occasioned the discussion. He now not only seems to admit the micron, but seems to believe in a thousandth of a micron!

The first statement of Mr. Richards said: "When it comes to discussing the metric system there is nothing to help it in the decimal feature of it." And he immediately added: "When it came to the minute measurements required by accurate manufacture, American men were working to thousandths of an inch when the best work of the metric countries was being done in millimeters, which are about four times as big."

This special and clever way in which Mr. Richards presented the thousandth of an inch and the millimeter, just after his remark as to the decimals of the metric system, was well made to induce any one to believe that those two subdivisions were the smallest of respectively the British measures and the metric measures.

As I could not let your readers rest under such an erroneous impression, I replied that the metric system goes much further than the millimeter, even dividing the millimeter in thousand parts, called microns.

The micron finds its definition in the arithmetics, scientific books, and dictionaries, and should not be discussed.

As to the billionth of a meter, let us divide it between Mr. Richards and Sweeney!

Are Typhoid Flies Forgot?

Recently we heard a great shout: Where does this typhoid "epidemic" come from—milk, water, or Summer camps, &c.? It has been an accepted and proven fact for years that one of the greatest typhoid carriers and spreaders is the house fly, and yet only this morning in passing through West Forty-first Street my attention was most forcibly attracted to the row of filthy garbage cans in front of practically every house, preyed on by thousands of flies. Isn't there a law requiring at least garbage can covers, or is there no one to carry it out? What is the use of paying boards of inquiry to analyze the milk and water supply when the greatest mischief is being done right here on our streets?

If there is no health law referring to open garbage cans there ought to be one at least preventing the hundreds of little children from playing right in the midst of all this foul-smelling, decaying refuse. I hope THE TIMES, with its usual public-spirited attitude, will find space to call attention to this flagrant lack of sanitation in our crowded poor districts.

HELEN J. STIEGLER.

Denver's Juvenile "Crime."

The opponents of equal suffrage have been circulating a statement that Denver has a great amount of juvenile crime—presumably due to mothers neglecting their children for politics. Judge Lindsay calls this an "outrageous slander." He says that most of the children's offenses are "of a trivial character," and that during the year 1910, out of a school population of 50,000, only 49 children were so persistently naughty as to be complained of a second time. Judge Lindsay adds:

> The police officers of Denver would, I am sure, cheerfully testify that the criminal conditions among youths that formerly existed in Denver have not only greatly decreased, but the serious cases that we formerly had to cope with from exceptionally bad gangs have almost entirely passed away.

ALICE STONE BLACKWELL.

Chilmark, Mass., Sept. 6, 1911.

The Jury's Vote.

Will not THE TIMES and other newspapers take up the question of changing our jury laws so that, instead of a unanimous verdict a two-thirds majority will convict? It is high time this should be adopted; then such as the Geidel verdict would be impossible.

It has often been suggested that a tribunal of Judges should decide, instead of a jury. This would be very well if such Judges were absolutely independent and elected for life, otherwise political influence could be brought to bear on one or the other in the event of a trial of a ward heeler or a "man with a pull." "JURY-CHANGE."

New York, Sept. 6, 1911.

Would Seal Divorce Papers.

I heartily disagree with your recent editorial comment favoring publicity in regard to divorce: "To announce publicity for a marriage is necessary for the protection of society, and so it is with a divorce."

We don't clamor for nor do we demand to know the details of the love story preceding the marriage, so why should we clamor for and demand the details in case of divorce?

WOMEN FOR ALL OFFICES.

Woman Mayor of Hunnewell Says They'll Serve Without Pay.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 7.—Mrs. Ella Wilson, Mayor of Hunnewell, Kan., says that she will fill all the important town offices with women friends in spite of the five men who constitute the Hunnewell City Council. The declaration was made after a conference with C. W. Trickett, appointed by Gov. Stubbs to assist in disentangling the municipal affairs of the town.

Since Mrs. Wilson's election last Spring the Councilmen have steadily refused either to confirm her appointments or meet with her to transact town business, with the result that it has been impossible to make a tax levy.

"It is too late for the tax levy," said Mrs. Wilson, "but we'll get along without it. I shall appoint women who will serve without pay to the offices of Town Marshal, City Clerk, City Treasurer, and Commissioner of Streets. I am confident that Hunnewell's affairs will be straightened out now in spite of the Councilmen.

"A woman Marshal could do much more than any man to rout out 'blind tigers.' Women get used to smelling their husband's breath. I shall place my confidence in a woman Marshal."

Further than to say that mandamus suits might be brought to compel the Councilmen either to transact the business of their offices or get out, neither Mrs. Mayor Wilson nor Mr. Trickett would say what plan of action will be taken against the rebellious Councilmen. Mrs. Wilson returned to Hunnewell today.

TARIFF BOARD'S POSITION.

It Has Not the "Final Word," and Follows Facts, Not Principle.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial of to-day under the title "Two Tariff Boards" draws conclusions which, unintentionally I am sure, seem to me to be not justified by the facts. As Treasurer of the National Tariff Commission Association I have had occasion and opportunity closely to follow the discussion relating to the organization and work of the Tariff Board, and as Chairman of a special committee of the association, which recently spent several days in investigating the work of the board, under permission given by President Taft, I had exceptional opportunity to inform myself concerning the work it has thus far accomplished and its plans for the future. I may add that the report of our committee was transmitted to Congress on June 20, 1911, by the President in a special message in response to a resolution of the House requesting information relative to Schedule "K." My comments on your editorial are prompted by the experience thus acquired.

You imply that the Tariff Board "must be waited for to say the final word on the reduction of taxation." This is not so. The Tariff Board has no such function or power. Its present duty is merely to collect and collate facts pertinent to the tariff for the information of Congress, and for such use as Congress may see fit to make of that information. It is performing for Congress the service which a Commissioner performs for a court which has appointed the Commissioner to ascertain and report the facts concerning a case under adjudication by the court. The court in this case is Congress, which has the sole power to take action concerning the tariff. The sole function of the Tariff Board is to ascertain impartially, and as accurately and completely as possible, the essential facts needed by Congress as a basis for intelligent legislation.

The Tariff Board expects to file its report concerning matters covered by Schedule "K" in December next. At present its investigation of this subject is incomplete, and the President has wisely declined to furnish Congress with the incomplete evidence relating to Schedule "K" which at present is available. His action in this respect is as well justified as would be the refusal of a court of justice to render a decree on a pending case after hearing only a fraction of the available and material evidence.

You imply also that the Tariff Board is "hampered" by instructions to follow the "absurd principle" of ascertaining the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad. The Tariff Board has no instructions, so far as I know, to follow any "principle," but simply to ascertain facts. From personal investigation I know that the course thus implied is the one which it is steadily and persistently pursuing. President Taft himself has said that "the precise difference in the cost of production sought for is not capable of definite ascertainment; all that even the most scientific person can do is to exercise his best judgment in reaching a conclusion." The Tariff Board is getting the facts; the conclusions will be drawn by Congress. Heretofore Congress has had to rely for its facts chiefly on the testimony of beneficiaries of the tariff; hereafter it will be aided by the evidence gathered for it by a well-organized corps of qualified but disinterested experts. For the first time we are attempting to provide a scientific basis on which to erect the structure of our National tariff, from which, at present, one-half of our National income is derived.

All who sincerely desire to see the crudity of our methods in the past replaced by more modern and scientific methods, and the injustice and inequalities which our past methods have involved eliminated, should give their unqualified approval and support to the work of the President in creating and organizing the Tariff Board, and should unite also in insisting that Congress shall pass promptly the simple legislation which is needed to insure the permanency and continued efficiency of the Tariff Board. ### Complains of Pullman Agent.

The rush of travel from the Adirondacks on Tuesday night resulted in great confusion as to the Pullman service. There was great complaint at Saranac Inn and other stations in the Adirondacks as to the failure of the Pullman agent at Saranac Lake to pay any attention to the reservations made in New York. Many leading professional men and others who had been staying in the Adirondacks were deprived of the opportunity of returning to New York on Tuesday night because the Pullman accommodations they engaged were not forthcoming. One passenger, who had an important appointment for Wednesday in New York, was obliged to sit up in the day coach, and a lady who had engaged a compartment finally secured an upper berth. R. D.

"THE EYES OF PETE."

The eyes of Pete! Ah, should I write
For other eyes, how, morn to night,
They guide my hands and lead my feet,
The eyes of Pete!

The eyes of Pete! Should I confess
How, when I buy a hat or dress,
I straightway plan to have them meet
The eyes of Pete!

The eyes of Pete! And do I dare
Tell how I dread to change my hair,
And quake with fear, when next I meet
Those eyes of Pete?

The eyes of Pete! Or could I say
How many hours of every day
I serve, in visions dim and fleet,
Those eyes of Pete?

The eyes of Pete! I were a fool
To let them see how sure their rule!
Harsh tyrants then, these monarchs sweet,

ROOSEVELT ASSAILS THE TAFT TREATIES

Promise to Arbitrate Vital Questions Would Never Be Kept, He Declares.

RIGHTEOUSNESS OUR AIM

Uncle Sam Can't Arbitrate with One Who Slaps His Face—Present Treaties Meet All Needs.

Ex-President Roosevelt, in an editorial article published in The Outlook yesterday, assails the Taft treaties of arbitration as making for peace without righteousness and as being hypocritical in that this country would not observe them in certain contingencies, even though it agreed to them. He repeatedly emphasizes his point that righteousness is more important than peace. In part he says:

"It is one of our prime duties as a Nation to seek peace. It is an even higher duty to seek righteousness. It is also our duty not to indulge in shams, not to make believe we are getting peace by some patent contrivance which sensible men ought to know cannot work in practice, and which if we sought to make it work might cause irretrievable harm. I sincerely believe in the principle of arbitration; I believe in applying that principle, so far as practicable; but I believe that the effort to apply it where it is not practicable cannot do good and may do serious harm. Confused thinking and a willingness to substitute words for thought, even though inspired by an entirely amiable sentimentality, do not tend toward sound action.

"I think that the great majority of those persons who advocate any and every treaty which is called a treaty for peace or for arbitration would be less often drawn into a position that tends to humiliate their country if they would take the trouble to formulate clearly and definitely just what it is that they desire. Of course, there are persons wholly indifferent to the National honor and interest, who in consequence cannot be reached by an appeal to National honor and interest; and there are other persons whose ingrained personal timidity is such that they are more afraid of war than of any dishonor, personal or National.

Peace Only With Righteousness.

"We, the American people, believe, and ought to believe, in righteousness first and in peace as the handmaid of righteousness. We abhor brutality and wrongdoing, whether exhibited by nations or by individuals. We hold that the same law of righteousness should obtain between nation and nation as between man and man. I, for one, would rather cut off my hand than see the United States adopt the attitude either of cringing before great and powerful nations who wish to wrong us or by bullying small and weak nations who have done us no wrong.

"The American people desire to do justice and to act with frank generosity toward all the other nations of mankind; but I err greatly in my judgment of my countrymen if they are willing to submit to wrong and injustice. Again and again in the past they have shown, and rightly shown, that when the choice lay between righteousness and peace they chose righteousness, just exactly as they also chose righteousness when the choice lay between righteousness and war."

Col. Roosevelt cites the Revolutionary War, the civil war, and the Spanish-American war as instances in which "we put righteousness above peace." He also cites the existing arbitration treaties between the United States, Great Britain, and France as better than the proposed treaties, because they make no false pretenses and exclude questions affecting our vital interests, independence, or honor. He continues:

"Does the proposal in the treaties, if entered into with various nations, bind us to arbitrate the Monroe Doctrine, the Platt amendment with Cuba, the payment of State bonds to European bondholders, the question whether various European countries are entitled to the same concessions that Canada is to receive under the reciprocity agreement, the right of other foreign nations to interfere in Panama, our own right to exclude any immigrants whom we choose to exclude? If these questions arose, I am sure our representatives would, privately or publicly, inform foreign powers (and indeed would have to inform foreign powers) that the American people would never abide by an agreement to arbitrate them; in which case the only proper course to follow is that followed by the Senate Committee, and to say in honest fashion that there are certain questions which this Nation will not arbitrate at the dictation of an outside body.

Wouldn't Keep Our Promise.

"Most men of knowledge, who are willing to think, know perfectly well that this country would not, as a matter of fact, keep an agreement to arbitrate all questions of vital honor and interest, even though it were so unwise as to make it; and it is a wicked thing to put us in the position of promising what will not, and cannot, be performed. In such a matter the indulgence of false pretense in the present would with absolute certainty be followed by the breaking of faith in the future.

"The fatally objectionable feature of the proposed treaty is the clause providing that the Joint High Commission, which may be composed exclusively of 'nationals' of the two countries, but which also may be composed exclusively of foreigners, may, by unanimous vote, or by a vote of all but one of its members, determine that any given question whatever must be arbitrated. It is difficult to characterize this provision truthfully without seeming to be offensive. Merely to speak of it as silly comes far short of saying what should be said.

"We, the people of the United States, cannot and will not surrender to outsiders the power to determine whether or not we are fit to decide for ourselves what are our vital needs, and what are the policies proper for meeting these needs. In other words, Uncle Sam does not intend to wrong any one, but neither does he intend to bind himself, if his pocket is picked, his house burglarized, or his face slapped, to 'arbitrate' with the wrongdoer, and as long as he does not intend so to bind himself it would be offensive hypocrisy for him to say that he will so bind himself.

"The true lovers of peace, the men who have really helped onward the movement for peace, have been those who followed, even though afar off, in the footsteps of Washington and Lincoln, and stood for righteousness as the supreme end of National life. Only by acting on these principles, only by following in the footsteps of these great Americans of the past, can we of the present generation effectively work for and secure the peace of righteousness."

SOLVE WAR PROBLEMS DAILY.

Atlantic Fleet Tests Efficiency of Guns at 16,000 Yards Range.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The Atlantic fleet is accomplishing much in the solution of the problems of war by the target practice now in progress off the Chesapeake capes, according to advices to the Navy Department. Battles of the future will be fought at long ranges, between a maximum and minimum of 16,000 and 8,000 yards, and the present practice is expected to yield much valuable information as to efficiency of the gun crews and as to how far the guns of various calibre can be depended upon to hit with any degree of accuracy.

At the close of each day Rear Admiral Hugo Osterhaus sends a wireless message to the Secretary of the Navy stating that he has completed "Problem A" or "Problem B."

This means much to the officials and officers of the navy, but very little of the information will leak to the public. It will be always enshrouded with secrecy in order that no foreign power may learn just what this country is doing with naval ordnance problems.

DOROTHY WHITNEY WEDDED IN GENEVA

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 7.—The wedding of Dorothy Payne Whitney, daughter of the late William C. Whitney, to Willard D. Straight took place at 12:45 P. M. to-day in the American Church here, the religious service being preceded by a civil ceremony at 9:45 A. M. At the latter eight persons were present, the bride wearing a simple gray gown and others in the party wearing lounge suits and walking dresses.

The religious ceremony was performed by the Right Rev. Thomas Jaggar, assisted by the Rev. W. Nies, rector of the church. The bride's brother, Harry Payne Whitney, gave her away. The bride's nieces, Olive and Dorothy Paget, and Beatrice Bishop, daughter of Cortlandt F. Bishop, acted as bridesmaids. William Phillips of the American Embassy in London, was best man.

Only about thirty people were present, including, besides those already mentioned, Mrs. H. P. Whitney, Payne Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Almeric Paget, Mrs. George A. Bend, Miss Bend, Mr. and Mrs. Cortlandt F. Bishop, Mrs. William Phillips, Edwin Morgan, American Minister to Lisbon; Mrs. Percival Dodge, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Duryea, and Blair Fairchild.

Mr. Straight is former American Consular General at Mukden, and is now connected with the banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co. in Far Eastern investments.

EVADE ELABORATE WEDDING.

George C. Cannon and Miss Gertrude Stone Wed Without Notice.

The marriage of George Curtis Cannon, the second son of Henry W. Cannon, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Cannon, of 288 Madison Avenue, and Miss Gertrude Everett Stone, daughter of Mrs. Howard L. Stone of 257 West Seventy-third Street, on Sept. 2 at Oneonta was an informal affair, there being no notice to the respective families, much less invitations to friends, to witnes sthe tying of the nuptial knot.

Still it cannot be said that the event was an unexpected one. The engagement was announced last January and the wedding was later scheduled for last June, and there was no opposition to the marriage from either family.

The wedding had been postponed from June as Mr. Cannot returned from a long Mediterranean trip quite worn out, and it was decided it should take place this Autumn, a plan promptly carried out. Mr. Cannon is not and had not been seriously ill, however, but has gone about taking a passive part in the Summer pastimes at Delhi, N. Y., where the Cannons have a cottage, As You Like It, and had just returned just previous to his wedding from a motor trip to Alexandria Bay.

Mr. Cannon had not yet fully recovered his usual health, and, disliking the idea of an elaborate church wedding, with its usual accompaniments, he and his fiancee decided to get married speedily and informally and did so.

Immediately after the ceremony they telephoned their respective parents, and were at once asked to come to the Cannon cottage and spend their honeymoon there.

Mr. Cannon and his bride have known each other since childhood, as both families have summered for years at Delhi. Mrs. Cannon has lived in New York with her mother, and the latter's sister, Miss Stone, and their half brother, Dr. H. Everett Russell, at 257 West Seventy-third Street.

The manner in which the young couple avoided the fuss of a fashionable church wedding has been received with good humor by the members of the two families.

Mr. Cannon's father was at one time President of the Chase National Bank, and is now Chairman of its Executive Committee.

Mrs. Edward H. Bulkley to Wed.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 7.—Mrs. Edward H. Bulkley and her son, Edward H. Bulkeley, returned a few days ago from a trip through Scotland. To-day Mrs. Bulkley announced her engagement to Matthew Buchanan of Glasgow, Scotland. The marriage will be in Boston the latter part of next month and will be attended by relatives and few friends. Mrs. Bulkley's husband died about five years ago. The late Mr. Bulkley, who was a brother of Mrs. Prescott Lawrence, Mrs. Roland Redmond, and Mrs. Reginald L. Rives, was taken very ill here about seven years ago. The present Mrs. Bulkley, then a trained nurse of Newport Hospital, nursed him back to health, and their marriage soon followed.

Dr. Bainbridge to Wed Miss Wheeler.

Dr. William Seaman Bainbridge of Gramercy Park, the well-known young surgeon, who has an international reputation as a cancer specialist, and Miss Jessie E. Wheeler, daughter of Mrs. Thomas J. Wheeler of Yonkers, are to be married on Saturday afternoon at Blenheim, the Wheeler home in Yonkers.

BRECK—PARK.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gray Park of 1,527 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, and Cloverly Farm, Westchester, Penn., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen Miner Park, to William Rogers Breck of New York City. No date has been set for the wedding.

DARMSTADTER—DANNENBERG.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Elsie M. Darmstadter of Philadelphia to Joseph Dannenberg, a lawyer of this city.

Help for Sick Girl Solicited.

The New York Section of the Council of Jewish Women asks assistance to send a young girl to the country for a few weeks. The girl is suffering from a physical breakdown due to overwork, and must have country air to prevent a chronic disease setting in. Contributions may be sent to the New York Section of the Council of Jewish Women, 448 Central Park West.

Col. John J. McCook Recovering.

Col. John J. McCook is recovering from a sharp attack of pneumonia from which he has been suffering for the last few days.

SOCIAL NOTES.

The wedding of Miss Louise Burton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Burton, and Wendell P. Blagden, a son of Mrs. Samuel P. Blagden, will take place in Trinity Church at Far Rockaway on Sept. 23. The reception will be at the Burton country place, Albro Farms, at Cedarhurst. The engagement was announced in February.

Mrs. Seth Barton French, who has been at Crowhurst, the Meredyth Whitehouse estate at Manchester, Mass., since she left Wakehurst, Newport, will spend some time at her Virginia Hot Springs estate before sailing for Europe to spend the Winter.

Miss Louise Nevins of Minneapolis, whose engagement to Francis Jewett Johnson of Chicago was recently announced, is a step-daughter of Howard W. Baker, formerly of Chicago, and a niece of the late Mrs. William T. Bull. She has many acquaintances in New York, where she frequently visited Mrs. Bull.

Mrs. Theodore Shonts and her daughter, the Duchess de Chaulnes, and her small son, the Duke de Chaulnes, have arrived at the Plaza from Cape May.

Dr. S. Weir Mitchell and Mrs. Mitchell gave a large tea on Monday afternoon at their Bar Harbor villa in honor of Mrs. Bayard, the widow of the late Ambassador Thomas F. Bayard, who is their guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Scott, who arrived on the Amerika, are at the Plaza.

The British Ambassador and Mrs. Bryce, who are at Seal Harbor, Me., will visit Miss Emily Tuckerman at Stockbridge some time this month.

Mr. and Mrs. William Sherman Scott and Miss Salisbury have returned from abroad and are at Schooner Head, Bar Harbor, for September.

Mrs. William E. Carleton and Miss Ruth Carleton arrived in Quebec Tuesday, and after a brief stay in Canada will go to their Kennebunkport (Me.) cottage, where Dudley and Guy Carleton will join them for a few weeks.

Final rehearsals are being held for the kirmiss to-morrow evening on the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund S. C. Nash at Rye for the benefit of the building fund of the United Hospitals. If the weather is bad the kirmiss will be postponed till the next fair evening. Among those who will take part are the Misses Katherine Rising, Cornelia McLaughlin, Eleanor and Gwendolyn Nash, Anna, Elizabeth, and Rosamond Sherman, Ethel Potter, and Mildred Ward.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis H. Potter (Miss Gwendolyn Carey) have been spending the Summer at the Massasoit, Narragansett Pier, where they will remain until October.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob H. Schiff have returned from the Adirondack camp of their son, Mortimer Schiff, and are at their villa on the Rumson Road, New Jersey.

GERAGHTYS ENJOY NEWPORT.

Reported That a Reconciliation with the French Family Is Expected.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 7.—Mr. and Mrs. John Edward P. Geraghty passed their first day home automobiling along Bellevue Avenue with Mr. Geraghty driving. The couple passed many of their friends and stopped at times to be greeted. They stopped at Pender's garage to allow Mr. Geraghty to talk over business affairs. A car load of furniture arrived from Boston for their cottage in Everett Street, of which they hope to take possession on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Geraghty had a few friends for dinner at the Aquidneck Hotel.

It is reported that a reconciliation with the French family is expected. Mrs. Geraghty called upon friends of her family to-day and was graciously received. It is said that Mrs. Geraghty is anxious to meet her mother.

WOMEN EXPERTS WITH HOSE.

Vanquish Bellevue Fire Fighters in Answering False Alarm.

Armed with several lengths of fire hose attached to opened hydrants, 200 members of the training school for female nurses, opposite Bellevue Hospital, put to rout a similar number of nurses from the male training school last night. The clash followed a lecture before the woman's school by Frank A. Ross, Fire Prevention Expert of the Health and Charities Departments.

After explaining the means to be adopted in case of fire the lecturer had a false alarm sent in to give his auditors a chance to apply what they had learned. This was done by telephoning the Bellevue operator, who notified the engineer of the institution, who in turn had whistles blown, the number of whistles indicating what building the fire was supposed to be in. All Bellevue's fire department rushed out. Armed with hose, hand extinguishers, &s., they rushed over to the men's school, mistaking the alarm. Here they were joined by the inmates of the school, but after a search no sign of fire was found, so all started back for the hospital.

In the meantime, as no response had been received to the call from the women's school, a second call was sent in, and the whistles blew again. The women saw the men returning and rushed out and took the hose away. This they quickly attached to the hydrants and turned the streams upon the men, who fled. Then the women detached the hose, rolled it up neatly, and returned it to its place.

Mr. Ross, who watched the conflict, complimented the nurses upon their work.

Brooklyn Republicans Seek to Oust Mayor's Appointee to Judgeship.

Argument on two applications for writs of mandamus to compel the holding of an election for Judge of the Sixth District Municipal Court, Brooklyn, was heard before Supreme Court Justice Jaycox yesterday. The Republicans do not accept a recent opinion of Corporation Counsel Watson that an election could not be held this year, so applications for the writs of mandamus, one against City Clerk Scully and the other against Secretary of State Lazansky, were made. Justice Jaycox reserved decision in both cases.

The supporters of William S. Shanahan, who was appointed Judge of this court by the Mayor to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Fuelder on Aug. 8, contend that his appointment was regular and that he must remain in office until Jan. 1, 1914.

APPRAISER RECOVERS LOOT.

Articles Found in a Trunk of James Prin, Arrested for Another Theft.

A quantity of articles that are believed to be part of those stolen from the cases of merchandise sent to the Public Stores for appraisal, were found yesterday by Appraiser Francis W. Bird. The articles were found in a trunk belonging to James Prin, who was arrested last week and is held on two charges of larceny, one of which alleges that he stole a valuable ring belonging to Mrs. J. P. Morgan.

The articles consist of neckties, imitation jewelry, fancy dress trimmings, shaving sets, and other goods both of foreign and domestic manufacture. The Appraiser is comparing them with the records of shortages found in the cases sent for appraisal, and is endeavoring to discover their rightful owners.

EDUCATION BUDGET TOTALS $37,000,000

Increase for Running Schools in 1912 $8,000,000—More Visiting Teachers to be Used.

HARD TO CUT THE ESTIMATE

More Evening Schools to be Established and More Vacation Schools and Playgrounds.

The Board of Education is expected to ask for approximately $37,000,000 to run the schools in 1912. Budget estimates submitted by the various bureaus of the Department of Education to the Finance Committee of the Board of Education aggregate a total for the coming year in excess of $36,500,000. As the board has several innovations or enlargements which it wishes to undertake in the coming year, and as there is an equalization of the women teachers' pay with the men's to be provided for, it is not thought that the amount can be materially cut by the Board's Finance Committee.

The schools are being run this year on $29,207,747, the increase for next year therefore amounting to nearly $8,000,000. In the increase will be found the $3,750,000 needed in addition to the present teachers' pay roll, if the equal pay principle is to become effective. The remaining increase of $4,250,000 represents the normal growth and enlargement of the system.

Items in the budget include, for example, $1,342,000 for school supplies, $1,293,609 for general repairs, $94,307 for equipping special rooms for anaemic children, for kitchens, gymnasiums, and workshops, $2,500 for school gardens on school property, $25,000 for the employment of teachers whose duty it will be to visit the homes of pupils in an uplift home educational campaign, and $5,000 for fares of directors and teachers of special branches.

Some innovations and many enlargements are planned. Some of these are more evening schools, an increased number of vacation schools and playgrounds, the opening of playgrounds in the afternoons and on Saturdays for rest places for mothers and children, illumination of school yards used for recreation centres, additional open-air classes for "skinny" pupils, classes for the blind and the cripple, visiting teachers to call at pupils' homes, school gardens, Summer high schools, a vocational bureau to aid students in finding work in vacation season and when they leave school finally.

The employment of visiting teachers is the most notable innovation. Money for this purpose was asked for last year, but the Board of Estimate failed to grant it. City Superintendent Maxwell and associates, however, have seen enough of the work by volunteers to have faith in it, and the request for $25,000 to engage such teachers is to be repeated. In a city of such varied population as this it has frequently been found by teachers that instruction of pupils in the schools does not reach the root of serious defects in the pupil's education. A friendly suggestion from a tactful teacher, it is thought, will do far more for both the pupil and the home from which he comes than many days of instruction in the school room.

The school budget is divided into two funds, general and special. From the first, raised by the three mill tax, the salaries of teachers are paid, while the special fund is applied to the cost of the administration of the schools. The increase estimated to be needed for the general fund is about $6,500,000. Deducting therefrom the $3,750,000, representing the cost of equalising the women teachers' salaries with the men's, the remaining $2,750,000 is accounted for by the normal increase in the growth of the schools and consequent increase in the number of teachers to be paid.

It is estimated that about $1,000,000 more than this year's special fund will be needed. This needed increase is accounted for chiefly in janitors' salaries, repairs to school buildings, and school supplies. The increase in the first item is normal, due to the opening of new school buildings, but the large increases in the last two items are due to small appropriations for these purposes last year, resulting in a shortage of supplies and an out-of-repair condition of some of the school buildings. For general repairs consequently the Board of Education seeks $450,000 in excess of the amount received this year.

Last year the Board of Estimate allowed only $973,000 for the purchase of books and other supplies, and this year the pupils will be required to use many dog-eared and soiled books until more money is appropriated for the purchase of new supplies.

THREE OCEAN LINES ACCUSED

Government Investigating Charges of Discrimination in Rates.

Agents of the United States Government here and abroad are investigating charges brought by American merchants against three steamship companies whose boats ply between New York and South American ports. Discrimination in freight rates is charged and a suit for violation of the Sherman anti-trust law may follow the completion of the investigation, according to reports which were confirmed this afternoon by United States District Attorney Wise.

The investigation has been under way for two months along the lines pursued by Mr. Wise prior to his filing suit last Winter against the so-called Transatlantic Steamship Trust. The existence of an agreement of the thirty-three defendants to that suit was charged in the complaint. The present investigation has so far failed to show a similar document, as the work of the investigators has been hampered by the fact that the South American lines are foreign companies, two of them having headquarters in England and the third being a German enterprise.

One of the chief complainants is Arbuckle Brothers. This firm charges that the Lamport & Holt Line, the Prince Line, and the Hamburg-American Line have discriminated against them in rates on freight between Brazil and New York. The Arbuckle firm has occasionally chartered a boat independent of these companies to bring its freight to New York, and states its opinion in the complaint that these occasions may have something to do with the alleged discrimination. The Lamport & Holt and Prince Lines are British companies; the Hamburg-American Line flies the German flag.

One of the questions now under consideration is whether the United States has the power to stop alleged discrimination in freight rates on merchandise entering the country where the carrier is a foreign corporation. An extreme step, as suggested in the suit against the transatlantic lines, Mr. Wise said, would be to bar offending lines from entrance to American ports.

MRS. OGDEN RECOVERS GEMS.

Jewels Left Aboard Oceana Were Held Safe in Chief Steward's Care.

Mrs. Isabel Ogden has recovered the several hundred dollars' worth of jewelry which she left behind on the steamship Oceana. The vessel reached her pier in Jersey City early yesterday morning.

Mrs. Ogden had notified the police that upon leaving the vessel at Bermuda she had left her jewel case under a mattress in Room 805. Accordingly when the vessel arrived at Jersey City Detective Lieuts. Moody and Leeson were awaiting her. They learned that the lost jewels had been found a few hours after Mrs. Ogden went ashore, and were then in the charge of the chief steward awaiting the coming of their owner. Mrs. Ogden registered at the Plaza Hotel.

Mrs. Wharton Leaves "Crude" America

Mrs. Edith R. Wharton, novelist, who, according to a newspaper dispatch, is leaving America because it is too crude, departed yesterday on the French liner Provence. She was on view on deck before the vessel sailed with a dog under each arm. Asked whether she had abandoned America for good to live in England, the novelist said that the report was untrue. She would not say how long she will be away, nor would her husband, Edward Wharton, who was down to see her off.

"KISS WALTZ" FOR CASINO.

"Pinafore," with Fay Templeton, to be Taken on a Short Tour.

The company that is playing "Pinafore" at the Casino Theatre now will go on a short tour after one more full week in New York, opening at the Lyric Theatre, Philadelphia, Sept. 18. Its place at the Casino will be taken by the Shuberts' production of "The Kiss Waltz" that is playing in Philadelphia.

Fay Templeton agreed yesterday to go on tour with the "Pinafore" company, continuing in the rôle of Little Buttercup, and all of the others of the cast, including De Wolf Hopper, R. E. Graham, Arthur Aldridge, Eugene Cowles, Edith Decker, and Alice Brady, have consented to make the journey.

This does not mean that the idea of making a revival of "The Pirates of Penzance" has been abandoned. This operetta will be put on in New York soon after the Christmas holidays, either at the Casino or at some other Shubert theatre.

SUNDAY CONCERT OPPOSITION

Philadelphia Opera Management Likely to Have Legal Difficulties.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.—The plan for giving Sunday concerts in Philadelphia at the Metropolitan Opera House, as outlined by Bernhard Ulrich, manager of the Chicago Opera Company, has been received with mingled opinions. There has as yet developed no organized protest on the part of the clergy, by whom objections will probably be made, but it is likely that the opera management would encounter some legal difficulties in carrying out such a plan.

Several years ago a well-known local impresario tried to arrange such a series of concerts, and it surprised him greatly to find that, while under the ancient laws a concert could be given on Sunday, not a cent of admission could be charged therefor. As soon as there were box-office receipts the law was being broken and its enforcement could be insisted upon by any one who might choose to take such action.

The various German singing societies of the city encountered the same difficulty, while a project to give concerts on Sunday by the Philadelphia Orchestra was squelched two years ago by what was called popular opinion.

THEATRICAL FOLK RETURN.

Gertrude Elliott, George Arliss, and Alice Lloyd on Mauretania.

Gertrude Elliott, (Mrs. Forbes-Robertson,) George Arliss, and Alice Lloyd were among the theatrical celebrities on the Mauretania, arriving last night. Miss Lloyd is to be starred by Werba & Leuscher in a new musical comedy, Miss Elliott is to have the leading rôle in Joseph Medill Patterson's drama, "Rebellion," under the direction of Liebler & Co., and Mr. Arliss is to appear in Louis N. Parker's "Disraeli," under the same management, at Wallack's Theatre, after the run of "Pomander Walk" at that house.

"The Grain of Dust" Staged.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 7.—James K. Hackett produced here to-night Louis Evan Shipman's dramatization of "The Grain of Dust," the last story to be completed by David Graham Phillips. The play deals with the battles of modern business and has a love interest. In Mr. Hackett's support were Frazer Coulter, Frank Burbeck, Vaughan Trevor, Charles Stedman, Fred A. Sullivan, David Jarrett, Jr., Olive Oliver, Pauline Neff, and Mary Moran. By special request Mr. Hackett presented his "Les Miserables" sketch, "The Bishop's Candlesticks," as an afterpiece. "The Grain of Dust" will play St. Louis for a week, and will then go to the Blackstone Theatre, Chicago, for a run.

Boy Actor in "The Great Name."

The little boy, Sydney Ray Melven, who appeared in the revival of "The Lights o' London" last Spring, has been engaged by Henry W. Savage for the boy's rôle in "The Great Name," in which Henry Kolker is being starred. Master Melven made his professional début with Dustin Farnum in "Cameo Kirby," and later appeared in the juvenile casts of "Pomander Walk" and "Pinafore." Other engagements for "The Great Name" are Russ Whytal, Lizzie Hudson Collier, Sam Edwards, Edward Langford, Arthur Hoyt, Louise Woods, Louise de Rigny, Rud Duering, Dorothy Walters, and Ruth Chatterton. The season will begin at Allentown, Penn., on Sept. 22, and the play will come to New York early in October.

George Beban in "Sign of the Rose."

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Sept. 7.—George Beban made his first appearance as a star here to-night at the Collingwood Opera House in his own drama, "The Sign of the Rose." The plot of the play is based on the love of an Italian workman for his dead child, and is an elaboration of a vaudeville sketch which Mr. Beban has been playing for two seasons. Supporting the star were Edna May Howel, Marie Pavey, George Probert, P. W. Perry, A. S. Bryon, Franklin Ritchie, Carl Anthony, Esther Banks, James A. Marcus, Del De Louis, and Edith MacBride. Mr. Beban and his company will go to Atlanta, Ga., next week to open the new Atlanta Theatre on Monday night.

HELD FOR SELLING AIGRETTES

Feather Importers to Carry Mrs. McCulloch's Case to Supreme Court.

Magistrate Appleton, in the Harlem Court, held Mrs. H. B. McCulloch of 430 West 119th Street in $200 cash bail yesterday for examination Sept. 21 on a charge of violating the new law forbidding the sale of aigrettes or other bird plumage.

Benjamin F. Feiner, counsel for the Feather Importers' Association, declared that the association would take the case as a test to the Supreme Court, and he asked for time, so that former Attorney General Julius M. Mayer, now fighting this Shea law in the United States Circuit Court, may apepar for the importers.

O. F. Bowdish, an ornithologist, of the Audubon Society, which helped to frame the bill, examined the aigrettes Mrs. McCulloch wanted to sell through an advertisement, of which there were said to be eighty, for which she may be fined at the rate of $25 each, or $2,000.

Lieut. Joseph Loughran.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—One of the pioneers under "Kit" Carson, Lieut. Joseph Loughran, who for many years has been an examiner in the Pension Office, died last night at his home here. Besides fighting the Indians under Capt. Carson, Mr. Loughran was a veteran of the civil war and was one of the organizers of the Kit Carson G. A. R. Post. Lieut. Loughran was in the Johnson campaign, which left Fort Riley, going against Confederates in Utah during the civil war. He saw service all through the war, and was rewarded for meritorious conduct. After 1880 Lieut. Loughran was stationed for several months at Governors Island, New York, after which he was transferred to the Adjutant General's office in Washington, later going to the Pension Bureau,

KIPLING'S WARNING AGAINST RECIPROCITY

He Says Canada Is Risking Her Soul—If She Pawns It She'll Become American.

WHY THROW HERITAGE AWAY?

She May Have, Among Other Things, to Admit Reciprocity in Murder Rate —Laurier Contradicts Taft.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Sept. 7.—The following is the text of a message sent by Rudyard Kipling to the Canadian people to-day through The Montreal Star:

To the Editor of The Montreal Star:

I do not understand how 9,000,000 people can enter into such arrangements as are proposed with 90,000,000 strangers on an open frontier of 4,000 miles and at the same time preserve their national integrity.

Ten to one is too heavy odds. No single Canadian would accept such odds in any private matter that was as vital to him personally as this issue is to the nation.

It is her own soul that Canada risks to-day. Once that soul is pawned for any consideration Canada must inevitably conform to the commercial, legal, financial, social, and ethical standards which will be imposed upon her by the sheer admitted weight of the United States.

She might, for example, be compelled later on to admit reciprocity in the murder rate of the United States, which at present, I believe, is something over 150 per million per annum.

If these proposals had been made a generation ago, or if the Dominion were to-day poor, depressed, and without hope, one would perhaps understand their being discussed, but Canada is none of these things. She is a nation, and, as the lives of nations are reckoned, will ere long be among the great nations.

Why, then, when she has made herself what she is, should she throw the enormous gifts of her inheritance and her future into the hands of a people who by their haste and waste have so dissipated their own resources that even before national middle age they are driven to seek virgin fields for cheaper food and living?

Whatever the United States may gain, and I presume that the United States proposals are not wholly altruistic, I see nothing for Canada in reciprocity except a little ready money which she does not need and a very long repentance.

RUDYARD KIPLING.

SUDBURY, Ont., Sept. 7.—Hundreds of French residents of Nipissing Riding attended a Liberal picnic this afternoon to see and hear the Premier, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who in his speech alluded to a Conservative pamphlet that is being circulated, which quotes President Taft's words that Canada is at the "parting of the ways."

"This is not true," Sir Wilfrid declared. "We are prepared to talk business with President Taft, but we don't talk politcs to him. If it be true that the President said that Canada is at the parting of the ways, I would say to President Taft that he does not know what he is talking about. I would say to him, 'We are prepared to meet you on business, but if you want to talk politics keep to your side of the line and we shall keep to ours.'"

Obituary Notes.

WILLIAM H. FLETT, prominent progressive Republican leader in Washington and formerly in Wisconsin, is dead in Seattle, aged 55. He was at one time a member of the Wisconsin Senate.

A. H. CRAIG, former justice of the Illinois Supreme Court, died in Galesburg Wednesday night of pneumonia. He was 80 years old.

CHARLES EDWIN ANGEL, President of a milling company, prominent clubman, and former President of the Chamber of Commerce, died in Rochester, N. Y., yesterday, aged 53 years.

ISAAC BAILEY, 79 years old, of Pasadena, Cal., one of the largest promoters of operations in the Southern California oilfields, died Wednesday at Albany, N. Y. Mr. Bailey accumulated several million dollars in the manufacture of flaxseed commodities in Washington and moved to California in 1893. He was President of the Amazon Oil Company, a Director of the Revenue Oil Company, and Vice President of the Pasadena National Bank. He was accompanied to the East by his wife and son, apparently, in the best of health when he reached Albany.

CHARLES ST. CLAIR, the old book seller who held forth for nearly a quarter of a century at Park Row and Beekman Street, died Wednesday at Cedarhurst, L. I., of Bright's disease. Since he sold his lease in 1900 for $10,000, he ran a little curio shop and hotel at Cedarhurst. Mr. St. Clair was a picturesque figure, always sporting a silk hat carefully brushed and slightly tilted, a frock coat, and a big diamond in his shirt. When not selling books he would discuss politics most volubly, always taking the Democratic side.

HENRIETTA POMEROY McKNIGHT, wife of Francis H. McKnight of this city, died at the Sloane Maternity Hospital yesterday morning. Mrs. McKnight was a sister of Henry P. Davison of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. She was born in Troy, Penn., thirty-five years ago and made her home there until her marriage in September last. Mrs. McKnight was educated at the Rye (N. Y.) Seminary.

THOMAS A. HEALY, Deputy Collector of Taxes and Arrears for the Borough of Queens, died on Tuesday at his home, 84 Pine Street, Flushing, after an illness of a year. Before taking his city position he had been Superintendent of the Harway Dye Works for eighteen years.

WILLIAM DOUGHTY LITTELL, a retired wood engraver of 788 Jefferson Avenue, Brooklyn, died at the age of 62 years on Tuesday at his home. He was born in Manhattan and left a widow and son.

ROSA G. HELLMAN, a teacher of domestic science at the Educational Alliance, died on Tuesday at the home of her parents, 62 West Eighty-seventh Street. She was 22 years old.

FRANCIS J. STOUTER, one of the oldest residents of New Rochelle, died at his home in Fifth Avenue there on Tuesday, aged 80 years. He had been Road Commissioner for twenty years.

Mrs. HENRIETTA LINDENMEYR, whose late husband, Henry Lindenmeyr, founded the new and book paper house of Henry Lindenmeyr & Son, died of heart disease Wednesday at her home, 194 Riverside Drive. She was 72 years old and had been an invalid for the last five years.

Capt. EDWARD NILSEN, one of the old-time skippers of the Red Star Line, died Wednesday at Elizabeth, N. J. He retired seventeen years ago, after thirty years at sea. He was a member of one of the oldest seafaring families of Norway.

WILKING BRITTON COOLEY, chief of the complaint bureau of a large department store, died Wednesday at his home, 81 West Eleventh Street. He was born at Easton, Penn., in 1855, and was graduated from Lafalette College, entering the postal service at Easton. He was transferred to the Washington (D. C.) office and made a division chief by John Wanamaker.

ROBERT G. JACKSON, who was one of the greatest scullers in the country in the early eighties, and who several times competed in the championships, died in Yonkers yesterday. He was born in London fifty-eight years ago.

YESTERDAY'S WILLS.

PETER O'HARE, died on March 11, leaving an amount not stated to be divided equally among his nephews and nieces, Frank, Stephen, Mary, and Kate O'Hare.

MARY MARSHALL, 536 East Fifth Street, died in Bellevue Hospital, Feb. 26, leaving no real property, but about $900 personal property to be divided equally between her sons, David M. and John Marshall.

ROBERT ERWIN DEAD IN CHAIR

Was with Original Casino Company and Treasurer of Broadway Theatre.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Robert Erwin, member of one of the most prominent families in the southern part of Albany County, was found dead this morning at the new Salem Water Pumping Station, sitting in a chair beside the gasoline engine that pumps the water for the suburban water company which supplies Slingerlands.

Erwin was 52 years old, and was born in New York. He was a son of the late Robert Erwin. When a young man he was a member of the original New York Casino Company, and later was Treasurer of the Broadway Theatre in New York. He was a musician of unusual talent.

The Giants got the rudest rebuke of the season at the Polo Grounds yesterday when Brooklyn pulled out a 4-to-3 victory in the ninth inning. Brooklyn, of course, is perfectly within its rights in insisting on winning a game once in a while, but they chose the wrong time for it. The defeat of the Giants yesterday with Mathewson in the box worked havoc with New York's grasp on first place in the pennant race. The downfall, with the Cubs' double victory over the Reds, places the Chicago Club only six points behind the Giants, which is too close to be comfortable.

Yesterday's game was a complete surprise, not only to New York but to Brooklyn. Two days' rest hasn't done the Giants a bit of good, and their work was ragged and uncertain. It was chiefly through errors that Brooklyn was able to grasp the game. Cy Barger was the reason that the Giants were unable to work up any kind of an attack. Barger had the batsmen sadly muddled, and two clean hits was all the destruction the New Yorkers could do. There were two other hits recorded, but they were scratchy, lucky affairs.

Brooklyn's victory came in the last half of the ninth inning with two out. Bart Tooley was patient and was passed. Daubert then smashed a high fly between centre and right fields. Snodgrass ran after the fly and planted himself under it while it dropped. The ball fell into his outstretched palms, and as everybody was about to eject a sigh of relief the outfielder let the ball drop and Tooley raced around the paths with the winning run.

Barger had one bad inning, and that was the first. After Devore and Doyle had died at first Snodgrass walked. He stole second and scored on Murray's lively jolt to left field, Red going to second when the ball was thrown in. Merkle then got a lucky three-bagger. He raised the ball into right field, and it came down so close to the cement wall that Coulson couldn't get it, although he stood there waiting for it. Murray scored. Herzog walked, and when he and Merkle tried to work a double steal Merkle was nabbed at the plate. This two-run lead looked good, because Matty pitched good ball for the first five innings. Devore made a spectacular catch of Hummel's hard fly in the second inning, which probably prevented a home run.

New York's first sign of weakening began to show itself in the sixth inning. Matty's support was much worse than he was. Barger, the first man up, struck out, but Meyers dropped the third strike. He threw the ball to first, and Merkle muffed it. Tooley walked, and Daubert sacrificed both runners along a station. Wheat hit to right field, scoring Barger. He tried to take second, but was nailed by Doyle. Brooklyn took the lead in the seventh. Hummel singled to right field. Humphrey grounded to Matty, who tossed to Fletcher at second to force Hummel. Fletcher dropped the ball and both runners were safe. Coulson skied to Herzog.

Tex Erwin was put in to bat for Bill Bergen, and he laid a spunky grounder in the infield. Meyers tossed it to Merkle, who didn't handle the ball perfectly, but the runner had it beaten anyway. Tooley, with a single through the pitcher's box to centre field, scored Hummel and Humphrey. Daubert died at first for the third out.

New York got one run back and tied the score in the same chapter. Herzog was out, Tooley to Daubert, and Fletcher walked. He stole second and went to third when Erwin threw over Hummel's head. Meyers pushed a grounder to Barger, who threw home to get Fletcher. The runner slid in low and Erwin wasn't able to tag him. On a hit-and-run play Matty flied to right field, and Becker, who ran for Meyers, was caught before he could get back to the bag.

Brooklyn broke the tie in the ninth on Tooley's free ticket and the awful muff by Snodgrass. In their half of the ninth New York died quickly, the victims of a fast double play.

CLOSING UP A BIG GAP.

Chicago gained twelve points on the Giants yesterday.

Brooklyn would have had another run in the sixth if Tooley hadn't stuck to third base as if he was glued.

The Orphans were there strong, and they made more noise than the rest of the congregation put together.

The two best pitchers, "Matty" and Marquard, downed by Boston and Brooklyn! 'Tis a pity.

Third Baseman Smith of Nashville covered a lot of territory. He's the player whose beautiful fiancée refused to allow him to play with Brooklyn. Maybe she saw them play.

Famous Batsman Strong Factor In Cubs' Double Victory Over Reds.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Outfielder Frank Schulte's twenty-first home run of the season to-day was responsible for Chicago's winning the first game from Cincinnati, 3 to 0. A batting rally in the eighth inning of the second game, in which Schulte's single put Chicago two runs ahead, resulted in a 4 to 2 victory for the locals. Scores:

Leach Clears Bases with Homer.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 7.—Pittsburgh opened its final series with St. Louis to-day and shut out the locals 5 to 0. Hendrix gave only three scattered hits. The visitors scored their first run in the seventh inning on an error and a double. In the ninth, with the bases full and two out, Leach drove the ball into centrefield for a home run. Score:

Phillies Take Two from Boston.

BOSTON, Sept. 7.—Although Boston obtained 19 hits off two Philadelphia pitchers in the first game to-day the home team lost 13 to 5. Alexander held them to one hit in the second game, which Philadelphia won, 1 to 0. Alexander almost achieved a "no hit, no man reach first" game, allowing no base on balls. The simple hit off him was a scratch one.

Cy Young opposed Alexander and the veteran's undoing came in the eighth inning, when Paskert singled, stole second and scored on Lobert's hit. Donlin and Gowdy were ordered off the field in the second game for arguing. The scores:

New Baseball Ruling.

In order to prevent the recurrence of what has happened to a few ball clubs in recent years, whereby a drafted or purchased ball player was prevented from reporting through death or disability from illness or injury, the National Commission has made a ruling covering the case. In the past all money paid out by one club to another was kept by the club to which it was sent. In the future it will be returned.

Karger Goes Back to St. Paul.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 7.—Manager Kelly of the St. Paul American Association Baseball Club announced to-day that Eddie Karger, a former St. Paul pitcher, but now of the Boston American League team, had been purchased outright and would return to St. Paul in time to pitch in the game with Milwaukee next Sunday.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—With three on the bases and two out, Manager Chase yanked out Vaughn, who had displaced Warhop on the rubber and sent Russell Ford to do the heaving.

The moist-ball artist caused Walker to dump the ball in front of the plate, and what looked to be a defeat was turned into a victory for the Yankees over the Senators to-day by a score of 5 to 2.

Jack Warhop was Manager Chase's selection for box duty, and he had the Senators eating out of his hand, allowing them five scattered hits and fanning three. Up to the eighth inning, he was invincible, Johnson and Schaefer being the only men to hit him. Warhop was ejected for disputing a decision. On the other hand, Jack Knight won the game for the Yankees in the second round when he slammed the ball over the right-field fence for a home run, scoring Hartzell ahead of him. These two runs put a crimp in the Senators' aspirations, and not until the eighth inning did they get together.

Walter Johnson opposed Warhop on the mound, and while he fanned eight, he was also touched for eight safeties, including Blair's triple, Daniels's double, and Knight's slam over the fence for a circuit trot. Chase put up a great game on first base, as did Caldwell, who played right field. Time and again the pitcher-outfielder would come in on the run and snag a line drive. Earl Gardner on second and Knight at short played good ball, making fast plays that killed the Senators' hopes in more than one inning. Two fast double plays by the Yankees were the features of the game.

The third session saw the Senators get one of the runs back. Street went out, Knight to Chase, and Walter Johnson found one to his liking and he stopped at third. Milan's fly to Caldwell put Johnson over the plate. Schaefer doubled, but Elberfeld was an easy out, Hartzell to Chase.

The Yanks tallied in the sixth inning. Caldwell walked and stole second. Hemphill went out, Elberfeld to Schaefer, Caldwell taking third on the play. Chase went out on a drive to Milan, but Hartzell singled to left, scoring Caldwell. Gardner ended the inning by grounding out, McBride to Schaefer.

In the eighth inning the Senators started to put the game on ice. Lelivelt was sent in to hit for Street, and hit he did, a neat single to centre. Johnson followed this with a single in the same place, and Milan forced Johnson at second. Ainsmith, who was running for Lelivelt, taking third on the play. Warhop objected to one of Perrine's decisions at this stage and he was benched, Vaughn taking up the box work. Schaefer forced Milan, every member of the Yankee infield taking part in the run down, Germany pulling up at second.

Elberfeld walked and Gessler was hit, filling the bases. With two-and-two on Walker, Schaefer started for home and had the throw beaten when Walker hit a little roller to Ford, who had displaced Vaughn with the bases full, and the inning was over with the Yankees still one run to the good.

In the ninth the visitors pulled down two runs. Chase singled, Hartzell went out to Walker, Gardner singled and Knight singled, scoring Chase. Blair forced Knight at second. Gardner and Blair then worked the double steal while Johnson held the ball in his hand, Earl crossing the plate. Ford fanned, ending the inning.

The Senators made one last attempt in the ninth, but Ford was their master. McBride was hit. Conroy popped to Daniels. Henry forced McBride at second, and Walter Johnson ended the game by whiffing.

BOXING SCANDAL TO BE AIRED TO-DAY

The most important meeting yet held by the newly appointed State Athletic Commission is scheduled for this morning at 10 o'clock at the commission's office, 41 Park Row. The meeting has been called for the special purpose of resuming the investigation of the complaints concerning the violation of rules by the Madison Square Athletic Club at the time that club conducted the Wells-Brown bout in Madison Square Garden. It is expected that the session will be an open one, as Commissioner Frank S. O'Neil, who is the leader in the investigation, favors such a plan. In view of the publicity already given the case, Mr. O'Neil figures that the good of the sport demands the widest publicity in this investigation.

The principal things which Mr. O'Neil intends to find out this morning are summed up in these three questions: Who shares in the profits of the Madison A. C.? How could the club be given a year's lease on the building when the present structure is to be torn down in February? Were tickets sold on the night of the Brown-Wells bout at a figure above the price marked on the tickets?

At the last meeting of the commission Patrick Powers, manager of the club, declined to answer any of these questions except when represented by counsel. It is expected that Mr. Powers's attorney will attend to-day's meeting.

As for the division of profits, it is quite generally understood that the owners of the Garden share largely in the profits, as they do in several other enterprises which use the Garden for exhibition purposes. It has also been stated that Mr. Powers in the present instance is acting more in the capacity of agent for the Garden interests than as the head of a regularly formed athletic club, having no connection with the Garden owners, but simply leasing the building for fight purposes. Such a club as the Madison Square A. C. was formed four years ago; in the present arrangement it is said to be acting as a partner of the Garden interests rather than a lessee of the Garden property. In the same light Harry Pollok, considered as Mr. Powers's partner as head of the Madison Square A. C., is held to be an employe of P. T. Powers, agent for the Garden interests. This is one feature of the case which the commission is especially anxious to clear up, to make it plain whether a regularly formed athletic club is conducting the bouts or whether they are being conducted by the Garden corporation, hidden behind the club.

The lease of the building for fight purposes is another question that Mr. O'Neil intends to unravel. James Young, treasurer of the Madison Square Garden Corporation, stated yesterday that the Madison Square A. C. holds a bona fide lease to the building for a term of one year, as required by the Frawley bill. Asked if the Garden was not to be torn down in February, Mr. Young said that he was unable to state. He explained that every lease issued by the Madison Square Garden Corporation contains a conditional clause which states that the lease becomes invalid in case the Garden is sold or transferred to another holding company. A notice of six months is called for in the usual leases, but it is modified at times to a notice of ten days or less, Mr. Young explained. He stated that Mr. Powers has a bona fide lease to the building, issued in the usual form and with the same conditional clause included in the leases issued to the Horse Show, Automobile Shows and other affairs conducted in the Garden.

Mr. Young stated that much opposition has been brought to bear on the Madison Square A. C. by promoters of other clubs in the city who regard Garden bouts as likely to greatly injure their own interests. He added that some of these promoters had tried to secure the Garden when the Frawley bill was passed, but lost out to Mr. Powers. It is stated that evidence showing the opposition of rival promoters is to be introduced at to-day's hearing.

As James E. Sullivan has resigned from the commission it will require unanimous action by Commissioners O'Neil and Dixon to transact any business at to-day's hearing. A deadlock such as marked the hearing last week will defeat the ends of the investigation. The question of secret or open session will be the first to be taken up, and if Mr. Dixon agrees with his colleague the meeting will be public. One close to the situation said yesterday that last week's conditions would be greatly changed when to-day's meeting is held. It is inferred that Commissioner Dixon will give Commissioner O'Neil his hearty support in the effort to make everything according to the Frawley law. If such is the case, it is not at all an improbability that the license of the Madison Square A. C. may be revoked.

The war on the boxing clubs begun on Wednesday by Fire Commissioner Johnson, in an effort to prevent any loss of life in case of fire, was continued yesterday. The Olympic A. C. was visited and a recommendation made for more water buckets, stationary seats and the establishment of sufficient aisles. At the Sharkey A. C. it was found that all seats were not stationary and a recommendation was made that the loose chairs be fastened securely to the floor.

MULDOON ON BOXING.

Proposed Commissioner Gives His Views on a Complicated Situation.

Interest in the candidacy of William Muldoon, once the greatest wrestler, as a member of the so-called boxing commission, the chairmanship of which was recently made vacant by the resignation of James E. Sullivan, was generally hailed with enthusiasm wherever men interested in the sport congregated.

Concededly an ideal nominee for the position—which is purely an honorary one—Muldoon on all sides was said to be the type of man who can rescue the game from the pitfalls it seems to be engulfed in.

Muldoon is generally credited with being well up on all the ins-and-outs of boxing, both from managerial and coaching standpoints. It is further conceded that promoters and the like would pull no wool over his eyes, and, as in his present vocation he is obeyed to the very letter of the laws he lays down, it is the consensus that he would brook no interference with what, after he had given the subject mature consideration, he fancied the duties of the office called for.

When seen at his Westchester County home yesterday he admitted he was at a loss to know who had advocated him for what, up to date, has been a thankless berth, entailing all sorts of verbal mud-slinging and the like. He admitted, however, that were he appointed some people would be brought up with a round turn.

"It looks to me," continued Mr. Muldoon, "as though certain promoters were trying to kill the goose which lays the golden eggs. I am very much disgusted with the turn things have taken in the boxing line, and if certain people are not choked off—figuratively, I mean—legislation will surely be enacted which will kill the sport for all time.

"Boxing is a fine game when carried on with the proper checks, but when people are fleeced by being made to pay $7 for $2 seats, and higher prices in like ratio, action is necessary, and not of the conciliatory kind, which makes attempts to spare friends..

"At present the number of licenses issued seems too many. Then, again, it appears that proper investigation has not been made into the safety of spectators. If I were a member of the committee no club would get my say-so until the Fire and Building Departments had put their O. K. on the places in which the contests were to be held.

"I would carve the present list of referees so that it would be unrecognizable.

"In the matter of referees I would, after the appointment of men I thought knew their little book, have a code drawn up, which they would be in duty bound to live up to or forfeit their positions. I would be for giving them the power to disqualify any and all boxers who deliberately clinch and make farcical exhibitions, thereby giving the spectators not a semblance of run for their money.

"Another bad feature of present-day methods is the custom of the timekeeper in giving warning to the contestants, some ten seconds before the expiration of a round, upon which we have the spectacle of seeing stools pushed into the ring, with the result that, if a man chances to be in a bad way, he, with this intimation, invariably hangs on, thus helping to spoil the contest. The whole subject is one which needs proper regulation, otherwise we will soon see a good sport go the way of racing, which was ruined because of the greed of a few."

MOORE AND MURPHY DRAW.

Philadelphia and Flatbush Boys In Even Match at National S. C.

Pal Moore of Philadelphia and Tommy Murphy of Flatbush went over the full ten-round route last night at the National Sporting Club and finished with honors about even. Both worked hard all the way, and there was enough action to satisfy the crowd, which comfortably filled the West Forty-fourth Street clubhouse, but there was little of the spectacular work that both have been known to uncover in the past. At times Moore's punches landed hard and often on Tommy's head, and there were other times when conditions were exactly reversed, but for the most part neither was able to shine to any especial advantage. About half of the rounds were even, and the remainder showed no decided lead for either boxer.

Murphy's style of boxing differed considerably from what he has shown in the past, and he often transgressed the rules in regard to holding. Tommy did not seem to have the confidence in himself that marked his bouts before he collided with that speedy sleep punch at the hands of Knockout Brown, and he was more anxious last night to jab and clinch rather than to indulge in any toe-to-toe exchanges.

On three or four occasions he was cornered in such a way that he had to work at his old-time style to fight himself free, and he responded with some clever work, using both hands in rapid-fire order on Moore. But he did no more mixing than he was really compelled to do. Many times, particularly in the early rounds, Murphy showed a tendency to hold Moore's head with his left glove and rain uppercuts against Pal's face with his right. He was continually hissed for this kind of work. In the latter rounds he offended very little and did much better work.

Moore did not uncork any of those sensational rushes that have featured most of his previous bouts in New York. His old trick of following an opponent around the ring, pouring in right and left jabs to both body and head as fast as a pair of arms can be propelled, was entirely absent last night. Only once did he follow up Murphy in anything like his old style and then he was able to do no really effective work.

It was a case of where both were willing to fight and tried hard without doing any material damage. In spite of the many resounding wallops that both boys delivered neither was at any time in distress. There were plenty of blows with knockout sounds, but these punches had more noise than steam.

Maloney vs. Ahearn To-night.

Tommy Maloney, the west side lightweight, and Young Ahearn, the Brooklyn dancing master, will clash to-night in the star bout of ten rounds at the Twentieth Century Athletic Club. According to reports from Ahearn's training camp the elusive Brooklynite has changed his style of fighting to a considerable extent, and now relies as much on standing still and exchanging punches as he formerly relied on footwork. Maloney has been working out at New Dorp, S. I., and regards to-night's bout as a stepping stone to matches with Knockout Brown, Matt Wells, and other lightweights. He is confident that he can gain the verdict over Ahearn, whose rise was so meteoric until he climbed into the same ring with Packey McFarland. The usual number of preliminary bouts will precede the main event.

ROUGH FOR MOTOR BOATS.

Races Run Over Shortened Course In Huntington Bay.

All except the largest classes of speed boats had their innings yesterday in the second day of the National motor boat carnival at Huntington Bay. Ten of them started in the morning race in class A, over a course that was said to be 26½ nautical miles or 4½ miles to the lap, covered six times.

Such a strong easterly wind was blowing and the water on the outside leg of the course was so rough that it would have been too dangerous to have sent the little boats out there, so the course was shortened to suit the conditions.

G. McKesson Brown's boat, the Ran, finished first in the class, her elapsed time being 1 hour 10 minutes 55 seconds, but A. V. Smith's Edith II. won on time allowance in both the morning and afternoon races. Her morning time was 39:37 and the afternoon time 37:42. A. E. Smith's new boat Hazel was third in the afternoon race in this class. She astonished everyone by making the fastest lap of all, 11 minutes 38 seconds. The Hazel is an Elco boat, only 16 feet long with 60-horse power. She made an average speed over part of the course of 24 knots an hour.

Rear Commodore J. S. Blackton's Viva was the winner in class C. She covered the course in 1 hour 13 minutes 3 seconds. The Nameless, which started with her, broke down and was not able to finish in the morning race. She raced against the Sandburr II. in the afternoon and was beaten 1 minute 19 seconds.

The winners in the final races of Classes D, F, and G were the Avis, the Alfred S. and the Bunk III.

The British boats Maple Leaf III. and Pioneer will start at 9 o'clock this morning in the mile speed trial for a record for the Heins $1,000 cup. After the trials they will be taken to New York on a lighter and shipped back to England. The Dixie IV., the Nameless, the Vita II., and perhaps the Disturber II., will do their mile trials on Saturday. Nelson Doubleday's Grizzly Bear was obliged to quit in yesterday's race for lack of gasoline, and the Peter Pan, owned by J. Simpson, hit something on the course that has put her out of commission for good.

NEW YORK YACHTS RACE.

Vagrant, Adventuress, and Phryne Winners in Postponed Regatta.

Half a gale from the east, northeast greeted the yachts yesterday that contested for the prizes offered by the New York Yacht Club for its annual regatta, which had been postponed from July.

There was a rough sea on for the smaller craft when the signal to start was made from the committee tug Edmund Moran. The schooner class was confined to Harold S. Vanderbilt's Vagrant and George W. Scott's Miladi. These two made a pretty start at 12:15 off Mott's Point in Hempstead Bay. The first leg was a close reach of 3⅞ miles to Parsonage Point, the second windward work to Woolsey's Reef, and a spinaker run from there to the finish of 9¼ miles.

The Miladi took the wrong course, heading for Woolsey's Reef instead of Parsonage Point. When the mistake was discovered her owner withdrew from the race. The Vagrant went on and not only won her class prize, but also the Bennett Cup for schooners.

In a special mixed class the Adventuress, starting against the Miladi, won. She covered the 19¼-mile course in 2 hours 41 minutes and 8 seconds.

The Adventuress also sailed for the Bennett Cup for sloops against five of the club's "thirties." The Phryne, sailed by J. P. Morgan, Jr., was the winner on corrected time, the Caprice being second.

Five Matches Decided at Sea Girt.

SEA GIRT, N. J., Sept. 7.—In spite of cloudy weather and a raw, penetrating wind, five more important contests were shot off to-day at the twenty-first annual Sea Girt shooting tournament. They were the Gould rapid-fire regimental team match, Meany match, Remington U. M. C. expert match, all comers' squad revolver match, and the revolver team match.

Major William B. Martin of the Second New Jersey Infantry won both the Meany and Remington matches, while the Gould team match went to the Third New Jersey Infantry team, the all comers' revolver contest to Dr. J. R. Hicks of New York, and the revolver team match to Squadron A, New York.

Dartmouth Begins Football Work.

HANOVER, N. H., Sept. 7.—Eleven men reported for the opening football practice at Dartmouth to-day. They were given light work by Coach Frank Cavanaugh. With the exception of Capt. Edward Daley, all who reported were new men. From now on practice will be held daily.

AGAIN!

The Sensation of the Year

HAS ARRIVED

NOTE THE SPECIFICATIONS:

Every refinement and improvement known to the advanced automobile designer of today has been introduced. One or two of these new features are introduced into other makes selling at a medium price. A number of them have been built into higher-priced cars.

But there is no car selling below $4000 that has all these features:

New Continental Type Long Stroke Motor, 4½x5½: The long stroke has for some time been adopted as the best practice by foreign engineers, and is now used on the higher-priced French and German cars. It makes for phenomenal pulling power, free from vibration, and gives a flexible buoyancy of motion and delightful sense of reserve power.

Long Wheel Base of 120 Inches: That means a generously big car; big enough to avoid jar and annoying vibration even at high speed, and to make motoring the restful enjoyment that has till now been only the dream of motorists.

Demountable Rims: After patient experimenting, we found these to be the most desirable type for our owners; and are therefore including them in the regular equipment, without extra charge. Anything less than the best would have no place on the ABBOTT-DETROIT.

Tires 36" x 4": The generously big size is only another indication of making only the best good enough for our car. Large tires not alone add to the comfort of riding but effectively cut in half tire upkeep costs.

New Style Clutch: Combining the most satisfactory results obtained by foreign builders and by our own engineering staff; competent judges pronounce it the ideal clutch.

Full Timken Bearings Throughout.

Dual Ignition System: New and improved type.

Brakes on Rear Wheels: All brakes are on rear wheels; heavy drums bolted to rear wheels.

Three Quarter Elliptic Springs in Rear.

Chrome Nickel Steel Throughout: Widely advertised as an extraordinary feature by other makers, it is the usual practice with us to build our cars of chrome nickel steel. The woodwork is of solid Circassian walnut, including dash and tonneau trimmings. There is no brass on the car. Disregarding the added cost, we have replaced brass with nickel, and the lamps are of nickel and black enamel. We feel repaid by the added air of quiet elegance given the car.

Fore-door Ventilation: We have assured this by an ingenious ventilating system which, without detracting from the appearance of the car, insures comfort in warm weather to the front seat occupants.

Extra Large Tonneau: Big, comfortable, luxuriously ample, and with thick, soft, cushiony upholstery. Five people can be comfortably seated with ample foot, leg and knee room.

$1800 NOTE THE PRICE $1800

and try to realize (as you will realize once you see the car itself) that this is the price of a big, beautiful 7-passenger car; a car that in its standard finish of rich Royal blue with all-nickel trimmings is the last word in quietly rich beauty; a car that embodies all the improvements found in any cars regardless of price; a car that has not only conformed to this year's standard but has actually created a standard of its own.

THEN COMPARE CAREFULLY

with every other car at our price or hundreds of dollars above it. Compare not only carefully but mercilessly; we court it. Compare the sturdiness, simplicity and size of the engine, for after all the engine is the heart of the car. Compare the workmanship, down to the minute details; for we believe that trifles do make perfection. Compare the style and appearance, for a smart, correctly handsome car is an emphatic social "AYE" in your favor.

AND THEN---WELL THEN

We Have Only to Say to You that:
The car is here for your inspection.
A demonstration May Be Had for the Asking.

MAKING THREE PARTS OF TOBACCO TRUST

COURT APPROVAL EXPECTED

The Greater Interest Is to Compensate for a Possible Lessening of Security In Old Stocks and Bonds.

One of the plans which have been suggested for the reorganization of the American Tobacco Company, according to a story current in banking circles yesterday, calls for the formation of three companies to succeed the present parent company, with an exchange of 6½ per cent. preferred stock for the present 6 per cent. issue, 6¼ per cent. bonds for the outstanding 6s and 4½ per cent. bonds for the 4s. The extra ½ of 1 per cent. payment, it was suggested, was to be offered as compensation for any lessening of the security of the old issues.

More attention was paid to this report than to others which have circulated, for the reason that the present company represents a merger of the old American Tobacco Company, the Consolidated, and the Continental, which were joined in 1904. It was pointed out that the trust would be conforming literally to the court's decree if it were broken up into its constituent parts.

It was said by an interest concerned in working out the dissolution problem that several plans had been discussed by the American Tobacco Company, but that as yet they are all tentative, and that none would be formally submitted to the three protective committees until it was learned how the Circuit Court regarded them.

An increase of ½ of 1 per cent. in the payments on the three classes of securities would require slightly less than $900,000 a year and would mean that much less available for the payment on the common shares. However, the company earned nearly $9,000,000 each year in excess of the amount required for the 40 per cent. dividend paid on the common stock.

A second conference between officials of the American Tobacco Company and the United States Circuit Court will be held in the Federal Building next Thursday to discuss the terms of a proposed plan for the breaking up of the trust in conformity with the decree of the Supreme Court. While the Tobacco Company has not yet decided upon a plan which it is at all certain will meet with the approval of the court and the representatives of the Department of Justice, who are to be present at the conference, it was said yesterday by a lawyer appearing for one of the stockholders' committees that he was confident that one of the plans which have been considered by the company will meet with the court's approval, and that it will be possible to hold a public hearing for the benefit of security holders and the committees representing them soon after the conference.

The time for depositing securities expires on Sept. 28. With the announcement that the expenses of the committees will be paid by the American Tobacco Company the response to the call for deposits has been more general.

RECEIVER FOR TAPPE.

Man Milliner Explains That He Can Pay, but He Never Duns Customers.

Judge Hough seemed unwilling yesterday in the United States District Court to appoint a receiver for Herman Tappe, the man milliner of 4 West Fortieth Street, who has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. Tappe first came into the limelight through his marriage with Mrs. Ada McVickar, daughter of the late Edward S. Jaffray, and in his schedule of assets gave last week a long list of accounts due to him from society and theatrical folk, whom he did not like to dun.

A. M. Menkel appeared yesterday for the milliner and explained that his client had never asked his customers to settle their bills.

"I have no receiver up my sleeve competent to handle the millinery business," replied Judge Hough. "What do you want to do, Mr. Tappe?"

"I want to pay 100 cents on the dollar, and as quickly as I can, so as to get started again."

"Well, a receivership is about the worst way to wind up this case quickly," replied the court.

Mr. Menkel stated that there was a man interested in the millinery business who would be willing as soon as the bankruptcy proceedings were closed to put Mr. Tappe into his old store as manager. Two months' rent on the store is due, it was explained, but the landlord does not desire to bring ejectment proceedings. In the end it was settled that Samuel H. Lummis, Secretary of the Eastern Milliners' Association, should be receiver.

Mr. Tappe protested yesterday at the list of his customers who owed him money, which had been published.

"Why, one of them had only bought goods from me three days before my petition was filed. Naturally she had not paid her account, and I did not expect it. The situation is most embarrassing. Between lawyers and reporters I have been driven nearly crazy."

SHOTGUN LED TO HIS ARREST

The first case to come before the Grand Jury as a result of the Sullivan act prohibiting the carrying of weapons resulted in the refusal of the Grand Jury to indict for a felony yesterday Domonic Corborez of Lansville, West Va. He was arrested in the morning by Policeman Blumberger of the Greenwich Street Station for carrying a shotgun in violation of that section of the act relating to aliens.

Corborez has been employed on a railroad at Lansville for the last six years, and was on his way back to Italy yesterday for a visit to his brother. He carried a take-down shotgun, which he bought at Lansville for a present to his brother. Landing at the Liberty Street Ferry from Jersey City, he was walking up West Street to take a ferry to Hoboken, when Blumberger arrested him.

He was arraigned before Magistrate O'Connor in the Tombs Court and held without bail. District Attorney Whitman, hearing of the case, at once had it placed before the Grand Jury. That body, after hearing the policeman's testimony, reached the unanimous conclusion in three minutes that Corborez had not been guilty of any crime, and instructed him to take his shotgun and catch his boat.

This is the first case of its kind to come up before the Grand Jury, although there is another similar case pending. It is that of James Palermo, a laborer, at Huntington, L. I., who was arrested last Friday for buying a shotgun at 18 Bowery.

Later in the day Adolph Spiegel, a pawnbroker, at 109 Park Row, was arraigned before Magistrate O'Connor in the Tombs Court and held in $300 bail for trial. He was arrested by Policeman Weber of the Elizabeth Street Station for having thirty revolvers in his shop for sale. He admitted that he had them there without a license.

District Attorney Whitman, when asked whether theatrical companies would have to get permits to use guns in their plays, said:

"According to the law, the theatrical company which uses guns in a play must get a permit or be liable to arrest for violating the law."

WILLCOX AT WORK AGAIN.

Gave No Time While in Europe to the Study of Rapid Transit Problems.

Chairman Willcox of the Public Service Commission appeared yesterday at his office, after a month's vacation in Europe. Commissioner J. Sergeant Cram, who went away with him on the Mauretania, is still at his shooting box in Scotland, whence he sent to Mr. Willcox half a dozen brace of grouse to bring over.

Mr. Willcox had little to say about rapid transit matters. He would not discuss the refusal of the Interborough to accept the third-tracking and Bronx extension proposals of the commission.

"I didn't go abroad," he said, "to study transit problems, but to get a rest. If I saw a street car I dodged it."

The Chairman was asked what would be the next step taken by the Public Service Commission in the subway situation, but declined to go into the matter. The law department of the commission, he said, is at work on the operating contracts for the lines now under construction, but he would not say whether there would be one operating contract or several.

"I really do not know myself," he explained. "All I can say is that our lawyers are at work on the lines laid down by the Joint Committee and the Board of Estimate. The Brooklyn Fourth Avenue Subway will be completed next year, and we hope to have it in operation in connection with the Manhattan Bridge and the Loop Line as soon as possible, but whether it will be under a separate contract or not is a detail to be worked out by counsel.

"No doubt many difficulties will have to be overcome, but, as I regard it, the main outlines of the terms and the policy to be followed were determined finally by the joint report, approved by the Board of Estimate. There is no particular need of haste in preparing the operating contracts. The pressing thing is to get the digging started, as the construction work will take four years."

Mr. Willcox talked freely about the British strikes. He was interviewed on the question by the London newspapers at some length, and yesterday he said:

"Though the English newspapers seemed to lay particular stress on the question of the recognition of the unions, I could not help thinking that the real difficulty lay in the wage question. The impression seemed general that the wages paid were too low. There has been no increase in the wages of railroad men for at least ten years, and every one knows how the cost of living has increased.

"On the other hand, the profits of the companies have been steadily rising, and one authority calculated that the companies could afford to pay the men an average increase of 5s. a week and yet pay the dividends of two years ago. It seems to me that the findings of the commission appointed by the Government will be interesting reading from the sociological point of view."

The vigorous measures taken by the Government seemed to Mr. Willcox to be wise, although he admitted that Mr. Lloyd-George in some particulars went further in the way of radicalism than he could approve. But he pointed out that the strike situation was much more alarming in England on account of the great concentration of the people.

"In a certain district," he said, "15,000,000 people engaged in manufacturing are congregated. If the trains leading to this section are stopped starvation must follow, and pretty quick starvation at that. In such circumstances it seemed obvious that the Government must act promptly, for the peril was much greater than it would be in the case of any strike in this country."

Mr. Willcox went first to Switzerland with Controller Prendergast, and then spent several days with him in Paris seeing the sights. Commissioner Cram had invited him to visit him at his shooting box near Inverness on his way back, but the Chairman found that he had no time to accept it.

"I've got the grouse, though," he said, "and that's more than I should have shot myself. I don't know when Commissioner Cram will be back."

INTERBORO INCOME LOWER.

Gross Revenues Increased, but Operating Expenses and Taxes Were Higher.

The annual report of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company for the year ended June 30 shows decreases in net operating revenue, not withstanding substantial increases in gross earnings. The gross earnings for the year were $29,767,352, as compared with $28,987,647, a gain of 2.69 per cent., of which the greater proportion was on the Subway division.

Operating expenses increased from $15,013,142 to $12,388,961, an advance of 12.31 per cent. Of the increased costs of operation, amounting in all to $1,355,838, $1,173,203 came from the Subway division, which is an advance for that section of the company's operation of 24.66 per cent. over the costs of 1910. The Manhattan Railway division's expenses increased only $182,635, or 2.92 per cent.

Speaking of the increase in expenses the report says:

"This increase was largely due to the extraordinary expenditures resulting from the changes in Subway equipment, made necessary in connection with the operation of ten-car express and six-car local trains, amounting approximately to $770,000 during the year. The enlarged train service and the increase in wages of employes in the transportation departments of both divisions account for an additional $376,000."

The reduction in net operating revenue by reason of the increased expenses amounted to 3.20 per cent., or $576,134, leaving that item at $17,398,370. Taxes increased by 9.98 per cent. to $1,925,090, the increase being chiefly ascribable to the Federal tax for the year.

Income from operation was $15,473,279, as compared with $16,224,083 in the previous year, and gross income was $15,813,195, as compared with $16,635,107, a decrease of 4.94 per cent. Total deductions of $10,673,158, compared with $10,552,960 last year, left net corporate income at $5,140,038, against $6,082,147 in the previous year, a loss of 15.49 per cent. The surplus over dividends of 9 per cent. on the capital stock was $1,990,036, as compared with $2,932,147, a decrease of $942,110, or 32.13 per cent.

The total number of passengers carried was 578,154,088, as compared with 562,788,395 in the previous year, an increase of 2.78 per cent.

Will of C. W. Hurlburt Filed.

The will of Charles W. Hurlburt, the lawyer who brought about the conviction of Florence Burns on a charge of extortion, and whose body was found floating in the Hudson River, near Iona Island last Aug. 20, was filed for probate with the Surrogate yesterday. It was drawn on Jan. 21, 1910, and disposes of real estate worth more than $1,000 and a personal estate of about $2,100. The entire estate is bequeathed to Henry W. Aube of 477 Welling Street, Richmond Hill, L. I., and William Murray of 212 West Eighty-fifth Street.

SLAIN ON MOUNTAIN; PAYROLL INTACT

TWO ITALIANS ARRESTED

POTTSVILLE, Penn., Sept. 7.—Dead in their carriage, the bodies of Joseph Zehner of Lansford and Samuel Watkins of Summit Hill were found on the top of the mountain between Lansford and Nesquehoning this afternoon. Both had been shot, evidently from ambush, and instantly killed. A box containing $2,800, to pay about sixty hands employed at the Nesquehoning coal strippings, at first reported as missing, was afterward found intact in the carriage. Thus far no witnesses have been found who can give any clue to help the police.

Zehner lived at Nesquehoning, and was a contract miner in charge of extensive coal-stripping operations for the Lehigh Valley Coal and Navigation Company. Today was pay day, and shortly before noon he stopped at the coal company's office in Lansford, in company with Hopkins, his driver. He stated to the clerks that he was going to drive over to the strippings to pay his men. The roads lead through a very lonely country for a distance of two miles.

Later, a teamster driving over the same road came across a horse, hitched to a buggy, grazing along the roadside. In the carriage were the bodies of the two men. Armed men are scouring the country and every town is aroused.

Two Italians were arrested at Perryville, where they were caught, in a very excited condition, inquiring for a train to Elizabethville.

Two other Italians are also held as suspects; notwithstanding these arrests, the police of Pottsville and of Panther Creek Valley are persistent in scouring the mountains in that section to apprehend others who may be suspected of the crime. The authorities are doubtful whether the double murder was really the work of Italians.

The fact that the money was not taken leads the authorities to believe that the murder of the two men was committed for other reasons than robbery.

DERBY-TEN BROECK COMPANY.—Judge Hough has appointed Berthold G. Horkheimer receiver for the Derby-Ten Broeck Company, manufacturer of lingerie at 45 West Thirty-fourth Street, at the request of 94 per cent. of the creditors.

GROVEMAN & KAHN.—Bernard K. Groveman and Julius Kahn of the firm of Groveman & Kahn, silversmiths, at 77 White Street, have made an assignment to Charles H. Herbst. They manufactured mountings for canes and umbrella handles and have been in business six years.

GEORGE G. KLOPSTOCK.—George G. Klopstock of 611 West 141st Street, formerly in a restaurant business, has filed a petition in bankruptcy as a poor persons with liabilities of $2,706 and no assets. He has twenty-five books on medical subjects valued at $25, for which he asks exemption.

JAMES A. WYLIE.—James A. Wylie, surveyor at 5 Beekman Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy with liabilities of $3,682 and assets of $700 in accounts and ninety-two shares of stock in the E. L. Downs Company of Newark of no value. Part of the liabilities were incurred as a joint underwriter in the New York Insurance Association.

MICHAEL W. CASS—FANNIE CASS.—Michael W. Cass and Fannie Cass, who formerly kept a liquor saloon at 2,458 Second Avenue in 1907 and 1908, have filed a petition in bankruptcy as poor persons, unable to pay the fees with liabilities of $9,984 and no assets. Among the creditors are George Ringler & Co., $7,000; Yates, Smith & Co., Louisville, Ky., $600, and the Hannis Distilling Company, Philadelphia, $600.

HERBERT M. ROSENBERG.—Herbert M. Rosenberg of 350 West 125th Street has filed a petition in bankruptcy as a poor person with liabilities of $29,165 and nominal assets of $2,270, consisting of a debt due him, $2,200, and $70 deposit for electric light and gas. The liabilities are on account of being a Director and stockholder in the Cafe St. Nick at 125th Street and St. Nicholas Avenue, against which a petition in bankruptcy was filed on July 11.

LIPPMAN TANNENBAUM.—Lippman Tannenbaum, dealer in diamonds and precious stones, of 37 Maiden Lane, who filed a petition in bankruptcy on March 10, 1911, with liabilities of $216,344 and assets nominal, has been granted a discharge from bankruptcy by Judge Hough. Seaman Miller, referee, who heard the objections, reported in favor of a discharge, and the Judge confirmed the report. Mr. Tannenbaum was President of L. Tannenbaum & Co., against which a petition in bankruptcy was filed on Aug. 8, 1910.

JOHN M. LINCK.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against John M. Linck, builder, of 1,047 Trinity Avenue, President and Treasurer of the John M. Linck Construction Company, by Cass & Apfel, attorneys for these creditors: James A. Driscoll, $1,041 judgment; George W. Robinson, $1,834 judgment, and Robert Ogilvie, $1,206 on a note. It was alleged that he gave money to his wife and daughter for the purpose of secreting it from creditors, and on July 25, without consideration, he transferred property at the southwest corner of 102d Street and First Avenue to his wife, and two lots in the Bronx to Josephine Linck. His liabilities are estimated at $140,000 and assets $5,000. A petition in bankruptcy was filed against the John M. Linck Construction Company on Aug. 18 by Cass & Apfel. Judge Hough appointed W. C. Low receiver for Mr. Linck. It was stated that Mr. Linck admitted he had $3,000 cash on hand.

THE COMMODITY MARKETS.

WHEAT.—Wheat showed continued activity, with a further advance in values, although on the advance there was evidence of rather liberal profit taking. At the close the market was firm, stimulated by the rumor that the French duty on feedstuffs would be suspended, and it was thought that if such was the situation the demand for wheat would also be stimulated. The European markets were all strong and higher, both English and Continental. There was not, however, very much export interest reported, although export brokers state that there is considerable business being put through from day to day. Sales of only about fifteen loads of new crop Manitoba were reported for November shipment. The Michigan State report made the yield of wheat 17 bushels per acre, against 19 last year. Northwest receipts were fairly liberal, but the quality of the new wheat is very inferior and materially more wheat will be taken to make a barrel of flour than last year, resulting in greater production of mills feed. The weather was severe in the Canadian Northwest, with temperatures as low as 26, and considerable wheat is claimed to be still uncut. The Northwestern Grain Dealers' Association estimates the Canadian Northwest crop at 177,400,000 bushels, against its estimate of 105,000,000 last year. Complaints of a good deal of inferior quality wheat in Canada are also received. A private cable via Liverpool reported the Russian situation very serious, so much so that Russia was buying wheat in Roumania. The Government report to-day at 2:15 P. M. will give the harvest condition of Spring wheat, oats, and barley; the Sept. 1 condition of corn, potatoes, and buckwheat, and yield per acre on hay. There will be no report on rye and Winter wheat. The condition of Spring wheat last month was 89.8, estimated crop 266,646,000 bushels; final last year 231,399,000 bushels. Spot wheat was firm; No. 2 red, 99¼c; No. 1 Northern, $1.13; No. 2 hard Winter, $1.03½; No. 1 Manitoba, $1.09½.

CORN.—The market was fairly active and heavy most of the session, rallying at the close on the rumor that the French Government would suspend the duty on fodder stuffs. Only a short time ago the German Government reduced the railroad rates on feedstuffs 50 per cent., and recently it was reported that the German duty on feedstuffs would be suspended or reduced. The German official report states that the drought not only burned up the fodder crops but caused a plague of destructive vermin. The potato crop is small, and fodder crops suffered so severely that owners were selling off their cattle and pasturage had wholly or partly given out. Weather conditions West were favorable with further rains in the Central West, and the trade is looking for an improvement in the corn condition. Last month the condition was 68.8, estimated crop 2,820,000,000 bushels, against 3,125,000,000 bushels last year. Spot corn was quoted: No. 2, 73¾c; elevator, domestic 73¼c, free on board.

OATS.—The market was heavy most of the session, with corn, but also rallied at the close on the French news and the German official report. There was considerable liquidation at times during the day, but the market rallied readily on the appearance of late buying orders. Spot oats were firm; Standards, 40c; No. 2 white, 40¼c; No. 3 white, 48½c.

PROVISIONS.—Trade in hog products were quiet, with prices showing very narrow fluctuations. There was a little buying on smaller hog receipts and somewhat steadier Western hog markets.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The strength in the cottonseed oil market continued unabated yesterday and new high levels were scored for the late Fall and Winter positions. There was little diminution to the buying power and foreign demand was still perceptible. Excitement abroad is apparently intense as is attested by the decided strength in French oils, &c. The situation at the American South has not changed materially and offerings of new crude and seed are still confined to comparatively small amounts, with prompt shipment, crude, quoted at 39c bid. It is still the impression generally that the promise for the cotton crop is a record outturn although admittedly more or less impairment has taken place the last few weeks.

COTTON.

The character of crop news received during yesterday's session was similar to that of recent date; but market fluctuations were governed by other influences. Chief among these was an improved spot demand at the South, particularly in Texas, where fair sales were reported for immediate shipment. Points in Georgia also wired of a more active business, while at the same time private cables from Manchester were bullish, indicating that that centre was experiencing a better demand. Moreover, there was active buying during the session by prominent brokers, who were credited as acting for Scales interests, but, as on previous occasions, the buying was not impressive, encouraging but little fresh speculative demand, and the ease with which the cotton was procured led to statements that the technical position had been weakened.

Liverpool advices were instrumental in the opening advances of 3 to 7 points, with good spot sales, aggregating 12,000 bales, reported there. Southern pressure is still in evidence on the scale up, but this was not in so large a volume, probably reflecting some diminution in the movement as compared with last week. Port receipts for the day were only 17,000 bales, compared with 51,000 bales last week and 14,000 bales last year, while exports were over 90,000 bales, compared with 97,000 bales last year. For to-day receipts at Galveston are estimated at 17,000 bales, against 16,600 bales last week and 15,000 bales last year. New Orleans will probably receive 1,000 bales, against only 270 bales last year. Houston receipts continue liberal.

Destructive insects are still complained of in Alabama, with some fears of a return of a wet spell in the Central West. Crop forecasts, however, are mainly bearish, with an estimate by the Inter-State Trust and Banking Company of New Orleans for an outrun of 14,200,000 bales. Last year its guess was 12,000,000 bales. Habersham King wired that seasons in the past like this two crops were produced, one of complaints and one of cotton, further asserting that the plant is too far advanced for any decided change to have much effect except in the event of storms or an early cold spell.

The ginning report will be issued to-day and will probably show approximately 600,000 bales for the period, against 854,000 bales last year and 388,000 bales two years ago, with the largest amount ever reported in 1905 of 477,000 bales. It is not thought that the report will be a market influence unless varying decisively from present expectations. Some firmness is reported in the dry goods market, but advices generally indicate that demand is for immediate shipment, and it is still difficult to dispose of goods on the present basis of cotton. Southern spot markets were unchanged to ⅛c higher. New York spot cotton 10 points higher; middlings, 11.70.

Diversify Your Investments

It is a good plan to distribute money among different types of investment, rather than to place it all in any one particular property. This method of investing makes a strong appeal to those investors who require good security and stability, combined with a liberal rate of income.

Write for our Circular No. 820, "Judicious Investment," which treats this subject in detail, and which is accompanied by a diversified list of offerings yielding a return averaging approximately 5½ per cent.

What Better Assurance

of the safety of the money you invest in the Public Utility bonds we offer can you have than the fact that we are co-investors with you, and that we devote our ability and experience as engineers and bankers to the conserving and developing of the properties in which you and we are jointly interested?

Besides being thus strongly safeguarded, the bonds we offer yield a larger income than the majority of other high-grade issues. Moreover, the properties securing the bonds are constantly increasing in value as a result of improvements and extensions and the constant growth of the communities that they serve.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

FOREIGN SALES INDICATED

Many Traders Turn Again to the Short Side of the Market—More Loans to Germany.

Enough rumors were set afloat yesterday, had they all been true, to account for several times the losses which were incurred during the day. They covered a range from predictions of reduced dividends to disagreements between important banking interests and a railroad with which they lately became identified, and rumors of new suits against industrial corporations under the Anti-Trust act. It did not appear that any of these reports were taken overseriously, for they were regarded for the most part as originating from the same sources from which came much if not a major portion of the day's selling. There were reports of a renewal of liquidation somewhat similar to that which was much in evidence during the early weeks of August, but specifications were not given regarding the source of this selling, and it was at least an open question whether actual liquidation as distinguished from professional operations contributed in any large measure to the weakness of the market. It had taken but a relatively light amount of buying to advance prices after the cessation of the heavy liquidation which came to an end over ten days ago, but just as the market had responded easily to this buying, much of it, it is believed, representing short covering, so yesterday, with perhaps still greater ease, quotations yielded under the pressure put upon them. It was again noted that some of the heavy losses occurred in stocks of which there has lately been considerable selling from abroad, particularly from Germany, among them Canadian Pacific and Baltimore & Ohio. There was relatively large borrowings of both of these stocks, and much of this was regarded as representing sales made for European account. The declines in these stocks were scarcely larger, however, than the losses in Reading, Union Pacific, and United States Steel, all of which were under continued pressure during the afternoon, and the two last of which closed at the lowest point of the day. There may have been some connection between the further decline in some of the leading international stocks and the continued rise in the Berlin money market, where the open discount rate rose yesterday to an even level with the 4 per cent. discount rate of the Bank of Germany. If we are, indeed, still buying back stocks from Berlin it is an interesting fact that coincidentally our bankers are making further advances to that market. Rates up to 4 per cent. for ninety-day loans are being paid in Berlin for such of our unused bankers' balances as are being placed at the disposal of that market.

The decline in prices in the afternoon was sufficient again to make bears out of a good many traders on the Stock Exchange, who had turned to the long side within the past week or ten days, and some of whom had overstayed their market when the reaction started yesterday. The action of the market helped to emphasize the fact that prices are particularly susceptible at the moment to day-to-day influences. Just as the business of the country is being cautiously conducted and is not looking very far to the future, so the stock market has apparently been running without very much reserve force. The failure of those who began to buy stocks on a moderate scale at the close of the week before last, to follow up the advance left the way open to a sharp decline as a result of selling, which, though somewhat larger than the transactions of the earlier days of the week, was still confined to moderate limits. In some ways the loss which prices suffered yesterday will give added interest to the Government crop report which is due to-day, inasmuch as yesterday's record emphasized the present sensitiveness of the market. Many have for some time entertained the expectation that this report would show improvement over the previous month's indications, although the heavy deterioration in cotton which the Department of Agriculture reported during August is hardly suggestive of a diametrically opposite report on the grain crop.

A sharp contrast with the conditions suggested by the further rise in discount rates at Berlin was presented in the weekly report of the Bank of England, which, in connection with a decrease of over $7,000,000 in loans, showed an increase in the proportion of reserve to liabilities from 56.83 per cent. last week to 58.10 per cent. this week. This brings the percentage of reserve more than 6 per cent. above the reserve at this date last year and to much the highest figure reported at this season in any recent year. The summary of Great Britain's foreign trade for August also came to hand yesterday, and apparently reflected the interference to commerce which resulted from the labor troubles through which England passed last month. It may also throw some light on the showing which is being made in the London money market and in the Bank of England's statement. The imports for the month decreased by over $7,000,000, while the exports fell off by more than $11,600,000. If this represents an actual let-up in activity in business in Great Britain, rather than the mere postponement of trade due to recent strikes, it is a development of considerable importance, inasmuch as excellent business conditions abroad, notably in England, have been one of the decidedly helpful influences in our own foreign trade.

RULE FOR EXEMPT BONDS.

Stock Exchange Orders Use of Tax Stamp on Each Delivery.

Since the new State law allowing the exemption from taxation for all time on such "evidences of secured debt" as are submitted to the Controller's office and pay a tax of one-half of one per cent. of the face value, some confusion has arisen on the Stock Exchange over the form of deliveries of the exempted securities. The State law, which applies only to securities which are not covered by mortgages filed within the State, provides for the issuance of a separate receipt for the payment of the tax or the fixing to the face of the bond of a secured debt tax stamp.

In order to facilitate trading the Stock Exchange committee made a ruling yesterday which requires that transactions "specifically made in tax exempt securities must be settled by delivery of securities bearing said stamp."

IN TENNESSEE COPPER BOARD

Horace M. Kilborn and Two Others Added to Directorate.

Horace M. Kilborn, Vice President of the National City Bank; Joseph Walker, Jr., of Joseph Walker & Son; Richard Sutro of Sutro Brothers and Herman A. Kellar, a mining engineer, have been added to the Directorate of the Tennessee Copper Company. The company, which operates in Tennessee, is controlled by the Lewisohn interests.

Announcement was made yesterday that the company has just completed the large addition to its sulphuric acid plant. This plant is the largest of its kind in the world and is now producing at the rate of 500 tons a day. This output will be largely increased as soon as cooler weather sets in, enabling more rapid condensation of the fumes. The Board of Directors will probably make their next trip of inspection in October. The party will include the new members of the board.

CHICAGO BANKS THRIVE.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Increased activity of business, with enlarged demands for money, is seen in the statements submitted to the Auditor of Public Accounts by the State banks of Chicago. The total loans of fifty-five banks aggregated $305,689,499 on Sept. 2, which compares with $288,585,882 for the same banks on June 8. The increase in loans reported is $17,343,667.

Unlike the National banks, the State institutions report a gain in deposits, the increase amounting to $8,572,163. The increase in this item is due in part to the refunding on Sept. 1 of $18,000,000 North-Western Elevated Railroad bonds, for which purpose $5,000,000 in gold was brought from New York. Charles J. Peabody of Spencer Trask & Co. of New York has been elected a member of the Chicago Stock Exchange.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Wall Street Not Supreme.

Those who have listened to the constant repetitions made by political speakers and others that this country is controlled by Wall Street will be able to find some encouragement in a report made to the British Government by one of its Consuls in this country. In discussing trade conditions the Consul says that it is coming more and more to be the fact that important financial operations can now be carried on in the United States without the help of New York, and that undertakings which some years ago could not possibly have been provided for except with the help of Wall Street can now be financed in interior cities on local resources. Apparently Wall Street's control does not appear as complete in English eyes as it does to some of those in this country.

Discrepancies in Standard Oil Prices.

The uncertainty over the respective values of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey stock as it will be continued after the dissolution, and of the subsidiaries by themselves, was illustrated in the Curb market yesterday, when the "old stock," that is, the shares of the present organization carrying in the form of a "due bill" all rights to dividends and to the stocks of the subsidiaries when they are distributed in December, sold at 630-640, while the sales of Standard Oil "ex-rights" and of the subsidiaries separately were made at prices which when combined were the equivalent of 665.

Decline in Gould Issues.

One of the many rumors which were in circulation yesterday arose from the extreme weakness in Missouri Pacific and Denver & Rio Grande preferred, both of which lost 2½ points in the day's trading. It was to the effect that the Gould interests had taken umbrage at a report that Speyer & Co. were to finance the new Hawley-Erb project for a through line from Canada to the Gulf, which would be a competitor for some of the Missouri Pacific's business, and had broken with the bankers on that account. The bankers denied that any rupture had occurred.

Since the forced surrender of between $6,000,000 and $10,000,000 New York City 4¼ per cent. bonds by a specialist who was trying to carry too many on the capital at his command, the price of these bonds has been out of line with that of the 4s and 4½s. Many institutions have been taking advantage of this condition and have sold the older issues and put the proceeds into the 4¼s. The 4 per cent. bonds have been selling recently to yield 4.08 per cent, the 4½s to yield 4.07 per cent., and the 4¼s 4.11 per cent.

Discounting B. & O. Dividends.

When Baltimore & Ohio began to sag yesterday traders began to pay attention to rumors that the 6 per cent. dividend was to be reduced. It has been predicted from time to time that the dividend would be reduced to 5 per cent., for, although the company earned nearly 7 per cent. on its stock in the last fiscal year, the decline from 109¾, the price on July 14, to 96⅝ yesterday has been regarded by some traders as an official confirmation of the reduction story. Some traders did not stop with cutting the Baltimore & Ohio dividend to 5 per cent., but carried the prediction on six months further, and put the stock on a 4 per cent. basis. Inasmuch as the company paid a semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent. on the first of this month, there could be no change in the rate until March, 1912. Those going even beyond that still remote date to discuss a further reduction in September, 1912, did not, many thought, expect to be taken too seriously.

More Low Records.

Further weakness on the Stock Exchange yesterday carried most of the active issues, such as Reading, Union Pacific, and United States Steel, down to the lowest points reached earlier in the week. In the less active issues a number of new low records were made. Most prominent of the issues which declined to their lowest point of the year was Baltimore & Ohio, which sold off to 96⅜, a decline of 3¼ points from Wednesday's closing price, and Missouri Pacific, which dropped 1½ points, to 38½. Other new low records were made by Denver & Rio Grande preferred at 48¼, American Steel Foundries at 80, Delaware & Hudson at 162, International Harvester preferred at 118½, National Enameling and Stamping at 16½, and Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh at 107½. The last named stock was down 5 points from the last sale. The largest decline was in Virginia Iron, Coal, and Coke, which at 75 was off 13¾ from the last sale. This issue, however, has not appeared on the tape since July, and the decline represents, consequently, the long decline in the general market, which has been taking place since then. New high prices were made by the Iowa Central issues, the common reaching 22 and the preferred 42.

SUGAR SOARS IN PRICE.

Sugar, which has been rising since early in the Summer, hit a more rapid stride upward yesterday in the primary markets and raw sugar touched a point that had not been reached in twelve years.. Raw sugar and the granulated of household use move up or down in an almost constant relation and the retail price may be expected to follow promptly upward the high levels established in the primary markets yesterday. Last year's Cuban crop was short and the best sugar crop of Europe, which is usually counted on to supply deficiencies in the world's supplies, has been seriously affected by the droughts abroad.

The rise began in the Spring, but did not become a gallop upward until last month, when raw sugar crossed 5 cents a pound. Yesterday sales of raw sugar were made in New York at 5⅝ cents a pound, the highest price since July, 1899, and in London the price of spot beet sugar rose to 18s., the highest price ever recorded. It is equal to about 5.87 cents a pound. The refining of the raw material adds about sixty-five to seventy one-hundredths of a cent a pound to the price, and yesterday, with raw sugar at 5⅝ cents, the sugar refineries advanced their prices for granulated to 6.60 cents and 6.75 cents a pound.

OIL CAPITAL HALVED.

Standard Oil Subsidiary Reduces Stock to $12,727,575.

HARRISBURG, Penn., Sept. 7.—Papers have been filed at the State Department announcing a reduction in the capital stock of the National Transit Company, one of the subsidiaries of the Standard Oil Company. The par value of 509,103 shares was reduced from $50 to $25, thus reducing the company's capital from $25,455,150 to $12,727,575.

The Standard Oil Company is named as the owner of 509,013 of the shares. Other holders whose signatures appear on the paper are John R. Archbold, J. A. Moffett, Walter Jennings, C. A. Griswold, O. H. Payne, George Chesbro, and Henry W. Mustin.

The reduction of the capital stock of the National Transit Company is in accordance with the distribution of some of the assets of the parent company in the form of the stocks of subsidiaries, under the decision of the Supreme Court. These subsidiaries are to be divided pro rata among the shareholders of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

STOCKS OUT OF TOWN

SMALL DECLINES GENERAL

Local Issues Suffer in Most Instances Along with Arbitrage Group—Trading in Small Volume.

Local stocks in Chicago were only moderately active and reflected in the greater part of the list the heaviness prevailing in New York. The principal decline was that of a point in Can preferred, the remaining losses being only fractional. Sears, Roebuck was a close second, with a dip of ¾. Diamond Match was the strong feature, advancing almost 2 points.

Although exceedingly quiet, the Philadelphia market displayed an improving tendency during the morning trading, and despite some irregularity in the arbitrage group, particularly Lehigh Valley, Reading, and United States Steel, fractional advances predominated until mid-afternoon, when the heaviness of the New York market put a restraint on the local list.

The Boston market was under considerable pressure again yesterday. Traders started the downward movement, and commission houses later appeared to have a good supply of selling orders. Amalgamated declined to 57¾, North Butte to 23¾, and the balance of the active list suffered proportionately.

Yesterday's transactions on the various out-of-town Exchanges, as reported to THE NEW YORK TIMES, were as follows:

BANK OF GERMANY RATE.

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—With the rise of the private discount rate to the official level and its tendency to advance to even a higher rate, the question is raised whether the Imperial Bank of Germany will raise its discount rate at an early date.

Answers to inquiries made at the Imperial Bank indicate that the officials have no intention of changing the rate at present. The reasons given are the strength of the bank's status and the favorable foreign exchange rates.

Moreover, to-day's advance in the open market in Berlin was caused largely by a false report that the Bank of England had reised its rate of discount. The market opinion is that the Imperial Bank of Germany will await action by the Bank of England before taking up the question.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

The realty market was a trifle more active yesterday than it has been for a week or more. A number of deals were reported in various parts of Manhattan and the Bronx, but they were principally small properties and trades.

George R. Read & Co., who negotiated the sale last Spring, sold the adjoining stable, 32 East Fortieth Street, for the Clark estate to Edward H. Peck, who recently resold it to Hoggson Brothers.

The building, which stands on a lot 25 by 100, was transferred last month to the Whipple Security Company by the D. L. Block Company.

West Harlem Parcel in Trade.

Ennis & Sinnott have purchased from T. J. S. Flint the property known as the Flint homestead, on Oak Bluff Avenue, Larchmont Manor, N. Y., consisting of about one and one-half acres, with a large house and stable. In exchange the buyers give 236 and 238 West 116th Street, a two-story taxpayer, on a plot 50 by 100.

Investors Buy Tenements.

Louis Berney has sold for a client to Max Bennow for investment 403 East 100th Street, a six-story tenement, with stores, on a plot 50 by 100. Also 210 and 212 East Ninety-seventh Street, four-story tenements, with stores, on a plot 54 by 100.

The same broker has sold to Gussie Litrim 68 East 119th Street, a five-story tenement, with stores, on a lot 20 by 100.

Private Dwellings in Demand.

John R. Davidson has sold for Miss Kate F. Ritchie 124 Manhattan Avenue, a three-story private dwelling, on a plot 17 by 70, to a client, who will occupy the same.

J. Louis Schaefer has sold 270 West Seventy-seventh Street, a five-story dwelling, between Broadway and West End Avenue, on lot 17 by 81.2. Frederick Zittel & Sons negotiated the sale.

Sarah A. Farley has sold 10 West Eighty-fourth Street, a four-story and basement stone-front dwelling, on lot 21 by 102.2, between Central Park West and Columbus Avenue.

Bronx.

The Red Roof Realty Company has sold for Phelan Brothers Construction Company, 647 and 649 East 229th Street, two two-family houses, to a client for investment, and for Bridget Murphy three lots on Virginia Avenue, Unionport, to a client.

The Rogers Building Company has sold to Louis Starr & Co. 960 Rogers Place, a six-story new law house on plot 50 by 90, located 350 feet north of Westchester Avenue. The buyers have resold the property to an investor.

James J. Connor, in conjunction with James J. Crowe, has sold for A. Magunson 801 East 172d Street, a four-story double flat on a plot 33 by 100. The purchaser, J. Kallfelz, gave in part payment his café, located at 1,251 Stebbins Avenue, corner of 169th Street.

The property, which measures 175 by 125, was purchased by the asylum thirteen years ago and occupied by it until 1909, when it was moved to its present location at Kingsbridge Road and Aqueduct Avenue.

Brooklyn.

Joseph P. Day reports that he has sold for the Manhattan Beach estates a plot 80 by 100 on the west side of Corbin Place, 180 feet south of the Esplanade, to John J. Dillon.

Activity in Bensonhurst.

The sale of brick residences in the Bensonhurst district continue numerous. The Raymond Homes Company has sold five two-family houses in Seventeenth Avenue, adjoining Eighty-first Street, and E. H. Finley and Errol E. Hart, brokers, have each sold one in Eighty-fourth Street, between Seventeenth and New Utrecht Avenues.

Peter Hickens has bought a brick store with flats on the west side of Seventeenth Avenue, between Eighty-third and Eighty-fourth Streets, and has sold to an investor a parcel of three lots on Seventy-ninth Street, near Nineteenth Avenue.

$200,000 Deal at Plandome.

Henry F. Thompson of this city has purchased for development a valuable tract of land comprising about fifty acres on Manhasset Bay at Plandome, L. I.

The tract has a frontage on the shore of Manhasset Bay of over 1,200 feet and overlooks the estates of William R. Grace, Dr. Tatum, Frank Dickerson, and others. The property was formerly owned by Bloodgood Cutter.

The tract will be developed and subdivided into large plots and modern houses will be built with all city improvements. The property sold for upward of $200,000. C. D. Bellows negotiated the deal.

Long Island.

LONG ISLAND—FOR SALE OR TO LET

OCEAN FRONT AT A BARGAIN

15 ACRES ON FIRE ISLAND

Beautifully situated on Fire Island, opposite Patchogue, a 15-acre tract of land with a frontage of 800 feet on the ocean, extending across the island about 1,100 feet, with a frontage of 500 feet on the Great South Bay. It is a splendid proposition for subdivision. Considered a bargain at $50 per front foot for the entire tract. Other properties in the vicinity have sold for this price. Will sell to immediate purchaser for $20 PER FRONT FOOT, $10,000 ON A PAYMENT OF $5,000 CASH, THE BALANCE OF $5,000 IN THREE YEARS, WITH INTEREST AT 6 PER CENT., WITH RELEASE CLAUSES. The property will cut up into about 180 TWENTY-FIVE FOOT LOTS, which should sell on an average of $500 each, which would total about $90,000. This is the prevailing price of lots on Fire Island. This price will hold good until October 1st. Full commission paid to brokers. Inquire of owner.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

English Biscuit Exporters Gain a Partial Victory—Other Decisions.

It was decided yesterday by the Board of United States General Appraisers that Huntley & Palmer's biscuits imported from England must stand duty under the American tariff at the rate of 50 per cent. ad valorem. Woodward & Lathrop, J. H. Magruder, and others appeared as the protestants. It was claimed that the biscuits should be allowed to enter at the rate of 20 per cent. on the value. Judge Waite holds that the claims affecting breakfast and dinner biscuits must be sustained. He rules that certain other biscuits are to stand duty as assessed.

The board overruled a protest filed by K. E. Lehrbach regarding the classification of oat hulls. It is held that the merchandise is dutiable at the rate of 10 cents per 100 pounds. Judge Waite finds that there is no difference between the act of 1897 and that of the present tariff act, and accordingly holds that the customs assessment is correct.

Freund & Freund failed to convince the board that the Collector's classification of woolen head shawls used by Jewish women in religious services should be granted lower duty. They were assessed under the wool schedule at the rate of 44 cents a pound and 60 per cent. ad valorem, and were claimed to be dutiable at 50 per cent. as "wearing apparel." Judge Chamberlain denies the contention of the importers on the ground that an analysis of the goods shows them to be composed in chief value of wool. Under the terms of the present tariff act merchandise composed in chief value of wool must pay duty under that schedule regardless of the character of the goods.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER HELD

They Are Arrested After Philadelphia Man's Death.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7. — Joseph Smith, 38 years old, of Washington, D. C., who is said to be the son of a retired naval officer, committed suicide by cutting his throat with a razor in his room at 650 North Eighth Street. Despondency over ill health is thought to have been the cause.

While the police are satisfied that the young man took his own life, certain circumstances connected with the case caused them to arrest Mrs. Emily Young, 38 years old, and her fifteen-year-old daughter, Elsie, with whom he resided. The women were arraigned for a hearing and held as witnesses for the Coroner's inquest.

CHARGES PILE UP AGAINST COSTABILE

HEARING IN TOMBS COURT

Italian Consul General Enters a Complaint of Forgery and Extortion—Other Witnesses Come Forward.

The case against Giuseppe Costabile, the alleged chief of Black Hand bomb setters, was hammered through in record time in the Tombs Court yesterday afternoon. Forty-five minutes after he was arraigned Costabile, looking as dazed as if one of his own bombs had struck him, was held by Magistrate O'Connor without bail for the Grand Jury. Assistant District Attorney Wasservogel, who conducted the case, and District Attorney Whitman announced afterward that they would ask for his indictment this morning, and that they felt little doubt about getting it. They will try the case early next week, they hope.

Meanwhile the police discovered yesterday new and damaging evidence that they assert will connect Costabile with certain swindling and blackmail cases, and several witnesses are ready to appear before the Grand Jury to-day in support of an additional indictment for extortion or forgery. The Italian Consul General, too, yesterday told Commissioner Waldo of a complaint against Costabile by a youth who said he had swindled him here in the sum of $60 by means of a forged certificate of exemption from military service in Italy.

The Consul General assured the police that he would do all he could to help them, and that even if the local authorities failed Costabile would be tried for the crime in Italy. This brings into his horoscope a pleasant vista of a possible seventeen years of prison here and worse imprisonment abroad.

At the hearing before Magistrate O'Connor yesterday afternoon Costabile, slight in build, with matted brown hair and stubble-covered face, cultivated for the most part a downward cast of the eyes. But occasionally, as Corrao, the detective who arrested him, gave testimony, his narrow blue eyes shot forth short ominous glances at him. A number of the prisoner's countrymen were in the courtroom, but the police saw none whom they have under suspicion in the case.

Corrao set forth in detail how he had met Costabile and found under his coat the bomb, which he had insisted was "fruit for the children." He identified in turn the yellow wrapping, three fuses, the twine covering, and the gray-black powder found in the bomb at the Bureau of Combustibles.

The parts of the bomb were identified by Dr. Joseph A. Deghuée, the expert of the Lederle laboratories, who had examined the missile. He said he found it contained a mixture of potassium chlorate, sulphite of antimony, and rosin, that could be set off by concussion or by ignition, "with resulting violent explosive force." If exploded in a room, the bomb would have demolished the premises and caused the death of several persons.

Costabile's lawyer then asked that the case be dismissed.

"There is no evidence that the defendant carried such a deadly weapon as is designated in the statute," he declared. "Moreover, I contend that the section making it a felony for any non-citizen to carry a dangerous or deadly weapon in a public place is in conflict with an older statute that has never been repealed.

"Under the statute of Sept. 1 the term 'weapon' must be interpreted as applying only to weapons similar to those enumerated—revolvers, dirks, daggers, and the like. A bomb is a missile or an implement, not a weapon."

"If a cartridge is attached to it, yes," replied the Magistrate.

"A giant firecracker?" continued the lawyer.

"Yes."

Mr. Cardone then argued that his client should be held under the old statute making the carrying of gunpowder or explosives in a public place without a license a misdemeanor. Magistrate O'Connor overruled his objection and declared that both statutes, if not contradictory, might apply against Costabile.

"Well, then, about bail—" began Mr. Cardone. But the Magistrate squashed that matter in a jiffy.

"Under the statute," he said, "I have no power to accept bail. I therefore hold this defendant without bail for the Grand Jury."

An indictment for felony will not be the only one asked for to-day. The Italian Consul General has sent to Police Headquarters the sworn complaint of Basilio Micell of 335 East Twelfth Street, who said Costabile had been introduced to him on May 12 as a man who could procure for him a dispensation from the militiary service he owed the Italian Government. Costabile, he said, took $50 from him on the undertaking to send him the dispensation later. It did not materialize, however, he said, and he reproached Costabile.

Thereupon, said Micell, Costabile introduced him to one Vincenzo, who told him the Italian Consul wanted $20 more before he would sign the release. Micell, being of greater faith than experience, paid $10 more on account. The next day, he said, he got from Costabile what purported to be the Consul's release from his military obligations, but which he discovered later to be merely a release granted to another man whose name had been erased and replaced by his own.

After it was known that Micell had complained at the Consulate, he adds, Rosolini Guagent, a chum of Costabile, hunted him up and warned him that he would find a dagger between his sixth and seventh ribs if he went again to the Consul. Four days later, however, Micell was relieved from the possibility of such a fate, when Rosolini, going to collect blackmail at the store of Calandro Brothers, 358 East Eleventh Street, was welcomed with a load of shot that took off the top of his head.

Moreover, the police say, they have found three men who saw Costabile lurking near the store of Antonio Capace, a grocer at 282 East Thirty-ninth Street, just before the place was wrecked by a bomb on Aug. 30. Capace has received no less than fory Black Hand letters in the last ten years. The police believe Costabile may have been carrying to a confrère for the grocer's benefit the very bomb found under his coat when he was arrested.

Some one, believed by the police to be a reformed Black Hander who has been forced to pay blackmail by Costabile and his gang by threats of exposure, wrote to the police yesterday, naming several men who, he said, were associates of Costabile. The police found several of the names to be identical with those on the list they seized in Costabile's coat when he was arrested. They look forward to arresting several of them in a day or two.

TO SHOW CROCKER LETTERS.

Executor Ordered to Show Copies in Suit of the Stepchildren.

The stepchildren of George Crocker, who are suing his estate to recover the property at 1 East Sixty-fourth Street and part of the contents of the house, won a step in their suit yesterday when Supreme Court Justice Gavegan granted an order compelling Nelson C. Thrall, executor of the estate, to allow an inspection to be made of all letter-press copies in his possession. The papers are to be produced in court to-day, and are to be kept there until the examination of Charles B. Green is concluded.

Green was a confidential manager for Mr. Crocker in California, and the stepchildren, Alexander H. Rutherford, Alice H. Erving, and Emma Rutherford Kearny, contend that letters which passed between Mr. Crocker and Mr. Green would reveal that Mr. Crocker had abused the confidence they placed in him when they transferred the property in Sixty-fourth Street to him.

The original letters received by Mr. Green were destroyed in the earthquake at San Francisco, but it is believed that copies of them will be found among the letter-press records of Mr. Thrall.

The disputed property was given by Mr. Crocker to Columbia University to establish a cancer research fund, and the university has therefore been made a party to the suit. It is the contention of Mr. Crocker's stepchildren that their mother, who was Mrs. Alexander H. Rutherford prior to her marriage to Mr. Crocker, received the house from him, and on her death willed it to him for life, with the proviso that on his death it should revert to her children. They contend that they gave over their rights in the property to their stepfather on his representation that he would care for them in his will. He did so to the extent of $100 each, they say.

HOLD FOUR AS FIREBUGS.

Hackensack Authorities Say They Burned Houses for Insurance.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, Sept. 7.—August Deichman, Charles Deichman, John Hisch, and John Kapun were arraigned by Assistant Prosecutor J. B. Zabriskie before Judge Demarest here this morning on indictments charging them with arson. They are Austrians, and the prosecution expects to show that they were an organized gang of firebugs, responsible for many fires in Cliffside on the Palisades during the last two years, living on the insurance money collected.

"The evidence," said Prosecutor Wright, "that has been laid before me indicates that these men are members of a dangerous gang that made arson its business. In an area of six blocks in what is called Fairview, in Cliffside, on the Palisades, there have been seventeen suspicious fires in two years. We have evidence connecting the men with five of those fires. Among the sixty witnesses is one who will testify that the Deichmans approached him and offered to pay him $500 to set fire to a building."

A building that cost August Deichman $8,000, mortgaged for $8,000, and upon which was fire insurance amounting to $18,000, was the first to burn in which the prisoners are involved. A plumbing establishment, presumed to be owned by Kapun, was next burned. On this there was $8,000 insurance. A year ago last February Deichman's plumbing shop was burned, and $4,000 insurance was collected.

The alleged firebugs were also indicted for destroying the residence of Mrs. J. H. Brower, in Cliffside, and this was done, it is said, to hide the fact that the place was first robbed.

TAYLOR WEDDING A SURPRISE

Broker's Divorce from First Wife Had Not Been Generally Known.

A formal notice under "Marriages" in the newspapers yesterday told that Walter Curzon Taylor of the brokerage firm of Taylor, Livingston & Co. of 2 Wall Street had been married to Mrs. Martha Leavitt Morgan on Sept. 5 in Montreal, Canada. It was the first intimation that Mr. Taylor, who was married about twenty years ago to Miss Maria Banks, had been divorced from her.

Mrs. Maria Banks Taylor, who occupies the Taylor residence at 9 East Eighty-first Street, said in answer to queries yesterday that she knew nothing of the marriage in Canada. She refused to discuss the subject further.

Mrs. Morgan is the widow of James Hewitt Morgan, and her home is at 40 West Forty-eighth Street. She has a daughter and two sons, Miss Vera Morgan, Hewitt Morgan, and P. H. Morgan. Her house is closed.

G. F. Stringer, Mr. Taylor's private secretary, who announced the marriage in the newspapers, is in Stony Creek, Conn. Asked when Mr. Taylor was divorced, he replied:

"I am not authorized to say, but you may be sure that unless Mr. Taylor had the right to marry he would not have married."

Mr. Taylor is well known in Wall Street. He has been a member of the Stock Exchange for more than twenty years. He is a member of the Union, the Metropolitan, the New York Yacht, and the Racquet Clubs and the Automobile Club of America.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Sept. 7.—Mayor Reyburn on returning from Canada today immediately jumped into the local Mayoralty situation. First he came out unequivocally for William H. Vare, Recorder of Deeds, as his successor. Then he bitterly attacked Senator Penrose, State Senator McNichol, and the opponents of his administration. Finally he removed three political heads in the Department of Public Works.

The men summarily dismissed for "disloyalty to the administration" are George R. Stevens, Director of the Department of Public Wohks, salary, $10,000; William R. Knight, Jr., Assistant Director of the Department of Pubulic Works, salary, $4,000, and William R. Benson, Chief of the Bureau of Highways and Street Cleaning, salary, $6,000. Another official who is almost sure to feel the weight of the Mayor's displeasure is James B. Sheehan, Assistant Director of Public Safety, whose salary is $4,000.

As to the legislative inquiry, the Mayor denies that either he or any member of his administration has been guilty of any wrongdoing, nor has countenanced any suggestion of wrongdoing.

In a statement he issued to-day Mayor Reyburn declares that the attacks made upon him by Senators Penrose and McNichol, because he would not weakly bow to their absolute dictation nor help to nominate a man of their selection, he is determined to retaliate by every lawful means within his power, and requires the loyalty and support of every one connected with his administration.

FLIES TO WASHINGTON.

Lieut. Rodgers Makes First Aeroplane Trip from Annapolis.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 7.—The first aeroplane flight from Annapolis was made this afternoon shortly before 4 o'clock, when Lieut. John Rodgers of the navy, in a Wright biplane, ascended from the Naval Academy grounds, bound for Washington, where he arrived, flying high in the air, at 4:45 P. M.

After circling the Washington Monument for a quarter of an hour, he landed near the White House at 5:04 P. M.

The flight was one of the longest and most successful yet accomplished by a naval aviator, Lieut. Rodgers being one of the three officers who are stationed at the aerodrome near the Naval Academy, at Annapolis, and who are the first in that branch of the service to take up aviation. He had flown about forty-five miles when he landed at Washington. The trip was accomplished without accident.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD, HUSBAND LOCKED UP

FOUR BULLETS IN HER BODY

Coroners Think It Would Have Been Impossible for Her to Fire All of Them —Prisoner Protests His Innocence.

Upon the facts disclosed at an autopsy to be made this morning at 10 o'clock the police will decide whether to lodge a charge of murder against Edward F. Hart, now in the custody of the Coroner on suspicion that he may know something about the manner in which his wife, Annie G. Hart, came to her death in a lodging house kept by the Harts at 151 East Twenty-seventh Street.

The body of Mrs. Hart was found at 11:40 o'clock yesterday morning on the kitchen floor in a portion of the house occupied exclusively by herself and her husband. There were four bullet wounds in the body, any one of which, from a superficial examination, seemed capable of having produced the woman's death.

One bullet entered the forehead and three were in the left breast near the heart. Beneath the body, as if she had been using it for a shield from an assassin and had then fallen upon it, was the iron top of a garbage can. Close to it, and also beneath the body, was a revolver with one empty chamber and four exploded shells.

The woman had been dead only a few minutes when the police arrived, the hands being still warm. On his arrest the husband insisted that his wife had committed suicide and that the revolver with which she killed herself was one she had purchased five months ago in a Bowery pawnshop. He was locked up in the East Thirty-fifth Street Station.

The points upon which the police and Coroner expect to be especially enlightened by the autopsy are as to whether powder marks exist on the woman's clothing, and whether all of the shots were fired before her death.

The police believe that it would have been impossible for Mrs. Hart to have committed suicide from the simple fact that no powder stains were visible, so far as they could make out, and the further fact that the first of the four wounds, if they were self-inflicted, would have left her in no condition to pull the trigger of the cheap revolver a second time.

Of the shells found in the revolver, three were old ones, which had apparently been in the chamber for some time, and one was new, looking as if it had just been taken from a freshly opened box. On the floor were two unexploded shells, indicating that the revolver had been loaded or reloaded in the room.

Married Two Years Ago.

From neighbors of the Harts the police learned that they had been married in August, 1909, by Justice Burke in Jersey City, the witnesses of the ceremony being Jacob Gruft and his wife, at whose boarding house, in East Eleventh Street, they met. There had been frequent quarrels in the last year, the neighbors said, and to two persons Mrs. Hart expressed on Wednesday the fear that her husband would kill her if he should come home and find that she had lost her poodle dog, Prince, who had run away while she had him out for a walk in the afternoon.

Mrs. Hart was 28 years old. She had no relatives in this country, having come here from her home in Germany when she was a girl, leaving a mother and two sisters behind.

Hart was born in the lower east side, his parents and a sister still living in East Seventh Street between First and Second Avenues. He is 30 years old, belongs to an east side political club whose members called on him in the East Thirty-fifth Street station house upon hearing of his arrest, and has worked variously as a Summer resort bartender and waiter in a restaurant at Clason's Point, the Bronx. He admitted to the police that he had quarreled with his wife on Wednesday evening about the loss of the dog, of which he was very fond, and had disagreed with her about the advisability of going into the venture of keeping the East Twenty-seventh Street lodging house.

From under a mattress on the bed which he says he occupied on Wednesday night Hart produced, when the police began a search of the room, jewelry and money which he said his wife gave him on retiring on Wednesday night for safe keeping. A roll of bills contained $88. The jewels consisted of a diamond locket, a 1-carat diamond ring, and two ½-carat diamond rings. These Hart said his wife usually kept in her stocking. The police found that the right stocking of the dead woman had been torn and bore stained finger marks.

The body was lying just inside a half-open door leading from the kitchen into a rear courtyard. The police believe she was trying to escape through this door when she was shot, but Hart declares that he opened the door to let in fresh air after finding his wife on the floor, believing her to be still alive.

One puzzling feature of the case is that no one heard the revolver shots. The first the police heard of it was when Hart came running out of the house in an undershirt and trousers, without shoes, shouting that his wife was committing suicide. He found Policeman Michael Maroney of the East Thirty-fifth Street Station on duty near by, and told him excitedly that his wife had shot herself.

Maroney telephoned to Bellevue Hospital for an ambulance and then followed Hart to the house. Two lodgers said they had heard a noise, as if an automobile tire had exploded in the street, some time before they heard Hart calling out that his wife was dying. Neither had taken the reports to be revolver shots.

Hart's Story to the Police.

Hart's story was that he came home from work at Clason's Point on Wednesday night at 9 o'clock and when told by his wife that she had lost her dog went out to hunt for it, stopping at several places to offer a reward of $15 for its return. He said he went to bed at 11 o'clock and did not wake up until 11:30 o'clock yesterday morning, when he partly dressed and went down to the kitchen, where he found his wife's body on the floor.

He said that when she retired on Wednesday night she handed him her valuables and he slipped them under the mattress of his bed in a front room on the second floor. Twice on Thursday morning his wife entered his room, he said, but did not speak to him, as he was only partly awake.

When questioned by Coroners Feinberg and Winterbottom, after they had examined the premises, Hart adhered to his story and seemed perfectly at ease. He added to the story previously told to the police the statement that five weeks ago he had found gas in an apartment at 214 East Eleventh Street, where they were then living, and on entering the bathroom found his wife in the bathtub with a tube leading from her mouth to the gas jet. She begged him, he said, to go away and let her die when he snatched the tube away.

The couple purchased the lease of the East Twenty-seventh Street house just a week ago, their attention having been attracted to it through a newspaper advertisement. They paid $450 in cash and gave notes for $265 in payment for the fixtures. They moved in last Saturday and became at once dissatisfied with their investment, offering to turn it back to Mrs. Louisa Frohm, from whom they made the purchase, if she would give them back their notes, retaining the $450 in cash which had been paid down. The cause of the dissatisfaction was the attitude of the lodgers, who insisted that the towels and linen and room fixtures were sadly worn and all in need of replacement with new stock.

Before her marriage Mrs. Hart was Annie Giunoisi. She was employed for a time as a button-sewer in a shirt factory and once essayed to be a stage dancer under the name of Irene Hart. Her career as a dancer was short, the husband said, although she afterward tried speaking parts before quitting the stage permanently.

During last April Hart left his wife for ten weeks as the result of a quarrel, he said, and found on his return that she had purchased a revolver because, as he says she explained, she was afraid of her Italian neighbors.

BIGGEST BISCUIT FACTORY.

Its Opening in Kansas City Occasion of a Great Celebration.

Officials of the National Biscuit Company are about to celebrate the completion of the largest of its chain of factories, one in Kansas City, by a luncheon to 500 prominent business men. Two special trains, one from New York and another from Chicago, are carrying the largest delegations of the biscuit company's guests. Private cars will bring guests from other large cities.

The luncheon will be given to-morrow on a floor of the new factory which has been especially decorated by scenic artists. One side of the great loft is devoted to a representation of a night scene in New York Harbor, with moving river traffic against a background of skyscrapers. A companion piece shows characteristic scenes of Kansas City.

The Chicago delegation will include H. H. Kohlsaat, publisher of The Record-Herald, and several prominent Chicago bankers. Kansas City will be represented by Mayor Dorian A. Brown, ex-Mayor H. M. Beardsley, J. C. Lester, President of the Commercial Club; J. C. Swift of the Live Stock Exchange, Congressman W. P. Borland, Judges E. E. Porterfield and J. A. Guthrie of the Circuit Court, Judge R. S. Latshaw of the Criminal Court, and many bankers, business men, and manufacturers.

Truly Warner Hatter to Mr. Goodresser

Broad brims are again the correct hat, Mr. Goodresser. Of course, the term "broad brims" only covers in a general way the vogue. As usual, I have produced broad brimmed derbies just a little bit different from those worn by the crowd. Just the styles you want, Mr. Goodresser.
